OH, SAY CAN YOU SEE

A mission bell symbolizes the city's heritage in this winning design for a San Rafael city flag. The design, submitted by Barbara Schlesselman, 16, of 213 North Almenar Drive, Greenbrae, was selected from more than 100 submitted by San Rafael school students. It was presented to the city council last night, but the council will wait until a cloth model is made before deciding whether officially to adopt it. The two blocks on each side of the flag will be a bright orange, and the bell and words "San Rafael" will be a dark blue on white.

Election Turnout Dampened By Weather, Bitter Words

Rain Cuts National Turnout

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Americans passed mid-term judgement on President Nixon's leadership of the nation today, casting ballots in the most bitterly contested off-year election since 1946.

Rain, snow and apathy kept millions of potential voters from the polls. With bad weather blanketing a large part of the country, fewer than half the citizens of voting age were expected to turn out to help choose 35 governors, 35 senators, 435 representatives and thousands of state and local officials.

CLOSE CONTESTS

In some battleground states, however, close contests brought out a bigger vote than political pundits had expected. Voter turnout was reported heavy in Connecticut, Texas, Tennessee, Georgia, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Pennsylvania and Vermont.

President Nixon who made his leadership the big issue of the election by campaigning personally in 22 states, declined to predict the outcome of today's balloting but told reporters: "I hope the voters get out all over the country. Now is the chance for the American people to speak for themselves."

Vice President Spiro T. Agnew, who carried the hod for the Republicans with barnstorming tours that covered 29 states, walked coatless through a driving rain to vote in his hometown of Towson, Md.

Rejecting Democratic charges that he poisoned the campaign with divisive oratory, Agnew told reporters he was proud of his contribution. "I think I've done what I set out to do," he said.

BITTER CAMPAIGN

Not since 1946, when Republicans swept into control of Congress by asking voters if they had "had enough" of Roosevelt-Truman administrations, has an off-year election stirred such acrimonious exchanges between the two major parties. It was in 1946 that Richard M. Nixon was elected to Congress, beginning the political career that led finally to the White House.

Despite the heavy voting in several key states, most analysts forecast a total vote of only 57 to 60 million, less than half of the electorate.

Although a light vote is traditionally regarded as a good omen for Republican candidates, final pre-election surveys indicated President Nixon had little chance of achieving his prime goal—Republican control of the Senate.

The consensus of "expert" forecasts—always subject to error—was that the GOP might pick up two, or a maximum of five, Senate seats. The minimum net gain the Republicans

Early Poll Slightly Off 1966

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—President Nixon and fellow Californians voted under generally sunny skies today in an election dominated during final bitter campaigning by the political stumping of the native son president.

The early voter turnout ran ahead of the June primary but slightly behind the 1966 gubernatorial election, when Gov. Ronald Reagan swept into office on a landslide.

At issue in the nation's most populous state was whether to retain Reagan and Sen. George Murphy in office or replace them with Democrats Jess Unruh and Rep. John V. Tunney.

NIXON VOTES

Nixon arose early at his oceanside villa and drove to a small schoolhouse near the Western White House in San Clemente to vote. Casting ballots with him were Mrs. Nixon and daughter Tricia, and two servants.

In Los Angeles County, about 8 per cent of the 3.1 million registered voters cast ballots in the first two hours—slightly ahead of the June primary pace.

Registrar-Recorder Ray E. Lee predicted between 75 and 80 per cent of the county's registered voters would turn out.

In San Diego County, the vote was running ahead of June as expected but behind 1966. The turnout at 9 a. m. was 5.78 per cent.

San Francisco Registrar Emmery Mihaley forecast a 77 per cent turnout. In Sacramento County, voting was described as "average" with 81 per cent forecast.

GOOD WEATHER

Statewide, about 6.8 million voters—78 per cent of those registered—were expected to cast ballots on a sunny day with generally warm temperatures.

Polls were open statewide from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m.

Nixon campaigned all-out for Murphy, placing his home state political prestige on the line and also touching off a rock-throwing demonstration in San

I-J Clear In Ruling By NLRB

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — The Independent-Journal has been cleared by the general counsel of the National Labor Relations Board of a union accusation that the newspaper has failed to bargain in good faith.

The decision of the general counsel of the NLRB in Washington, D.C., clearing the newspaper of charges of unfair labor practices, was received at NLRB offices here today.

Nathan R. Berke, an attorney for the I-J, said the labor board's regional office in San Francisco had been informed that charges by San Francisco Typographical Union 21 against the I-J were unfounded.

"The regional office and the general counsel in Washington concluded there is no merit to the charges," Berke said. "That means there will be no hearing."

In its complaint to the labor board, the typographical union, on strike against the I-J since January, had accused the I-J of unilaterally changing the greivance procedure regarding discharges, refusing to bargain in good faith to settle the strike; developing a profit-sharing plan that discriminated against union members.

The union's first claim stemmed from the firing of union vice president John DeMartini who was dismissed for not getting a substitute when absent

Robbins Appointed As City Attorney

San Rafael City Councilman Fred C. Robbins Jr. last night was appointed city attorney to succeed David Menary Jr. who was named a Marin Municipal Court judge, last month. (Other San Rafael City Council stories, page 3.)

Prior to appointing Robbins, the city council accepted Menary's resignation effective next Tuesday. It then appointed Robbins and voted to accept his resignation from the council when it is presented in writing.

Robbins abstained on the vote to appoint him and Councilman John A. Miskimen was absent, but Mayor C. Paul Bettini and Councilmen Fred E. Jensen and Harry A. Barbier formed the needed majority.

City Mgr. James H. McCown said later that the council probably will appoint a successor at its Nov. 16 meeting to complete Robbins's council term which expires in April 1973.

Robbins, 44, was appointed to the city council in January 1969 to succeed Louis H. Baar, who was elected to the Marin County Board of Supervisors.

He won election to the council in April 1969. He was a member of the San Rafael Planning Commission for more than six years before his appointment to the council.

He is a partner in the San Rafael law firm of Smallman and Robbins.

Judge Lifts Ban On Kent Probe Criticism

KENT, Ohio (UPI)—A federal judge today lifted a lower court order which banned critical comment on a special grand jury report on last spring's disturbances at Kent State University.

U.S. District Court Judge Ben C. Green criticized the ban, imposed by the Portage County Common Pleas Court.

"Public officials may not wield an ax when a scalpel is required," he said.

Green's decision lifting the ban was on a suit filed by the American Civil Liberties Union.

The special grand jury indicted 25 persons and absolved the Ohio National Guard of any blame in the deaths of four students, killed May 4 when Guardsmen fired at demonstrators on the Kent State campus. Those indicted did not include any Guardsmen.

Green said the lower court order was "overly broad." He said the grand jusy report went "far beyond consideration of the offense" on which the indictments were based.

"It considers the conduct of not only those charged with violations of the law, but also makes a critical report of the actions and conduct of officials of Kent State, the Ohio National Guard and others caught up in the events which transpired at the university," Green said.

Vote Light To Moderate By Late Morning; Polls Close At 8 P.M.

A light to moderate turnout of voters was reported by Marin precincts in today's general election.

The percentage of voters balloting by late morning averaged just over 20 per cent. County election officials have predicted an 83 per cent turnout by the county's 102,003 voters.

The polls will be open until 8 p.m.

Returns will be reported from the Civic Center by radio station KTIM starting at 8 p.m. The absentee ballots will be counted first, and partial returns will be reported each half hour.

The final tally is expected by 12:30 a.m., "or sooner," according to Peter C. Meyer, county elections officer.

The turnout was reported as follows: Stinson Beach Community Center, 61 of 381 registered; Tamalpais Valley Improvement Club, 107 of 576 registered; Sausalito Nursery School, 95 out of 482; St. Andrew Presbyterian Church, Marin City, 70 out of 393; Strawberry Point School, 53 out of 375; Park School, Mill Valley, 110 out of 485; Shepherd of the Hills Lutheran Church, Tiburon, 100 out of 508; San Anselmo City Hall, 119 out of 624; Henry C. Hall School, Larkspur, 142 out of 525; Neil Cummins School, Corte Madera, 85 out of 387; Corte Madera Town Hall, 75 out of 367.

The Meadows, San Rafael, 124 out of 562; the Guido Milani residence, 15 Taylor Avenue, Fairfax, 89 out of 575; the Ross home of William E. Carewe, 8 Norwood Avenue, 93 out of 376.

Lynwood School, Novato, 55 out of 375; Pleasant Valley School, Novato, 59 out of 436; Novato Fire Station No. 3, 110 out of 524.

At the Petaluma School Administration Building, 25 out of 145 registered voters had balloted by 10:30 a.m. At Petaluma's McDowell School, with three precincts, the figures were 38 out of 176, 36 out of 187 and 29 out of 182.

At Cotati School, 57 out of 270 had balloted.

San Jose Chief Plays Down 'Riot'

SAN JOSE, Calif. (UPI) — The police chief of San Jose says last Thursday's attack on President Nixon's limousine was something less than the "riot" which Nixon and other Republicans have claimed.

California labor leaders went a step further Monday, charging that the President himself provoked the incident for political purposes.

The assert draw a "no comment" from the Western Wtite House.

"The so-called riot has been exaggerated," said Police Chief Ray Blackmore, whose men guarded the auditorium parking lot where demonstrators chanted obscenities and threw an undetermined number of eggs and other missiles at the Presidential limousine.

"I did not have any concern that the demonstration would get physical," Blackmore told a group of San Jose State College students. "The 'barrage' on the President was verbal, not physical."

The chief said policemen who gathered debris in the parking lot after the incident only picked up "one bottle and a few rocks."

The police account contrasted sharply with that given by Republican Sen. George Murphy, who, with Gov. Ronald Reagan, accompanied the President during the Thursday night incident.

"This was so militant," Murphy said, "that I believe if that mob had been able to get hold of the President or the Governor or myself they would have torn us to pieces."

John F. Henning, executive secretary-treasurer of the 1.6 million member California Labor Council on Political Education, AFL-CIO, claimed President Nixon "personally aggravated and provoked the San Jose students for political purposes."

Henning and other labor leaders agreed with students who said the President's flashing the peace sign just before riding his limousine through the unfriendly crowd was a provocative act.

U.S. Viet Deaths Drop To 5-Year Low

WASHINGTON (UPI) — American combat deaths in Vietnam fell to a five-year low last week, a Pentagon official said Monday. The election-eve announcement came three days earlier than usual for weekly casualty reports.

Jerry W. Friedheim, deputy assistant defense secretary, did not say how many GIs lost their lives last week but it was understood the total was about 30. That would be the lowest total since the week that ended Oct. 23, 1965, when the toll was 14.

Friedheim was asked by reporters if there was any connection between the announcement, usually made on Thursday in Saigon, and the fact that the congressional elections were being held today.

He replied only that he made the announcement because it was "very significant."

Vietnam casualty totals have been running below 50 in a number of recent weeks. If last week's death total was 30, it would be lower than the 32 fatalities in the week ended Jan. 22, 1966.

Friedheim also announced that U.S. troop strength in South Vietnam was down to 374,000, compared to 543,000 when the Nixon administration took office.

Meanwhile in Saigon, U.S. military spokesmen said today four Americans were killed Monday when their helicopter crashed in the Mekong Delta. Another American was killed in a Communist ambush 35 miles from Saigon.

South Vietnamese troops reported killing 46 Communist troops and capturing 14 in a series of small battles in northern South Vietnam and southeastern Cambodia. Their own losses were set at two killed and four wounded.

In Cambodia, troops from a government task force at Tang Kauk 52 miles north of Phnom Penh fought a brief but sharp clash with an estimated 50 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong troops near their base Monday. A government spokesman said fighting also was reported under way today near the village of Prek Tamek, nine miles north-northeast of Phnom Penh.

Last week's floods, the worst in six years, left at least 193 persons dead and more than 204,000 homeless in the five northernmost provinces, South Vietnamese military authorities reported today.

Another 10 persons are missing and 11 injured. Some 5,759 homes were destroyed or damaged, military spokesmen said, and crop damage in the already rice short area ranged up to 80 per cent.

A LITTLE TOO FAR INLAND

A 685-foot container ship rests inland 64 feet on a pier at the Port of Oakland's Seventh Street Terminal. The mishap occurred yesterday morning as the vessel ran aground in heavy fog. The sea-land freighter, the Panama, capable of carrying 609 cargo containers, was two blocks off its intended docking area. Damage to the pier has been estimated at $100,000.

Israeli Source Says Tel Aviv Assumes Cease-Fire Extension

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

A military source in Tel Aviv said today Israel assumes the Suez Canal cease-fire will be extended before its scheduled expiration Thursday because neither the Israelis nor Arabs are anxious to resume fighting.

But, he added, Israeli troops will be in battle readiness as the 90-day cease-fire, which went into effect Aug. 7, draws to a close.

He said that if the Egyptians remained quiet on the west bank of the canal, Israeli troops on the east bank would continue to respect the truce even if there is no formal extension beforehand.

The spokesman said he expected the cease-fire to continue because the Arab world is still in a state of disarray because of the Jordanian civil war last month. He also said the new leadership in Egypt has not yet stabilized its position and probably is not ready to make any major decisions, such as it would be forced to do if fighting did resume.

Arab political sources in Beirut said earlier Palestinian guerrillas have begun a purge of their ranks in a shakeup believed aimed at leaders of the moderate Al Fatah organization.

Israel accused Britain Monday of damaging Middle East peace efforts with a call for Israeli withdrawal from occupied territories with room only for negotiations to make minor changes in the pre-1967 war boundaries.

"It is hard to understand why they think it useful now to enter the negotiations themselves and thereby to prejudice its outcome and to set the prospect of peace some distance backward," an Israeli spokesman said.

The British stand before the U.N. General Assembly debate on the Middle East chilled Anglo-Israeli relations only hours before Israeli Prime Minister Golda Meir arrived in London from Ottawa today for three days of talks, including meetings with Prime Minister Edward Heath.

An Israeli spokesman said the British proposal would restore the situation that led to the 1967 war and was unacceptable to Israel.

The debate ends today with Mexico due to speak. General Assembly President Edvard Hambro said a decision then would be made on whether to delay voting on proposed Middle East resolutions for a day or two to allow completion of a compromise resolution.

Voting Returns

Election returns from the Civic Center will be broadcast by radio station KTIM-FM beginning at 8 o'clock tonight. The station is at 100.9 on the FM dial.

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

Attacks Flights

MOSCOW (UPI)—The Soviet Defense Ministry today demanded the United States stop its "piratical flights" over Soviet territory.

The Ministrys newspaper Red Star, in a front page editorial, said "American imperialists" seeking to aggravate the international situation continue their "extensive military and intelligence activities directly near the borders of our country."

The editorial said there were more than 10 violations of Soviet air space by U.S. aircraft in the past three years. It linked the recent U8 incident with the shooting down of Gary powers U2 spy plane over Sverdlovsk in 1960, adding "it would be worth reminding how such piratical flights end."

The captives are Maj. Gen. Edward C. D. Sherrer, Brig. Gen. Claude M. McQuarrie Jr. and Maj. James P. Russell. Also with them in detention is Co. Civat Danli, a Turkish liaison officer who was with them aboard a Beechcraft U8 that inadvertently flew into the Soviet Union OCT. 21.

Airport Arrests

KARACHI, Pakistan (UPI)—Police have arrested three airport workers but have not connected them with the driver of a luggage van who rammed a receiving line for Polish President Marian Spychalski, news reports said today.

News reports said two drivers and another employee of Pakistan International Airways were arrested and two hand grenades seized in one of their homes.

Police questioned all airline employees who were at the Karachi airport Sunday when Mohammed Feroz drove a luggage van into the reception line, killing Zygfryd Waniak, deputy Polish foreign minister, and three Pakistanis. Spychalski and his wife were knocked down in the incident but were uninjured.

Warsaw Talks

WARSAW (UPI)—West German Foreign Minister Walter Scheel today opened direct talks with the Polish government expected to end in a treaty of goodwill, including German acceptance of Poland's western border at the Oder and Neisse rivers.

Negotiations of the agreement settling differences dating from World War II will take days and possibly weeks, Polish observers said today.

Paints Over Piccasso

VALLAURIS, France (UPI) —A Spanish dishwasher who wanted to draw attention to his artistic talent painted over a section of his countryman Pablo Piccasso's "War and Peace" mural at the local museum and then surrendered to police Monday night.

Officers quoted the unknown artist, Salvador Izcuerdo-Torres, 34, as saying, "I wanted to draw the attention of my illustrious compatriot to the difficulties that an unknown painter meets to make himself known to the public. They tell me I have talent but I don't sell my painting . . ."

Izcuerdo-Torres has been working as a dishwasher since coming here from Lausanne, Switzerland, police said.

Complain Of Sound

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The three major television networks received numberous telephone calls Monday night from viewers complaining about the poor sound track of President Nixon's 15-minute speech Monday night.

Network officials said — and the Western White House confirmed that the faulty sound was a part of the tapes provided by the Republican National Committee, which sponsored the paid political telecasts, and was not the fault of the networks.

The sound track faded in and out in volume, contained loud background Hum and at times carried such loud crowd sounds that Nixon's words were lost. Some irate callers thought there might have been political sabotage.

Vandalism Arrest

LONDON (UPI) — Police arrested a 35-year-old painter Monday night after two pool balls were thrown through a window of No. 10 Downing Street, Prime Minister Edward Heath's residence. Arnold Barraclough was charged with causing wilful damage.

Power Warnings

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A reserve power shortage in one of every four utility systems in the continental United States could result in blackouts or electrical shortages this winter according to the Federal Power Commission.

In a survey taken by the FPC of 187 large utility systems, 48 had generating reserves of less than 15 per cent for the winter peak load period.

The commission said that seven of the 15 systems in the Northeast have low reserves, but the region as a whole has a higher winter reserve margin than last winter.

Calley's Search

QUANG NGAI, South Vietnam (UPI)—First Lt. William Calley, charged with 102 murders in the alleged My Lai massacre, concluded his search for defense evidence near the scene today. He planned a trip to Saigon in quest of more information.

Calley, who is scheduled to go on trial before a general court-martial at Ft. Benning, Ga., later this month, talked to two Vietnamese rural development workers who were brought to provience headquarters in Quang Ngai city, seven miles southwest of the My Lai, Tuesday morning.

SALT Round

HELSINKI (UPI)—The Soviet Union today failed at the renewed Strategic Arms Limitation Talks (SALT) with the United States to emerge with concrete proposals for curbing the nuclear arms race.

Western sources disclosed that chief Soviet negotiator Vladimir S. Semenov did not present any Moscow plan to match that proposed by the United States in Vienna last July at the second phase of the talks.

The first full working session between the two sides at the third round of SALT was held at the Soviet Embassy and lasted 55 minutes.

30-DAY WEATHER OUTLOOK

According to information supplied by the National Weather Service, near normal precipitation and above normal temperatures will prevail in Marin County through the end of the month. Last year during the same period San Rafael registered 1.19 inches of rain, compared with the season average of 2.86 inches. Daytime temperatures for San Rafael last year averaged 69.6 degrees with the overnight range 47 degrees.

Council Likes Plans For Old Courthouse

The San Rafael City Council last night was given a look at plans for the development of the old San Rafael Courthouse property and liked what it saw.

Real estate broker Robert A. Roumiguiere, one of three men who paid $38,000 for an option to purchase the property from the county, presented an architect's sketch of the proposed development to the council.

The proposal, which was made public several months ago, calls for a remodeled courthouse annex containing office space; a highrise, five or six stories, office building with retail shops on the first floor, and two financial buildings, either banks or savings and loan associations.

The option of Roumiguiere, Ernest N. Kettenhofen and Independent-Journal publisher Wishard A. Brown to purchase the property expires next Tuesday.

Roumiguiere told the council last night that the three would ask the board of supervisors today for an extension of the deadline for payment of the remainder of the $767,000 total price of the property.

If the supervisors grant the extension, he said, the three will continue working on the plans for what they are calling "Mission Square." If the extension is not granted and another party picked up the option to purchase Roumiguiere said the three would be willing to help pursue development.

The Mission Square proposal calls for more than 50 per cent of the property to be open space with a fountain and plenty of trees.

Roumiguiere said he, Kettenhofen and Brown were attempting to develop the property for the good of San Rafael and there would not be much profit in it for them. "It's not economically attractive," he said, "but indications are it can be put together."

"It looks nice to me," said Councilman Harry A. Barbier, and Councilman Fred E. Jensen asked, "When are you going to start building?"

"I certainly hope you're successful," Mayor Paul Bettini said as the council directed City Mgr. James H. McCown to lend the city's support to the request of the three for an extension from the county.

San Rafael's Young Music Mecca Under Strong Attack

San Rafael's music mecca for Bay Area young people was ripped into last night by the San Rafael City Council as it searched for a way to close it. (Another San Rafael City Council story, page 1).

The subject of the council's scorn was the purple-painted Pepperland on Francisco Boulevard near Irving (Whitey) Litchfield's Bermuda Palms.

Litchfield also owns the Pepperland building which in recent months has housed top-name rock concerts which have drawn hundreds of young people.

But what might be popular with hundreds of young people is apparently not with many other persons. "I've never had so many complaints on one things since I've been mayor," Mayor C. Paul Bettini said, adding that it was not only the color of the building which was drawing complaints, but noise, crime and cars being broken into as well.

Councilman Harry A. Barbier described Pepperland as a "bad scene," and said, "The only thing Whitey Litchfield ever contributed to this city is a police problem."

The council told senior city planner Charles J. Linthicum to work with the city attorney to see what could be done to put an end to Pepperland.

Linthicum told the council that from a preliminary investigation, it appears that the concert-dance hall use would not be considered a legal nonconforming use of the building and thus require Litchfield or whoever is operating Pepperland to apply to the city for a use permit.

The San Rafael City Council also:

SERVICE STATION — Passed without discussion final adoption of a zoning ordinance amendment allowing service stations in C-1 districts and then rezoned the sites of two homes at 1117 and 1111 Lincoln Avenue from R-4 to C-1 to allow construction of a Mobile Oil Co. service station at the corner of Lincoln and Mission avenues.

UTILITIES — Authorized spending $8,388 for undergrounding utilities at the site of the old city corporation yard on Francisco Boulevard, with two-thirds of the cost to be reimbursed by developers of the property.

CLAIM — Denied and referred to the city's insurance carrier a $200,000 claim by Kenneth J. Burton of 2 Hansen Road, Novato, for injuries suffered in a San Rafael auto accident Sept. 27.

MEETING — Adjourned to its next regular meeting at 8 p.m. Nov. 16.

Silkscreen Class Being Offered

Those interested in participating in the 10-Tuesday course which will meet from 7 to 10 p.m. each session should contact Garvey. There will be a tuition charge.

Viet Prisoners Program Subject

A public program on the Vietnam prisoners of war and those missing in action will be held at a dinner meeting at 7 p.m. Friday at the Officers Club at Hamilton Air Force Base by the Novato Chapter of the Air Force Association, Marin Jaycees and Fighter Pilots Association.

Some wives of prisoners of war will be there and a film on the Vietnam war will be shown, according to Phillip Coady, president of the Novato chapter of the AFA.

Conditional Use Permit On Tap

A request for a conditional use permit to allow construction of a 22-unit housing development near the intersection of Santa Rosa Avenue and Glen Drive will be considered by the Sausalito Planning Commission tomorrow at 8 p.m. in city hall.

David Hunter, who is asking the permit, seeks to construct the development, which includes apartments, duplexes and some single-family homes, on 145,000 square feet of land which he owns.

Paper Judges Lindsay As Sexiest Man

LONDON (UPI) — Mayor John V. Lindsay of New York City topped a list of the world's 10 sexiest men published today by the London Daily Sketch.

"All other advantages aside, John Lindsay is the sexiest politician since Clark Gable turned down an offer to play George Washington," said Sketch writer Anthea Disney.

"He has the sort of features made for the back of coins: boyishly handsome, with faint creases of care around the eyes, a neon smile and normally o lack of hair falling over his forehead."

She advised the newspaper's readers they could see for themselves the charm of the New York mayor when he arrives Wednesday for a brief visit.

Runnersup in the 10 sexiest men list were Calvin Lockhart, actor; Alain Delon, actor; Frank Sinatra, actor and singer; Moshe Dayan, Israeli defense minister; Warren Beatty, actor; Pierre Trudeau, Canadian prime minister; Paul Newman, actor; Mick Jagger, singer, and Tom Jones, singer, in that order.

Missile Launched

VANDENBERG AFB (UPI)— A Minuteman intercontinental ballistic missile was launched from this coastal aerospace center Monday at 3:05 p.m. in an operational test down the Western Test Range. The launch was conducted by a crew from Whiteman Air Force Base, Mo.

Library Hiring Wins Approval

San Anselmo City Council, meeting last night in closed session, accepted a library board recommendation that Mrs. Marjorie Baubel of San Anselmo be hired as a 10-hour-a-week employee.

Formal hiring will come at the next city council meeting, Nov. 9, according to Mayor James F. Reed.

Reed said discussion involved whether the parttime position should be filled by a new employee or the work added to that of an already employed parttime worker.

Coin Club Meeting

The Marin Coin Club will meet at 7:30 p.m. tomorrow in the Redwood High School Faculty lounge. There will be a coin auction at the open meeting, according to Howard Graham, a spokesman for the club.

Petaluma Council To Seek Time To Stop Creamery's Pollution

Faced with a possible cease and desist order from the regional water quality control board, the Petaluma City Council last night requested a two-month extension to abate a source of pollution in the Petaluma River.

City engineer David A. Young said the board had ordered abatement of the Western Avenue storm drain where waste from the Petaluma Cooperative Creamery is dumped directly into the river.

Young said the waste is essentially cooling water from the plant, but has a higher oxygen demand than the river can tolerate. The discharge from the creamery places a daily flow down the river that resembles soap suds.

Arthur Cerini of the creamery said that new equipment has been installed, but that a needed transformer to complete the operation may not be ready until Jan. 1.

The council agreed to ask the control board to extend the abatement date until Jan. 1, but Young said he wasn't sure the board would grant it.

If the board issues a cease and desist order, the city could be faced with a fine of up to $6,000 per day.

The Petaluma City Council also:

MOBILE HOMES — Introduced an ordinance rezoning 28 acres on North McDowell Boulevard from agricultural to mobile home park. The rezoning plan, which was denied by the planning commission, will receive a public hearing on Nov. 16.

REZONING — Introduced an ordinance rezoning 601 D Street fron single family residential to multiple-family. A hearing was set for Dec. 7.

LIGHTS — Approved the installation of four additional lights at four city parks including McDowell, Luchessi, Oak Hill and Cherry Valley playground for a total annual additional cost of $156.

Oil-Spill Reports Asked Of Public

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — The Coast Guard wants Bay Area citizens to act as lookouts for oil spills and other pollution on the Bay.

Rear Adm. Mark A. Whalen, district commanding officer, said that if citizens report quickly on any oil slicks or other pollutants, rapid steps can be taken to minimize harmful effects and meet requirements of the Water Quality Improvement Act of 1970.

He asked persons sighting spills to notify the nearest Coast Guard facility, giving the location and size of the spill and the time it was spotted.

STOP SIGN — Referred the request of the Petaluma Parent Nursery School for a stop sign on Webster Street at Hayes Lane to the traffic committee.

OVERPASS — Approved a resolution urging the State Highway Commission to begin construction of a widened East Washington Street overpass of Highway 101 before January, 1972. The council also requested that first phase plans include a pedestrian overcrossing.

JOINT MEETING — Urged Mayor Helen Putnam to arrange a meeting with the Petaluma Board of Education and Old Adobe School District board on growth problems as soon as possible. She said a full scale meeting may not be possible until January, but that a preliminary meeting may be held in the next two weeks so that the council can have full information on the school crowding situation before considering additional annexations and subdivisions.

STUDY SESSION — Set a study session for next Monday at 7:30 p.m. on changing the meters in the A Street parking lot, a proposed fence ordinance and park development.

APPOINTMENT — Appointed Sharon Cincera as deputy city clerk.

CLOSED — Went behind closed doors to consider charges of misconduct against Planning Commission Chairman Paul Stanley and to consider an appointment to fill a vacancy on the commission.

ALMANAC

Today is Tuesday, Nov. 3, the 307th day of 1970.

The moon is between its new phase and first quarter. The morning stars are Mars and Saturn. The evening stars are Mercury, Venus and Jupiter.

Those born on this date are under the sign of Scorpio.

On this day in history:

In 1917 Americans at home learned of the deaths of U.S. soldiers fighting at Nancy, France, the first American fatalities of World War I.

In 1964 a record 67 million American voters went to the polls and Lyndon Johnson was elected president by the biggest majority in history.

A thought for today: American novelist Dorothy Canfield Fisher said, "A mother is not a person to lean on but a person to make leaning unnecessary."

45 Days Jail For Burglary Try

Dennis Victor Chesley, 20, of San Rafael, has been placed on probation for two years and given 45 days in jail for his part in the attempted burglary of a San Anselmo residence on June 10.

He was sentenced by Judge Peter Allen Smith, who sat at the Marin Superior Court trial in which Chesley and Robert Sterling Evans, 22, of San Rafael, were convicted.

Evans, who was also convicted of another burglary, is serving a six-month jail sentence.

HOW TO PLAY

WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

Even In World Championship, Players Fail To Look Ahead

Election day is a traditional time to look ahead — perhaps for several years. If you're a bridge player, you can rely on your training at the bridge table, where good things are sure to happen if you look ahead accurately enough. Because this column tells you nothing but the truth, I'll let you in on a little secret: Even in a world championship the players don't always manage to look ahead far enough.

LOW HEART RETURN

When today's hand was played last June in Stockholm, during the match between North America and Norway, one of the Norwegian experts won the first trick in the East hand with the ace of hearts and returned the nine of hears.

Bobby Wolff, of the American team, played a low heart from his hand, since he had a pretty good idea of what was going to happen. West ruffed and returned a club, driving out declarer's ace.

TRUMP ROUNDS

Wolff drew three rounds of trumps, ending in his hand, led the jack of diamonds for a successful finesse, and took the rest of his diamond tricks. Then he led the ten of clubs from dummy, not caring which opponent won the trick.

If West won, he would have to return a club or a diamond. Dummy would ruff, while South got rid of his last low heart.

If East won the club trick he could lead a heart, but his lead from Q-10 would let dummy's jack and declarer's king win separate heart tricks.

FORESIGHT

East showed a lack of foresight at the second trick when he returned the nine of hearts. He should have looked ahead to the 11th trick.

Suppose East returns the queen of hearts at the second trick. South must play the king, and West ruffs. The rest of the play is the same, and South eventually gives up a club.

11TH TRICK

East wins this trick and now at the 11th trick can lead the 10 of hearts from his 10-9. Dummy's jack wins, but East gets the nine of hearts as the setting trick.

DAILY QUESTION

Partner opens with one spade, and the next player passes.

You hold:
♠ — 9 8 2
♥ — A Q 10 9
♦ — 7
♣ — K J 6 5 4.

What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid three hearts.

This forcing raise promises strong trump support (usually Q-x-x-x or better), with a count of 13 to 16 points, including short suits as well as high cards. In this case you have 10 points in high cards and three points for the side singleton.

Student's Locker Gutted By Fire

A student's locker at Valle[illegible] School, 50 Nova Albion Way, San Rafael, was discovered gutted by fire at 7:30 a.m. yesterday, police said.

Damage to the locker which apparently burned Saturday or Sunday was estimated at $35. Value of the contents was undetermined.

THE VATICAN COUNCIL

Recollections Of Cardinal Cushing

By LOUIS CASSELS
UPI Religion Writer

After patiently sitting through four or five weeks of oratory — which under Council rules had to be conducted exclusively in Latin — Cardinal Richard Cushing decided to go home to Boston. Reporters interviewed him on his departure, fully expecting the routine explanation that "urgent archdiocesan affairs" called him home.

Instead, the ruggedly honest old Irishman said: "I can't understand a word they're saying so I might as well go home and get back to work."

The next occasion was the Kennedy inaugural, when Cushing delivered what must surely have been the longest prayer ever given on such an occasion. It was freezing cold, and people were fidgeting as they stood, trying to keep circulation going.

The rostrum began to belch smoke from an electrical short-circuit and firemen hurried forward to cope with it.

Through it all, oblivious to fire and freeze, the grand old man kept praying. And throughout the whole episode, Jack Kennedy struggled to keep from breaking into a grin.

Then there was the day when he presided at Jack Kennedy's funeral in St. Matthew's Cathedral in Washington. I was UPI's "inside" man with a seat up front. When Cushing started to leave the church at the end of the service, he paused by the casket, patted it gently with his hand, and said in as soft a voice as his penetrating brogue would permit: "Dear Jack, Dear Jack,"

Millions of Protestants will join Catholics in saying "requiescat in pace" (rest in peace). No Catholic prelate of our time, save Pope John himself, was as widely loved and respected by Protestants as Richard Cushing.

Prelate's Requiem Mass Is Scheduled Saturday

BOSTON (UPI) — The powerful, the rich and ordinary citizens who revered him in life paid homage today to Cardinal Richard Cushing, the blacksmith's son who died a prince of the Roman Catholic church.

Cushing, 75, died of cancer Monday, which was All Souls Day, when Catholics honor their dead. His body lay in state today at Holy Cross Cathedral, where his Requiem Mass will be offered Saturday morning. He will be buried at St. Coletta's Home for Retarded Children, an institution he founded in 1947 and which was one of his favorite concerns.

The cardinal, a priest for 49 years had been in ill health frequently since 1954. It was reliably reported he had cancer.

It was obvious in recent months that his health had failed still further. He lost weight and his strong voice weakened to a raspy whisper.

Last month Cushing retired as Archbishop of Boston after 26 years' service. Two years before, when he was assailed by some critics for defending the right of President Kennedy's widow to marry Aristotle Onassis, his offer to retire had been rejected by the Vatican.

The ceremonies Oct. 7 in which Archbishop Humberto S. Medeiros was elevated to Boston episcopate were an ecclesiastical rarity in that Cushing attended. Medeiros was with the cardinal at his home when he died shortly before 2 p.m. Monday.

Cushing's great warmth, humor and personal magnetism were the qualities that endeared him to both his priests and the Catholic laymen of Boston. His bubbling, jaunty informality startled people on a number of occsions—such as the times he danced Irish jigs with housewives at church celebrations or played Santa Claus in the red vestments which harked his rank — he called them his "glad rags."

The Cardinal was influential in the highest levels of Roman Catholic hierarchy and one of the leading American prelates for years, yet he was not deeply involved in theological scholarship. He returned to Boston after the first two sessions of the Ecumenical Council in Rome because, as he frankly told newsmen, he could not follow the proceedings, which were conducted entirely in Latin.

Cushing was best known for his friendship with influential people, particularly the Kennedy family. He was a long-tme friend of the Joseph P. Kennedy and adviser and confidant to his wife and sons.

President Kennedy was "Dear Jack" to Cushing. The Cardinal was given his Navy dog tags when the chief executive was assassinated in 1963. He presided at the funeral of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy when he was assassinated in 1968.

Cushing married John D. Kennedy — then a senator — to Jacqueline Bouvier in 1953. When the President's widow wanted to marry Onassis in 1968, he defended her right to do so, cautioning that she could not marry Onassis and remain a Catholic in good standing.

When critics of the marriage responded with "gutter" mail after his announcement, he offered to resign, saying "I[f] they don't understand me after 27 years, they'll never understand me." Pope Paul VI refused that retirement request.

The cardinal who first succeeded in his priestly career as an "armchair missionary," raising funds, had wanted for years to minister to the poor in South America, and first asked to retire in 1962, but the Pope did not accede to his request until about two months ago.

Lions Schedule Ecology Speakers

The newly chartered Northgate Lions Club will have a series of speakers on Marin environmental problems at its Friday morning breakfasts. The club then will select a project for improving the environment, according to club president Melvin B. Fox.

Lions International chartered the Northgate club on Oct. 16. It meets in the Oakview Club at the Meadows at 7:34 a.m. on Fridays.

Rain Gear Stolen

A raincoat and umbrella with a total value of $100 were taken at an unknown time from the auto of Horton P. Joaquin of 220 Canal Street, Apt. 40, San Rafael, police said today.

SHE'S FOR REAL, THE GUN ISN'T

"The gun she carries isn't real, but everything else is," says the Palo Alto record store owner who hired Marika Jung as his new security guard. He said the image of the house cop needed a soft touch.

Aviation Improvement Panel Formed As Watchdog Group

The Aviation Improvement Commimttee of Marin, a group of citizens who own or fly airplanes, has been formed to act as watchdog over aviation development in the county.

Gerald Bonner of Kentfield, who heads the group, told the Marin Aviation Commission last night that his organization will take a position on items on the commission agenda hereafter.

The aviation commissioners voted unanimously to ask the Marin County Board of Supervisors to recommend to the Golden Gate Bridge District that a heliport be considered along with a ferry terminal in Corte Madera or Larkspur.

A subcommittee, headed by Herbert Hanson, recommended that the airplane tie-down fee at Gnoss Field, which is now $15 per month, be raised by one-third, but commissioners took no action until further study.

Chairman Ray W. Foreaker Jr. said the next meeting of the aviation commission will be held at 8 p.m. Dec. 1, but the place of meeting is not decided. The commissioners met last night in the Marin Aviation Building at Gnoss Field.

Sausalito's Parking Ban Due Discussion

The merits of a partial parking ban on a two-block portion of Bridgeway in downtown Sausalito, begun in May, will be discussed by the Sausalito City Council at a special meeting Thursday at 8 p.m. in city hall.

In addition to assessing results of the no-parking test, the council will also consider the city's traffic problems, including several solutions which have been proposed by a consultant hired by the city, the Sausalito Businessmen's Association and Chamber of Commerce.

Tourism Declines

Actors Agree To Contract Extension

NEW YORK (UPI)—Actors Equity members have agreed to extend their present contract for two weeks with off-Broadway theaters while negotiations continue on the condition pay raises will become retroactive no later than Nov. 9.

Sean Callery, a spokesman for the 200 actors involved with 120 theaters, said Monday the performers, who make $75 a week now, are demanding $200 and better working conditions. The present contract expired Monday.

Blood Drive Slated For Music Professor

Dr. Warren was recently stricken with leukemia and is a patient at City of Hope Hospital, Duarte, Los Angeles County. Students, staff and faculty members donated 41 pints of blood for his fund in a drive on campus last week.

New Parking Ideas To Hub City Council

The San Anselmo Planning Commission last night approved parking recommendations which if accepted by the city council will require existing apartment houses to provide one space per housing unit.

Commission Chairman Philip S. Heinecke said today the action followed months of study by a citizens' street and traffic committee.

Heinecke said the three-part report recommends relaxing of variance procedures governing parking, waving of variance fees for parking applications at existing developments, and empowering the planning director to grant parking variances without consideration by the commission. The report also calls for a citizens' group to assist property owners seeking to expand or create additional parking space.

Heinecke said the recommendations apply to both hilly and flat areas within the city and cover only single family and multiple family units. Commercial developments are not included.

While the recommendations require parking expansion by some multiple dwelling units, Heinecke said the recommendations "only attempt to encourage" single family homeowners to expand parking. No requirement has been placed on them, he said.

In other action last night, the commission established a subcommittee to develop changes in planned development zoning to allow more flexibility.

Heinecke said the planned development zone now requires plans to be submitted at the time such a zone is requested and the zone is granted on the basis of those plans.

Should conditions such as traffic or drainage change before the development is constructed, the city is bound by its original zoning approval.

Petition Organizer Sees Nixon Censure Momentum

Mrs. James Melton, of 1171 Cambridge Street, Novato, spokesman for the drive, said not enough of the petitions had been returned to give any estimate of how many signatures had been gathered. But, she said, she was arranging to have 1,000 more petitions printed today in response to numerous calls from interested volunteers.

She said the petitions would be taken tonight to political campaign headquarters throughout the county, and "we expect to get a lot of signatures" though "not much response from Republican" campaign offices.

The petition drive seeks not only Nixon's censure but calls for a law banning any president from using "the American people's time, money and power given him by the people" to campaign for any other individual. The drive will go on "two years if necessary" to get the law, the Novato woman said.

She said the signed petitions will be presented to some United State senator to launch the censure action in Congress.

Mrs. Melton said support is rising from groups still involved in working for individuals and propositions on the ballot, that will take up the petition drive after today. "They're not radical groups, but I'm not at liberty to say who they are," she said.

Alto Homeowners Stopping Leaks

Homeowners in Alto are cooperating with the Alto Sanitary District's program to reduce infiltration of surface water into sewer lines, the district board was told last night.

Director Carl O. Heynen Jr. reported that property owners have repaired about half the 38 leaks in sewer laterals that the district discovered when it conducted smoke testing of the system.

In addition, Heynen said, the district has repaired 10 leaks in its own sewer lines. The fewer the leaks, he said, the less rain water will enter the system and find its way to the sewage treatment plant.

Two Injured When Car Leaves Road

Two 32-year-old Almonte men were injured last night when their car ran off Pine Hill Road in Almonte, according to the California Highway Patrol.

Wing S. Wong and Frederick Janeski, both of 357 South Morning Sun Avenue, were taken to Marin General Hospital following the 10 p.m. accident. Wong was treated for a scraped forehead and possible fractured rib, while Janeski was treated for a fractured right arm.

Officers said Wong told them he swerved his car to avoid an animal and struck a block wall at 371 Pine Hill Road.

No Action On Request By Allison

Board members said the request, submitted late last week, was "too big a matter" for hasty decision.

Twenty Drake High teachers sat through the meeting, finally presenting a petition urging the board not to accept Allisen's resignation as their principal. The petition was signed by al but two of the school's teachers and every noncertificated worker in the school, the delegation told the board.

The Tamalpais High School District Board also:

Good things come in little oak barrels.

What makes a brandy smooth?
Mostly, it's the wood the brandy is aged in. That's why the best barrels are small ones which allow close contact between wood and liquor.
Almadén Brandy is aged in little oak barrels.
The result is a drink that goes down so smooth, you hardly know you're swallowing.
Give it a try.

President's Stumping Sparked State Races

Jose that sparked a major controversy.

Nixon drew on the violent incident to dramatize the law and order issue over nationwide television.

Murphy took out a full page election eve ad in several newspapers to tell voters "the riot . . . which threatened the lives of President Nixon, Gov. Reagan and Sen. Murphy" made it clear the decision they faced was "between anarchy or law and order."

Tunney responded by accusing Murphy of "political terrorism" and said "this is one of the most incredible hatchet jobs that I've ever seen. It's rotten. It makes it appears as if a vote for me is a vote for anarchy."

Democrats implied the anti-war demonstration was exaggerated and probably planned.

Reagan, who was riding with Nixon and Murphy in the President's limousine and flashing demonstrators the peace sign, replied "if I'm going to plan anything, it's not going to be anything where they are throwing rocks at my head."

Pollsters predicted a big victory for Reagan, who challenged Nixon for the Republican presidential nomination in 1968.

The 59-year-old former actor based his second term bid on a record of economy in government and a "get tough" policy toward campus militants and welfare abusers.

Unruh, 48, the son of illiterate Texas sharecroppers who rose to speaker of the state Assembly, accused the Republican governor during a hard-hitting campaign of being controlled by "half-hidden millionaires" and big business.

Unruh and Tunney both blamed Republicans for California's rising unemployment rate, now 7 per cent.

Tunney, 36, son of former heavyweight boxing champion Gene Tunney, was slightly ahead of his 68-year-old opponent in the latest polls.

One issue dogged Murphy right to the end. That was his former $20,000 per year consulting contract with Technicolor. Tunney called it a "conflict of interest."

"That's all Tunney says—Technicolor, Technicolor, Technicolor," the senator complained.

Murphy emphasized his "belief in America" during the long campaign and pointed to legislation he sponsored in the fields of bilingual education and auto smog controls.

Californians also voted on six other statewide offices, all 38 California members of the House, half the state senators, all 80 assemblymen and the four members of the Board of Equalization. They also were confronted with 20 state ballot propositions and hundreds of local issues.

An army of 150,000 election officials manned the polls and processed ballots. Extra guards protected computer centers from threats of radical sabotage.

The two major political parties called on 100,000 volunteers to turn out friendly voters.

Democrats outnumbered Republicans by 54.9 to 39.8 per cent—a slight gain for the majority party since the primary. But Californians frequently cross party lines. They did in 1966 in electing Reagan by a landslide over former Gov. Edmund G. Brown.

Brown's son, Edmund Jr., was running in his first statewide race today. The 32-year-old Democrat contested Negro Republican James L. Flournoy for secretary of state.

Another Negro, Wilson Riles, was challenging Max Rafferty for the politically nonpartisan job of state superintendent of public instruction. At least one independent poll showed Riles could pull a major upset.

The parties poured hundreds of thousands of dollars into key legislative races in an attempt to gain control of the Senate and Assembly. The majority party next year will reapportion congressional and legislative districts and draw California's political map for a decade. Republicans now hold a one-vote advantage in each house.

The most controversial ballot proposition was No. 18 to allow local government to spend up to 25 per cent of its gasoline tax revenue for smog-fighting purposes.

In other statewise races, Los Angeles District Attorney Evelle J. Younger, a Republican, was running against Deputy Attorney General Charles A. O'Brien for attorney general; former Brown aide Milton G. Gordon was contesting Republican incumbent Ivy Baker Priest for treasurer; Democrat Ronald Brooks Cameron was challenging GOP incumbent Houston I. Flournoy for controller, and state Sen. Alfred E. Alquist, D-San Jose, opposed Republican incumbent Ed Reinecke for lieutenant governor.

Elections Are Far Off In Greece

ATHENS — (Toronto Telegram News Service) — Sudden press speculation in Athens about "imminent political developments" — ranging from the naming of a date for elections to the return of King Constantine from three years of self-imposed exile in Italy — has been firmly squashed by the Greek government.

The next Greek elections, it has been made clear, still lie in the indefinite future.

The speculation coincided with the U.S. decision to resume full-scale military assistance to Greece, sharply curtailed after the 1967 military takeover and the formal visit to Athens of U.S. Defense Secretary Melvin Laird.

Despite the logic of the aid resumption, in view of the importance of Greece to NATO defense at a time of growing Soviet penetration in the Mideterranean, belief apparently persisted in some quarters that there had been political horse-trading between Athens and Washington over the supply of military hardware.

The government spokesman, George Georgalas, has made it clear that there has been no change in the government's determination not to restore parliamentary administration until the country is safeguarded against a return to the methods and personalities of the old Greek political world.

In a recent radio and television address, he listed five basic targets to be attained before elections could be held.

The per capita income must reach $1,100 annually and the economy must become self-sustaining and in a position to amortize productive investment.

Administrative decentralization and reorganization must be completed.

Social inequalities between income groups and regions of the country must be reduced.

The reform of the educational system must be completed.

While these targets did not necessarily have to be achieved in full for elections to be held, they must be achieved "to the point where the country is secured against the danger of retrogression," Georgalas said.

The government would decide "when we have reached a point permitting us to set a prospect for elections," and, he said, there was no question of any timetable.

While much of what Georgalas said was a re-statement in greater detail of known government policy, the spokesman — who holds the rank of undersecretary to Prime Minister George Papadopoulos with responsibility for press and information — advanced the issue further than it had been taken before by looking to what would happen when elections were eventually held.

It was a mistake, Georgalas said, to think that elections would mark "the end of the revolution;" they would rather be "the beginning of its parliamentary phase."

While the pro-government newspapers welcomed the statement, viewing the government targets as far outweighting in importance any talk of early elections, the undersecretary was taken to task by two traditionally right-wing, royalist newspapers.

The morning newspaper Acropolis maintained that "much of what Mr. Georgalas said was not in keeping with the Western spirit or with government policy as expressed by the prime minister," objecting particularly to "the contention that economic development in Greece cannot take place under a democratic regime."

The afternoon newspaper Vradyni, in a long front-page editorial, described the targets listed by Georgalas as conditions for a return to parliamentary rule as "completely vague and capable of indefinite prolongation."

Bomb-Making Tools Seized; Six Arrested

NEW YORK (UPI)—Six persons were arrested in raids on three apartments that produced tools and supplies for assembling bombs, a small library on demolition techniques and maps showing the layout of more than 50 buildings in New York and Chicago, authorities said Monday.

The six including four said to be members of the revolutionary Weathermen group, were arrested on charges of conspiracy to commit murder and arson and conspiracy to make bombs.

Bronx District Attorney Burton B. Roberts, who announced the raids, said the apartments had been under surveillance in connection with a series of recent bombings in this area. However, none of the six was charged with an actual bombing "at this time," he said.

Among the articles seized in the three apartments — two in the Bronx and one in Manhattan — were 400 blank draft cards printed by a metal plate, which was recovered, Roberts said. The alleged bomb supplies included batteries, watches for timing devices, bullets, railroad flares, ball bearings and tools for cutting pipes.

Roberts identified those arrested as Donald Cavellini, 27, a graduate of the City College of New York, employed as a clerk; his twin brother, William, of Sovermville, Mass., studying for a master's degree in urban affairs at Massachussets Institute of Technology; Beth Katz, 27, a graduate of Brandeis University employed as a librarian; Jefferson Bernard, 19, of Syracuse, an unemployed laborer; Mary Doyle, 54, a clerk; and her son, Timothy, 28, unemployed. All but Mrs. Doyle and William Cavellini were members of Weathermen, the district attorney said.

Roberts said Cavellini's, Mrs. Katz's and Mrs. Doyle's apartments had been under surveillance for some time but the raids developed by accident Sunday night, when two patrolmen investigated a report that a man with a gun had been seen in Cavellini's apartment.

They knocked at the door and Donald Cavellini answered, Roberts said, but he slammed the door again when he saw the police. The officers got inside through a read window and found the bomb supplies, the books on explosives and plans for the buildings.

After these discoveries, Roberts said, his staff decided to obtain warrants immediately and search the other two apartments, where other materials were found.

Pot Charges Are Dismissed

Marijuana charges against Neal Richard Kraemer, 22, of no known address, were dismissed yesterday in Marin Municipal Court by Judge Alvin H. Goldstein Jr. because the evidence had not been analyzed.

The district attorney's office is without a laboratory expert to make such analyses and is trying to make arrangements with federal or state chemists for the tests.

Kraemer was arrested Aug. 1 by sheriff's deputies and was accused of having pot and a pipe for smoking it.

Hub School Board Meets On Rec Tax

The San Anselmo School District Board, meeting today at 7:30 p.m., at Hidden Valley School, will continue discussion of an agreement with the City of San Anselmo for utilization of the district's community service tax for recreation.

The board will also consider formation of its District Goals and Philosophy Committee and hear a report on multi-ethnic education, among other agenda items.

Hearing Set For Man In Car Theft

George Edward Myers, 23, of no known address, pleaded innocent yesterday in Marin Municipal Court to a charge of car theft. A preliminary hearing was set for Friday.

Myers was arrested last Thursday after a high speed chase through downtown San Rafael after he had been seen driving a car with no lights on at 8:25 p.m. The car had been reported stolen from a San Anselmo man.

Bad Weather Cut Vote In Much Of Nation

need to wrest control from the Democrats is seven.

Democrats were expected not only to hold their own but probably make slight gains in the House, as well as to pick up several key state governorships —a vital factor in jockeying for the 1972 presidential election.

Nelson Rockefeller as governor of New York; Hubert H. Humphrey as comeback-senator from Minnesota, Ted Kennedy as senator from Massachusetts, Edmund S. Muskie as senator from Maine, George C. Wallace as governor of Alabama, Ronald Reagan as governor of California.

But even though they seemed home free, they too had to sweat out tonight's reurns, for he size of their winning majorities will affect their political potency for 1972.

As always, the election was likely to turn up some important new faces. Among those with fair to good prospects of victory were Democrat Dale Bumpers as governor of Arkansas; Conservative James L. Buckley as senator from New York; Democratic State Sen. Lawton "Walking Lawton" Chiles for senator from Florida; Democratic State Treasurer Adlai E. Stevenson III as senator from Illinois; Democrat John J. Gilligan as governor of Ohio; Democrat John V. Tunney as senator from California, and Fr. Robert F. Drinan, a Catholic priest, as a congressman from Massachusetts.

The campaign was the most bitterly contested of any off-year election in many years, with President Nixon putting his personal prestige on the line by barnstorming through 22 states.

But even before the weather turned sour, a light turnout of voters was indicated in many areas. The evidence was that the electorate was not greatly stirred either by Republican attempts to saddle Democrats with blame for violence and disorder, or Democratic attempts to pin on Nixon responsibility for rising prices and growing unemployment.

Those who needed only a small excuse for leaving their franchise un-exercised found it in the cold wet weather which covered most of the nation from the Rockies to the East Coast.

Snow was reported along the eastern slopes of the central Rockies and rain or drizzle fell over the central plains to the upper Great Lakes.

There was light snow mixed with rain in Minnesota and Iowa. Farther east, showers or steady rains were common from the upper Ohio valley into the Middle Atlantic states and on down into the Carolinas. Unseasonably cool weather invaded much of the western half of the nation as well as parts of the deep South.

West of the rockies, and in the Southwest, the Gulf Coast and in parts of upstate New York and New England, the weather was either fair or threatening at worst.

CLEAR

during working hours, the attorney said.

The profit-sharing charge, Berke said, was unfounded because all employees are treated alike in the program.

The union can ask reconsideration of the Washington ruling within 10 days, Berke said.

In contrast, charges of unfair labor practices brought by the Independent-Journal against the union have been confirmed by the labor board.

A trial examiner ruled Sept. 3 that mechanical superintendent Gordon Dixon had been illegally disciplined by the union.

On Aug. 17, the examiner ruled the typographical union and two Teamsters' locals were guilty of illegal secondary boycott in trying to halt shipments of newsprint at a San Francisco pier that were destined for the I-J.

On June 24, a U.S. District Court judge found the striking union guilty of illegal picketing in violation of an injunction. The complaint was filed by the labor board.

Contempt hearings are now underway in federal court here against the striking union, two Teamsters' unions and a longshoreman's local for civil and criminal contempt. The NLRB charges the four labor groups with illegal secondary boycott aimed at coercing businesses to halt advertising in the paper.

The charges stemmed from a three-week wildcat boycott in Central Marin by teamsters trying to stop trucks making deliveries.

Arraignment On Burglary

Daniel Raymond Christian Prince, 20, of 87 Marina Vista, Larkspur, was arraigned yesterday in Marin Municipal Court on a charge of burglarizing a Larkspur residence on Oct. 14.

His case was continued to next Monday for entry of plea.

Prince was arrested last weekend on a warrant charging that he was the person who fled the home of Virginia Ann Schryver of 108 Ardmore Road after she surprised him in the house.

Pot Cultivator Gets Jail Term

Judge E. Warren McGuire of Marin Superior Court yesterday placed Martin Gerald Bida, 25, of no fixed address, on probation for one year and sent him to jail for 15 days for a marijuana offense.

Bida had earlier pleaded guilty to having pot when arrested in September 1969 near Point Reyes Station.

Sheriff's deputies said that he had pot plants, a machete and three books on how to raise marijuana in his car.

Larkspur Youth Gets Sentence

Judge E. Warren McGuire of Marin Superior Court yesterday sentenced Peter Winston House, 18, of Larkspur, to the California Youth Authority on charges of attempting to burglarize a car and possessing LSD.

House, who earlier had pleaded guilty to the charges, was arrested Sept. 13 in Sausalito.

At the time of the guility pleas, another charge of burglarizing a Corte Madera laundromat was dismissed.

Mrs. Abras Says Police Report Erred

Irmgard Abras of 16 Elaine Way, San Rafael, said yesterday that the police erred in reporting she had been treated last Thursday at Marin General Hospital for an overdose of tranquilizers.

Mrs. Abras said she had not taken an overdose and that no treatment was necessary at the hospital, as she had merely felt groggy. She was taken to the hospital at 5:30 p.m., she said, not 3:30 p.m. as reported in Friday's I-J.

Petty Theft Draws 3-Year Probation

Delores May Brattin, 384 Monte Vista Lane, Petaluma, was placed on three years probation in Southern Sonoma Municipal Court yesterday for petty theft.

Judge Alexander, J. McMahon suspended a three month jail sentence and ordered her to make restitutiin for the $100 taken for the Wilson School Parent-Teacher Association. Mrs. Brattin pleaded guilty after a felony grand theft charge was reduced to the misdemeanor.

Novato Forming Housing Group

A committee will be formed to study the housing element of the Novato master plan, the Novato City Council decided last night after a joint meeting with the Novato Planning Commission.

The two bodies could not agree on the size of the committee, but the council asked for volunteers to serve it, reported secretary Peggy Lehigh.

The committee would meet every two weeks to study all phases of housing in the city. The city shall furnish a secretary and keep the minutes of the meetings, she said.

OBITUARIES

Rites Held For William Wade

Funeral for William Wade of San Rafael has been held in San Rafael, followed by inurnment in Mount Tamalpais Cemetery.

Wade died in a local convalescent hospital Oct. 25. He was a native of Missouri and a retired postal inspector who worked 15 years in San Francisco. He is survived by his wife, Nina Wade, and a daughter, Doris Chiaravalle, both of San Rafael, and a sister and a brother, Florence Long and Edward Wade, of Hannibal, Mo.

He was a veteran of Army service in World War I and a member of the American Legion.

RUTH HOOPER

Private service was held yesterday for Ruth Irene Hooper of San Anselmo.

Mrs. Hooper, 57, of 222 Los Angeles Boulevard, died Sunday at a local hospital following a short illness.

A native of San Francisco, she had lived in Marin County about 25 years.

Mrs. Hooper was the wife of the late Fred A. Hooper, a Marin County deputy sheriff for many years.

She was employed at Macy's in San Rafael and was a member of the Order of the Eastern Star.

Surviving are a daughter, Valora Pitts of San Anselmo; two sisters, Wilma Dallas of Santa Clara and Elaine Petrovsky of Millbrae, and two grandchildren.

EDNA HENDREN

Funeral for Edna J. Hendren, 81, retired Marin and Sonoma teacher, will be held at 2 p.m. tomorrow at the Sorensen Funeral Home in Petaluma.

Mrs. Hendren died Sunday at a local hospital after a short illness.

A native of Bloomfield, she was the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Conrad Boysen, early settlers. Mrs. Hendren was a graduate of San Jose State College and taught school in Hawaii, Nicasio, San Rafael, Cinnabar and Liberty before her marriage in 1926 to William Hendren, a retired rancher.

After her marriage, Mrs. Hendren served as a substitute teacher in the Petaluma School District. She was a member of the Morning Star Chapter No. 61, Order of Eastern Star and the Two Rock Valley Presbyterian Church.

Intombment will be at Cypress Hill Memorial Park.

Contributions may be made to the Two Rock Valley Presbyterian Church.

JOHN McLEAN

Funeral for John McLean, stepfather of Arthur Whitley of Fairfax, was to be held today in Fayette, Iowa.

McLean died Friday in a San Rafael convalescent hospital at the age of 83. He was a native of Iowa, and had lived for 11 years in Marin County. He also is survived by three grandchildren.

ANNA ALVES

Anna A. Alves of San Rafael, sister of Mary Brazil of Petaluma, died yesterday in a local hospital, after a brief illness. She was 60.

A native of Pescadero, she lived in Marin County some 20 years before moving to Sonoma County with her late husband Joseph A. Alves, a rancher. She had returned to Marin County two years ago, living at 215 Bayview Street, San Rafael.

The funeral will be at 2 p.m. Thursday in Harry M. Williams Mortuary, San Rafael. Burial will be in the Odd Fellows Cemetery, Santa Rosa.

MARY E. COOK

Mary E. Cook, 96, a lifelong Petaluma resident, died yesterday at a local hospital after a long illness.

Mrs. Cook was the wife of the late Charles Cook and made her home with a cousin, Allen Hart, 4955 Lakeville Highway.

Requiem Mass will be offered at 9:30 a.m. tomorrow at St. James Catholic Church, Petaluma. Intombement will be at Calvary Cemetery. Recitation of the Rosary will be at 8 p.m. at the Sorensen Funeral Home, Petaluma.

MRS. ALLISON

Private funeral has been held for Harriet Allison of Berkeley, sister of Vera Allison Gaethke of Mill Valley.

Mrs. Allison died Oct. 23 in an Albany hospital after a long illness. She was 69.

Born in San Francisco, she lived there until going to the University of California. She lived in the Berkeley area for the rest of her life, which was punctuated with trips to Europe, Asia and the South Seas.

In the mid-1920s she wrote a dictionary of the language of Niue in the South Pacific. After returning to the university, she took a bachelor's degree in about 1932.

Able to read half a dozen languages, she became a research assistant to Professor Emeritus Charles Kent of the University of California Department of Paleontology in 1956 and retired in 1966 due to ill health. She had worked as a legal secretary during World War II.

Mrs. Allison, who resumed her maiden name following a divorce, is also survived by a daughter, Barbara Kennedy of New York, a brother, George Allison of Washington, D.C., and two grandchildren.

Berliners Want One City

By EDWARD K. DeONG

CHEPOINT CHARLIE, East Berlin (UPI)—They stood in the deepening twilight —two young women in heavy coats, one grasping the handle of a baby carriage, and a young man in an ill-fitting winter suit —and stared through the barrier toward the lights of West Berlin.

Their eyes seemed to carry them across the ugly wall — across the barren and brightly illuminated "death strip," past the machinegun-armed guards in gray uniforms at this border crossing, into the forbidden side of their divided city.

They were not alone. other little groups of East Berliners kept similar vigils nearby, perhaps 25 in all, few of them talking. Occasional tour buses from the west, finishing their last trip of the day, wound through the obstacle course of the checkpoint into a bustle of life the East Berliner may visit only in his mind.

For perhaps 20 minutes they stood there as the early darkness fell. Then slowly, they turned and walked toward home, past the drab store fronts, pushing the baby carriage up dimly-lit Friedrichstrasse to the east.

No matter which side of the wall is theirs, one of the dominant feelings expressed by Berliners is a longing for an undivided city.

On the East, the longing is told mainly by the eyes of those who gaze across the border toward parents they may not visit or grandchildren they have never held. Only occasionally will an East Berliner say to a visitor, a stranger, that he wishes things were different.

On the West, the signs are stronger. New autobahns are planned to run through the entire city, although now they stop short at the border wall. And the West Berliner, while often expressing hatred for the East German government, never seems to cease a hopeful search for the slightest hint the border might be reopened.

"It will be, one day," they assure you in conversations on the street, in ships and bars, in their homes. "It must be. We are still a single city."

There is a general feeling that the West German government will recognize the present border between Germany and Poland, accepting the East German government's grant of two large areas of land to Poland. In return, West Berliners hope, their city will be granted some concessions by East Germany, which surrounds them.

Until 20 minutes after midnight on Aug. 13, 1961, the two sides of Berlin were not entirely isolated. Many East Berliners worked in Western sectors, and families from the West crossed into the East to visit relatives and friends.

Then the wall began going up.

Today it stretches across the entire city, an obscene scar of white concrete slabs stacked eight or nine feet high, topped by round tiles, and of empty buildings with bricked-up windows and doors. Daily, workmen add new refinements.

"They have recently added a mercury vapor light system," said Lt. Col. Richard Terry, a top official in the U.S. Berlin brigade. "This was very expensive, about the same type system you'd find back home on the interstate highways or on big city streets."

By night, these lamps bathe the death strip with daylight brightness.

Neither East Berliners nor West Berliners may cross this border now, or even talk across it by telephone. Those in the West do not try to get into the East and today —because word of the wall's formidable fortifications has spread through the East —escape attempts from East to West Berlin are rare.

Virtually all of last year's 729 escapees from East Germany crossed into the West somewhere other than in Berlin.

Almost nightly there are reports of shots fired from the guard towers. But the last documented shooting of a would-be escaped took place months ago.

About six weeks ago, in the last escape U.S. military officials in Berlin said was successful, two guards left their tower together and swam across a canal to the West carrying their weapons. Escapes by a single guard are unheard of, because they are stationed in pairs.

"Because 65 guards have been shot by their buddies near the wall, the guards now are fairly trigger happy," Terry said. "They tend to shoot at anything suspicious, rather than climbing down to see what it is."

East Berlin is no longer the grim and desolate place it once was, although it hardly compares with West Berlin.

In recent years the Communist government has spent millions trying to erase the scars of World War II from the capital of East Germany and make it a more beautiful, more modern city.

From an initial showplace of reconstruction along Karl Marx Allee, with a few modern apartment buildings and shops, the city has expanded vastly its housing improvements and has developed one large shopping center not unlike those found in the West.

"But many, many people still live in apartments that are very old and that are in a bad state of repair," an East German guide said. "In addition to the new apartment buildings, there is a program to improve the old apartments. But much remains to be done."

East Berlin's streets still present an atmosphere of the 1930s.

There are few cars, and many of those that do travel the roads are very old. By far the greatest traffic through the city is pedestrian. Streets are poorly lighted, and most stores and shops are devoid of window displays. Neon signs are rare and generally small.

Stylish clothes seem almost non-existent. Durability, instead, seems the objective. One afternoon's ride through the downtown streets turned up no midi or maxi skirts or coats, only one mini skirt, and absolutely no flare pants or other mod styles.

Most women wore sweaters and either knee-length full skirts or straight-leg slacks. Most men were dressed in rather baggy trousers, generally with sweaters or work jackets, and the few who wore suits seemed to have been inexpertly fitted. Colors tended to be dark.

Even so, the scene can be misleading. Communist Party Secretary Walter Ulbricht has been bringing the East German economy up steadily from an almost zero level after the war. Almost half the labor force today is female.

"He has brought the economy of his country to the point where it is the highest of any of the Eastern-bloc countries in Europe," Col. Terry said.

By contrast, West Berlin is a bright and bustling city with streets full of cars and stores bursting with goods and customers.

Put back on its feet initially by the Marshall Plan, supported in its isolation by the occupying Western powers — the United States, Britain and France —West Berlin is today an international city with an industrial base growing toward self-sufficiency. About two-thirds of Berlin's 3.2 million inhabitants live in this part of the city.

The West German government pays 94 per cent of the cost of maintaining West Berlin's occupied status. In addition, to keep the city from being inhabited only by the very young and the very old, the West German government encourages migration to Berlin.

West Germans who move to West Berlin receive income tax reductions and may qualify for interest-free government loans of up to 10,000 marks (about $2,740).

In addition, the government provides marriage loans of up to 10,000 marks for eligible couples who get married in West Berlin. The birth of one child in the city erases one-fourth of this debt. Birth of a second child cancels another one-fourth, and with the birth of a third child the whole loan is forgotten.

Because raw materials must be brought into West Berlin, and most manufactrered products exported, most of its industries are small. Nevertheless, the city is extremely prosperous and its people seem to enjoy a very high standard of living.

Products in the stores are brightly displayed and cover the entire range of consumer goods. Fashionable clothes, both for men and for women, are the rule rather than the exception. Night life abounds, and the streets are full until the wee hours of the morning.

Although the city is in every sense occupied by a garrison of soldiers from three nations, the military presence is almost invisible.

30-Car Pile-Up Kills Eight

LODI, Italy (UPI)—A flaming 30-car pileup on Italy's Autostrada superhighway today killed eight persons and injured more than a score others.

Ambulances, fire engines and police units sped from neighboring towns to a stretch of the highway between Milan and Lodi to help extricate trapped and injured motorists and get them to hospitals.

Police officials said two truck drivers, whose headon collision around dawn triggered the chain reaction wreck, were killed outright and that six other persons died from injuries.

High DDT Levels In Sea Lions

PACIFIC GROVE (UPI) — The Hopkins Marine Station reports record high levels of DDT in the carcasses of dead sealions, which it says could explain the disease that has cost 90 of them their lives.

Dr. John Phillips said Tuesday one reading of 3,900 parts per million in the blubber of one animal and an average of 1200-1500 parts per million. The highest reading ever recorded in sea life previously by the station's laboratory was 1,029 parts per million, Dr. Phillips said.

He emphasized that autopsies on the animals won't be made officially for several days.

New Limits On Pollution Due Hearing

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — Tough new limits on proposed on industrial air pollution will have their first public hearing by Bay Area Air Pollution Control District directors at 10 a.m. Thursday in district offices, 939 Ellis Street.

The proposed new regulations hammered out during a 15-month battle between the district's advisory council and Bay Area industry, severely reduce existing limits on emissions. If adopted by the board, the new regulations would be the toughest in the nation, according to the district's chief administrative officer, D.J. Callaghan.

Spokesmen for both industry and conservation citizen groups are slated to testify at the hearing, which may run over to Friday.

The board's personnel committee will meet first at 8:30 a.m. to consider appointments to the advisory council under a new state law that requires more members be selected from conservation groups. The full board will convene at 9 a.m. to discuss a long-postponed request from a citizens group to disclose all data on industrial pollution.

Five Drivers Sentenced

Five persons have been sentenced in Marin Court by Judge Alvin H. Goldstein Jr. for drunken driving.

Ray Harold Buckland, 42, of 202 South Street, Sausaltio, arrested July 12, 1969, in Sausalito, was placed on probation for two years, fined $250 and sent to jail for five days.

Tauno Victor Sjoblom, 51, of Novato, arrested April 4 in Novato, was placed on probation for one year and fined $200.

Rolland Charles Saunders, 44, of 389 Riviera Drive, San Rafael, arrested Sept. 3 in San Rafael, was placed on probation for six months and fined $100.

Charles Howell Olson Jr., 31, of 44 Meadow Road, Mill Valley, arrested June 6 on Highway 101, was placed on probation for one year and fined $125.

Eleanor Theodora Mole, 46, of 18 Somerset Lane, Mill Valley, arrested May 14 on Sir Francis Drake boulevard, was placed on probation for one year and fined $150.

Cigarette Tax Share Is $3,851

The unincorporated areas of Marin County received $3,815 and of Sonoma County $15,687 as their cigarette tax apportionments for October, the state controller's office has reported.

Apportionments to cities in Marin and Southern Sonoma were: Belvedere, $316; Corte Madera, $2,657; Cotati, $350; Fairfax, $1,084; Larkspur, $1,494; Mill Valley, $2,175.

Teacher Tamara Robertson is to play works by J. S. Bach.

Tarantino's Living Quarters Approved

Living quarters built behind Tarantino's Restaurant in Bolinas won legal approval yesterday from Ralph D. Cairns, Marin County deputy zoning administrator.

Ludwig Tarantino had built the living quarters without a permit about two years ago as an addition to his restaurant at 32 Main Street.

Cairns approved a use permit for the addition on condition that Tarantino submit plans to the county building inspector and comply with all county codes.

The deputy zoning administrator also:

NEW HOME — Delayed a decision on a request by Terry Sochet of Sausalito for variances to build a home on a 2,500-square-foot lot at 198 Stanford Avenue, Mill Valley. Mrs. Sochet asked for a home with 1,200 square feet of floor space, which Cairns said is too large for the size of the lot.

VARIANCES — Approved a dining room addition for Klaus and Ellen Werner of 20 Corte Dorado, Greenbrae; and construction of a carport roof and screening fence at the home of David E. Geissinger at 151 Homestead Boulevard, Mill Valley. Structures in both cases would intrude slightly into the required setback areas.

Panthers File $10 Million Suit

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — A $10 million damage suit filed by the Black Panther party against the Los Angeles Police Department charging harassment and deprivation of civil rights has been dismissed in federal court.

U.S. District Court Judge A. Andrew Hauk ruled Monday the Panthers "failed to set forth sufficient facts to give the court jurisdiction over the plaintiffs."

Hauk said a new complaint could be filed if new facts were available. The suit stemmed from a raid by police on Panther headquarters here earlier this year that resulted in a two-hour gun battle.

Two Icelandic Stow-Aways Caught, But After The Fun

REYKJAVIK (UPI) — Two youthful Icelandic fishermen apparently wanted some fun American style but were refused entry at a U.S. Air Force base.

Outraged, they stowed away on a flight to New York, slipped past customs, saw the real thing for 12 hours and repeated the performance for the flight home.

They were caught on arrival at Keflavik Airport and were back aboard their boats today to await the decision of the prosecutor.

Manager Gretar Kristjansson of the Icelandic airliner, Ioftleidir, said the two, aged 19 and 24, at least would have to pay their fares.

Police did not identify the youths but said they tried last Thursday to enter the U.S. base club at Keflavik to have some fun but were denied admittance.

Angered, they went to nearby Keflavik Airport where they posed as passengers boarding a regular Loftleidir flight to New York. They boarded without tickets or passports, police said.

At Kennedy Airport they slipped out through a construction site without reporting to customs and 12 hours after a tour of Manhattan boarded another Loftleidir jet by slipping in the same way.

Sewer Line Trouble

The Sausalito-Marin City Sanitary District Biard and Sausalito city officials will discuss elimination of fresh water infiltration into city sewer lines at a special meeting at 7 p.m. tomorrow at Sausalito City Hall.

Graduate Student Shot In Holdup

SAN JOSE (UPI) — Robert Burgess III, 25, Crystal City, Nev., was fatally shot in a holdup of the Spartan Grocery Store near the San Jose State College campus today.

Burgess was a graduate student at the college and a part time employe at the store.

Corte Madera Council Says Marin Must Fight Air Ads

The Corte Madera Town Council last night turned a sympathetic ear to a Tiburon resident's plea for protective ordinances against what he termed "aerial pollution" in Marin.

"We must stop dead in its tracks an epidemic about to start in Marin," Dr. George Sugarman of 59 East View Avenue. That epidemic, he said, is the upsurge during the last year of aerial advertising in the Bay Area.

Marin has not suffered yet but it will, he warned the councilmen, who agreed unanimously to ask that the topic be placed on the next agenda for the Marin Council of Mayor and Councilmen.

Mayor Edward W. Colthurst, in suggesting the item be forwarded to that countywide body, said it would do little good for municipalities to take a piecemeal approach to outlawing airplane advertising. "We will have to act in concert (with other cities and the county) to stop it before it starts," Colthurst said.

Councilman Byron D. White said he has witnessed large-scale aerial advertising on the East Coast and Southern California. "If Marin doesn't adopt such an ordinance," he said, "and as billboards are removed, advertisers will be turning to that form of advertising."

Sugarman said he had turned to city governments after receiving a cool reception when he approached the county board of supervisors.

The Corte Madera Town Council also:

POSITIONS — Tabled discussion on a Police and Fire Committee report recommending creation of police lieutenant and assistant fire chief positions from existing police sergeant and fire lieutenant positions.

RECREATION FEES — Established a $2 non-resident recreation fee for the town's fee supported winted recreation programs. The fee previously only applied to Larkspur residents. It will go into effect Jan. 1.

LIBRARY — Set Nov. 6 at 2 p.m. for groundbreaking ceremonies for the Corte Madera Library to be located along Meadowsweet Drive.

SCOTT VALLEY — Agreed to send a representative to Mill Valley public hearing on Scott Valley Unit Four development adjacent town limits. The representative will insure that Mill Valley is aware Corte Madera has no intention of connecting Sausalito Street to the Scott Valley development. Reason given was the street's narrow passage couldn't handle additional traffic.

ADJOURNMENT — Adjourned to the next regular meeting Nov. 16.

Property Alert Ordinance Plan Before Council

A proposed ordinance to protect purchasers of property in Sausalito by alerting them to any limitation the city has placed on the land or structure will be considered by the Sausalito City Council today at 8 p.m. in city hall.

If the ordinance becomes law, the seller would be required to provide the buyer with a record containing a history of any city actions (such as planning commission decisions) which affect the property in question.

The council will also consider a proposal from the planning commission that the council hear only appeals of planning commission decisions. At present, most items which the commission approves, such as variances and conditional use permits, must still go to the council for final approval.

Dog Licensing Check Starts —Door-To-Door

The Marin County Humane Education Center has started a door-to-door dog licensing check, reminding residents that dogs must have a 1970-71 license and a current rabies vaccination.

Mel Morse, executive director, said the door-to-door program will continue for the next three months. The licensing agents won't be wearing a regular Humane Society officer's uniform, but will be carrying a letter of authorization, Morse said.

All dogs more than 4 months old must be licensed, and the licensing period is from July 1 to Aug. 31, with a $3 late charge if licenses are purchased after Aug. 31.

Residents new to Marin County are allowed 30 days to purchase a dog license.

Manson Team Claims Threat On Witness

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — A key state witness at the Tate murder trial has admitted that police raised the propect she might face the gas chamber or life in prison if she did not tell them all she knew about the slayings.

Dianne Lake, 17, a tiny girl who spent two years with the "Manson family," had been summoned Monday by the prosecution as its final witness in the 21-week-old trial.

Defense attorneys immediately challenged the admissibility of her story and, in a session held outside the presence of the jury, brought out claims that she was appearing under duress and out of fear.

"What did Leslie tell you?" asked Deputy District Attorney Vincent Bugliosi.

"She said she stabbed someone who was already dead and the more she did it, the more fun it was," Miss Lake replied.

The trial was in recess today for the elections.

If Miss Lake is permitted to testify before the jury Wednesday, she may be on the stand much of the day. The state is expected to rest its case once she has concluded her testimony.

At Atascadero Charles (Tex' Watson, a defendant in the Tate-LaiBanca slayings who last Friday was described as insane—"virtually vegetative" — is now sitting up and eating regular meals at Atascadero State Hospital.

Watson, 24, was sent to the mental hospital after three court - appointed psychiatrists convinced Superior Court Judge George Dell the action was necessary to save the man's life.

According to a report given the court, Watson "has become listless, flaccid, he makes no movements, his lips are pursed. It is impossible to spoon-feed him and we are starting to feed him by nasal tube.

"He is virtually vegetative... he is rapidly reverting to a fatal state . . . which could be rapidly fatal."

It also was disclosed that Watson, since his arrival in Los Angeles from Texas Sept. 11, had lost 50 pounds, dropping to a weight of 110 pounds. He is 6-foot-2.

However, L. C. Wayne, Atascadero administrator, said that shortly after his arrival Friday night Watson voluntarlly drank liquid nourishment and continued on the oral, liquid diet Saturday and Sunday.

Giant Licensing Pact Is Signed For A New Engine

DETROIT (UPI) — General Motors Corp. and three other companies have agreed to a $50 million licensing arrangement for a revolutionary new engine which may eventually be used on passenger cars.

GM announced late Monday that the agreement involved itself and the Audi-NSU Auto Union AG and Wankel GMBH, both of West Germany, and Curtiss-Wright Corp. a Woodridge, N. J., aircraft manufacturer.

The Wankel engine covered by the agreement uses rotary pistons instead of the conventional up and down pistons. The engine is compact, lightweight and has 15 moving parts.

GM said the purpose of the licensing arrangement was to facilitate GM's "further intensive research and development studies of the Wankel rotary combustion engine to determine whether it is suitable for GM automotive applications."

A GM spokesman declined to elaborate on possible use of the engine in production line automobiles of the future. At present, the engine cannot meet U. S. pollution emission standards.

Under the arrangement, GM would pay the companies $5 million by the end of this year, $10 million for the first four full years of the agreement and $5 million at the end of the fifth year.

"At the completion of these payments, GM will have the right to manufacture and sell the Wankel rotary combustion engine on a worldwide basis without further payments," the company said.

The giant automaker has the right to cancel the arrangement at the end of a contract year on one day's notice.

San Anselmo Fire Guts Apartment

Fire blamed on a can of hot charcoal briquets burned a wooden deck and gutted the interior of a San Anselmo apartment last night, firemen said.

Tenant Vincent Melovich was away from the apartment at 437 Scenic Avenue at 8:17 p.m. when the fire broke out. The building suffered $5,000 damage and the apartment's contents $1,500 damage, firemen estimated. Water damage to the apartment below was to be estimated later today.

Ship Hijacker Escapes In Cambodia

PHNOM PHEN (UPI) — One of two Americans being held prisoner in Cambodia for the hijacking of the American munitions ship Columbia Eagle last March escaped from custody Thursday, government officials said today.

The officials identified the escapee as Clyde McKay, 26, of San Diego, Calif. They said McKay made his break with Larry Dwayne Humphrey, 23, of Ventura, Calif. Humphrey was identified as a deserter from the American armed forces in Thailand being held for allegedly trying to run guns to the Communists in northern Cambodia.

The other accused hijacker — Alvin Glatowski, 21, of Long Beach, Calif. —told UPI this afternoon the two were probably trying to make contact with Communist forces in Cambodia.

"That's probably where they're heading for — more than likely," Glatowski said.

There was no immediate comment from government or American embassy officials on the five-day-old escape.

Glatowski said he did not accompany the two "because I wasn't aware they were going to leave."

"But it's all right by me. I wish them luck. They have my best wishes," he said.

Military police at the hotel said the two got away from their guards in Phnom Penh's central market.

"They just slipped away, I guess," Glatowski said, smiling.

The three Americans had been under house arrest in a government hotel in downtown Phnom Penh for the past month.

Junior High Is Evacuated; Call On Bomb Threat

After a half-hour search of the school, classes were resumed, police reported.

Earlier, at 9:29 a.m., another bomb threat was made against Novato High School.

A search of the lockers there disclosed a container of pills police suspected to be dangerous drugs. The owner, a 17-year-old girl, was cited to juvenile authorities.

A third harassment of the Novato Unified School District came at 12:49 p.m., when someone turned in a false alarm from the school administration alarm box at 1038 Seventh Street.

Innocent Pleas In Holdup Case

Two Santa Rosa men charged with armed robbery and assault with a deadly weapon stemming from the holdup of a San Rafael pool hall owner on Oct. 9 pleaded innocent yesterday in Marin Superior Court.

A jury trial was set for the week of Nov. 23 for Gilbert Fullam, 25, and John Douglas Renda, 26.

The men were arrested after a chase from San Rafael to the Petaluma-Point Reyes Road where they abandoned their car.

They reportedly held up George Lefevre, owner of Georges' Recreation Parlor, as he got out of his parked car, and grabbed a bag containing $19,000.

They are accused of firing two shots at pursuers as they fled.

Probation, 30 Days Given In Thievery

Judge E. Warren McGuire of Marin Superior Court yesterday placed Gerald Arthur Beaudoin, 18, of Corte Madera, on probation for one year and sent him to jail for 30 days.

Beaudoin had earlier admitted burglarizing a car in San Rafael on April 22.

'PRICE WAR' IS REPORTED AT STATIONS

The price of gasoline at some downtown San Rafael service stations is down as much as four cents a gallon in a somewhat limited price war.

A sign at West End Shell Serivce at 1540 Second Street declares "price war" and prices on both regular and premium gasoline is down four cents to 31.9 and 35.9 cents a gallon.

Several other stations in the area have knocked prices down two or three cents while others have held.

One station operator said the little war has been going on for about a month, and was apparently being done without the backing of the oil companies involved.

Santa Rosan Is Booked For Gnoss Fire

A 20-year-old Santa Rosa youth was booked into Marin County Jail yesterday on a warrant charging him with arson and burglary in the $250,000 fire at Gnoss Field on Oct. 12.

Held in lieu of $37,500 bail was William Phillip Nance. He was to appear in Marin Municipal Court today.

Three other youths charged with burglarizing the airport are in custody in Sonoma County Jail, according to inspectors Bowen Bridges and Marco Melovich of the Marin Sheriff's Department.

They are Wayne Armstrong, 19; Manuel Mosher, 15, and Charles Joseph Molina, 16.

Melovich and Bridges said that the youths apparently went to the airport to steal gasoline.

After breaking the lock on a pump, they discovered they had to go inside the building to release the pump.

Once inside, they stole a tape recorder and a radio, according to the officers. In order to cover fingerprints, the building was then set on fire, officers theorized.

The fire burned a cafe, office and parts department as well as the $150,000 plane rented by cosmetics manufacturer William Penn Patrick and used by Sen. George Murphy in his campaign.

New Trial Date In Quarry Theft

A new trial date of Feb. 8 was set yesterday in Marin Superior Court for Gerald Clair Crane, 18-year-old Larkspur youth accused of burglarizing the Hutchinson Co. quarry in Greenbrae and having 100 pounds of stolen dynamite.

Crane had earlier pleaded guilty to the charges, but was allowed to reenter innocent pleas to two counts of burglary and one possessing explosives.

Judge E. Warren McGuire allowed the youth to change his pleas after probation officers recommended a commitment to the California Youth Authority. There had been an earlier commitment by the district attorney's office that a four-month jail sentence would be recommended if he pleaded guilty.

Vandals Puncture Tire In Novato

Vandals punctured a tire on the auto of Beverly V. Collella of 875 Atherton Avenue, Novato, on Thursday, police said yesterday.

Slashing of the $50 tire occurred in the municipal parking lot at Fifth Avenue and C Street between 8 a.m. and noon, police said.

Memorial To 144 Killed In Dance Hall

ST. LAURENT - DU - PONT, France (UPI)—Several thousand persons crowded into a makeshift funeral chapel in a school gymnasium today for a 20-minute ceremony memorializing 144 youths who died in a flaming dance hall early Sunday.

Weeping parents and relatives crowded around the blonde wood coffins as Labor Minister Joseph Fontanet read a message of condolence from President Georges Pompidou. Hundreds more could not find room in the school of this French Alpine community and followed the service through loudspeakers on the sports field.

Several youths yelled at Fontanet as he left the school that the fire in the "5-7" dance hall was "the fault of the governors and it's the fault of the ministers." The crowd was hushed but Fontanet did not reply.

Parents prepared to take the bodies of teir children home for burial after the ceremony.

Only 110 of the youths had been identified by today and officials said 14 others had been identified tentatively but 18 more remained anonymous. Two other youths who escaped the holocaust died in a hospital Monday.

Controversy over the fire continued to mount as Maoist youths smashed luxury hotel and bank windows in nearby Grenoble and Parliament members in Paris demanded action against officials responsible for the deaths.

Paris newspapers without exception condemned authorities for permitting the dance hall to open without assurance of security measures.

Judge Denies Case's Transfer

Judge Alvin H. Goldstein Jr. of Marin Municipal Court yesterday denied a request by the attorney for an Oakland Teamster that his vandalism case be tried in another county .

The judge ruled that there had not been enough publicity in the Independent-Journal about the arrest of Martin Lewis Frates, 28, to prejudice his case.

Frates is accused of puncturing the tire of a bakery truck which was parked outside Langendorf United Bakeries on Oct. 12.

Teamsters have been coming into Marin County in efforts to halt delivery of goods to I-J advertisers.

A jury trial for Frates was set for March 18 yesterday.

Space On Sonoma Mountain Approved

I-J Special Report

SANTA ROSA — The Sonoma County Board of Supervisors yesterday approved an agreement to rent space to Marin County for a communications system on Sonoma Mountain.

County Administrator David L. Nichols said Marin County will pay $20 per month to rent space at the Sonoma County radio repeater station.

ACCESSORIES AND COLOR FOR SKI TIME

SKI CAPS are more fun than ever this year. Above is "the Huntress," in leather with snuggly lamb-lined side flaps that either tie under the chin or fasten on top. Below is a touch of the wild West for Sierra schussing. It's a waterproof nylon ski hat recalling the days of Annie Oakley. The brim can be worn down or snapped up on the sides.

A Golden Wedding Dinner

The 50th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Neil F. Beggs of Kentfield was celebrated Sunday evening when 75 friends and relatives attended a cocktail party and dinner at Sabella's of Marin hosted by their daughter, Mrs. Robert Silberberg of Greenbrae.

The Beggs were married at St. Raphael's Church in San Rafael following Mr. Beggs' discharge from the Navy. They lived in San Francisco until 1959 when they moved to Marin. After 43 years of service Mr. Beggs retired from the San Francisco Fire Department in 1968.

Rita Abrams Given Award

Author of the recent hit song and recording "Mill Valley," Strawberry Point School teacher Rita Abrams was among women given awards Sunday by the Association for Women's Active Return to Education.

Miss Abrams was given the Minerva Award of the AWARE group Sunday at a ceremony at the University of Southern California. Members of the third grade class at Malibu's Webster School sang Miss Abrams' song about Mill Valley for the program. The Reprise records recording was done by Miss Abrams and the third grade class at Strawberry Point School and has been a hit on the national pop charts.

CLAUDIA JEAN Kendall became the bride of Lt. (j.g.) Michael R. Salewske at Redwood Presbyterian Church in Larkspur. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Philip F. Kendall of San Anselmo and he is the son of Mrs. Alfred W. Salewske of Waukesha, Wis., and the late Mr. Salewske. They will live in Honolulu where the bridegroom is stationed in the Navy.

State P-TA Scholarship Fund

The California Parent-Teacher Association distributing $97,000 to colleges and universities throughout the state in this year's allocation of funds for scholarships for the 1971-72 academic year.

The funds are earmarked for scholarships in the fields of elementary teacher education, secondary teacher education, patient nursing, special education, school librarian, youth corrections, and counseling and guidance.

The allocation is: 98 elementary teacher education scholarships at $500 for a total of $49,000; 50 secondary teacher education at $500 for $25,000; 38 patient nursing at $100 for $3,800; 13 special education at $500 for $6,500; 9 school librarian at $500 for $4,500; 2 youth corrections at $500 for $1,000; and 36 counseling and guidance at $200 for $7,200.

Elementary teacher education scholarships will be awarded by 41 colleges and universities, and the secondary scholarships by 33.. In distributing its funds for scholarships, the California P-TA recognizes only schools that are accredited by the California State Board of Education and the Western Association of Schools and Colleges. The institutions select the scholarship recipients and disburse the funds, with the exception of recipients of the counseling and guidance summer session scholarships and the youth corrections scholarships.

Application forms for counseling and guidance scholarships may be obtained from the California P-TA state office, 930 Georgia Street, Los Angeles 900115, after Dec. 1 and must be returned by April 1, 1971.

Forms for the youth corrections scholarships may be obtained from the California P-TA State Office or the general manager of the California Probation, Parole and Correctional Association, 1220 H Street, Sacramento 95814. The deadline for return is March 31, 1971.

To be eligible for a scholarship, a student must be an upper division or graduate student, except in the case of nursing and of counseling and guidance. For a nursing scholarship the student must have completed the first year of the Association Degree Nursing Program, and for counseling and guidance the student must already be employed half-time or more in school counseling.

Recipients are selected on the basis of financial need and instructor recommendations. In all cases except two this is done by authorized administrators of the colleges and universities. Candidates for the youth corrections and the counseling and guidance scholarships are selected by the California P-TA scholarship

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

Dieter Savors Every Bite Then Doesn't Need To Eat So Much

DEAR HELEN:

In addition to all the rules and exercises for reducing, I have a suggestion that has helped me a lot. When I gulp food down, I find I can eat almost twice as much. Somehow my stomach doesn't get the message to my brain until I'm overstuffed. But if I eat very slowly, I fill up faster, and also I eat less because it's embarrassing to be at the table after everyone else is through. Then too, if you savor every bite, you don't need quite so many. It's wise to choose food that takes extra work or chewing, like cracked crab, artichokes (without butter- sorta tough steak, raw carrots.

Just thought I'd share my secret: For a swift figure — don't eat fast! — SLIM

DEAR SLIM:

DEAR HELEN:

I feel like a traitor to my generation, but I have to go along with the girl who didn't like rock festivals because they get kids on to drugs. My brother went that route. He's a real mess now.

They call it "acid rock" and we all know a lot of singers and musicians (if you can call them that) are on dope — three even died of overdoses recently. Their songs are full of drug-words, and come-ons, like "A little help from my friends", etc.

Maybe if our taste in music changed they cleaned up the words, and the places where kids get together to hear them, we wouldn't have so many drug problems. — D. W.

DEAR D.:

Feeling like a traitor to my generation, I'm here to say that songs have always played up the forbidden ("Show Me the Way to Go Home" — the Prohibition booze ballad; "Little Brown Jug"; a million laments about illicit love). I doubt their words have much influence on most listeners' actions.

As for drug use by performers: If we banned every artist with a bad habit, we'd lose out ona lot of good stuff. And that goes for actors and writers too. Of six American authors who have won the Nobel Prize for Literature, four were alcoholics and a fifth drank heavily.

Not that I condone drugs or lushing. I'm just saying that most kids are smart enough to appreciate talent but not take on the life-style of the talented. Your brother, D. W., followed his crowd to rock festivals — and he did what the crowd did, not what the music said. He could have got hooked just as easily in a back-lot apartment. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

I read magazines that say "Try this and that and it will add three inches to your bustline." Well, I don't have the money to buy these things. Would they really help?

I'm Miss Pipestem of 1970 — a bustless, hipless flop (only that's not the right word). I eat like a horse, but I still weigh 105 and I'm five feet four.

Are there any exercises that will make me grow in special places, so I'll look like a girl? — FLAT BUSTED.

DEAR FLAT:

Exercise won't add what Nature didn't intend — nor will those advertised bust-builders. But a creamy double malted a day, plus three squares might round you out a bit. If not, what's wrong with padded bras and a changed attitude? Fashion models starve themselves to achieve what you've got naturally. — H.

committee aided by professional people in these fields. Each recipient assumes an obligation following graduation to teach for one year in the public schools of California or to serve for one year in California in his specalized field.

The P-TA scholarship program is financed by the organization's honorary life membership program fund, which since 1927 has also supported its larger student loan program.

The P-TA has allocated $210,000 for student loans during the current year. Student loans are available to high school graduates who are attending an institution of higher learning or are planning to continue into vocational training, community college, college or university. Application forms are available from the state P-TA office.

Students can secure $400 per year for a 2-year period for lower division or junior college work; $600 per year for a 2-year period for upper division; and $800 per year not exceeding four years for graduate work.

Student loans are granted by the student loan committee at its bi-monthly meetings. The loans are interest free and require no co-signer. Over the years only slightly more than one percent of the loans have not been repaid, report the P-TA financial officers.

Audubon Canyon Center Endorsed

The Marin Coupnty Board of Education last night endorsed the concept of constructing an environmental education center at the Audubon Canyon Ranch and committed itself to preliminary planning.

The tentative proposal calls for setting up a nonprofit corporation in cooperation with the Audubon Society, which will operate the center on its land.

Board member Marilyn Crowell explained the center would serve children from throughout the Bay Area and the role of the county schools office would be to provide teachers, educational program and staff services.

The proposed nonprofit corporation would seek grants and private donations for the center.

The board approved spending up to $1,200 to hire Kramer, Miller and Associates of San Francisco as consultants in developing the proposal, stating the corporation and designing fund-raising activity.

Board members James A. Carroll and Arnold Dolcini Jr. dissented, with Carroll objecting to the spending of up to $1,200 for a consultant for "fund raising." Consultant fees, he argued, are to be used "to further education."

Board president Lee C. Richardson appointed Mrs. Crowell and Carroll to an ad hoc steering committee on the proposed project which will include members of the Audubon Canyon Ranch board and representatives of other agencies that become involved.

Progress toward construction of an occupational training shop for handicaped minors at Magnolia School in Lucas Valley was slowed down when the board tabled action on bids for the job until its Nov. 16 meeting.

There was a telegram from Jerry Hawes, vice president of the Lucas Valley Home Owners Association, reminding the board that the association and individual home owners were opposed to the proposed location of the machine shop.

David Sokoloff, of Sokoloff, Hamilton and Blewett, architects for the project, said the location of the building will minimize noise with the area of noise about 145 feet from the nearest homes. "We don't feel it's a detriment to the residential area at all," Sokoloff said.

Richardson said his concern was whether the plans had the "go ahead" from the Marin County Planning Department, not the protests from the residents.

Plans have been made since 1967, and "they've had plenty of time," he said.

The board also heard reports from two county schools staff members serving as interim superintendent at two school districts.

Robert E. Spain, interim superintendent of the Sausalito School District, said the district is now in the profess of "settling down" and "trying to define educational objectives."

One of the immediate concerns is "developing the expertise of teachers in reading skills," he said. There are two teachers in each class on basic subjects, Spain explained.

He also reported the board has changed its policy on dismissals, with the superintendent now dismissing and the board hearing appeals.

Previously, he pointed out, the board approved dismissals and then acted as hearing board afterward, and this was criticized as putting the board in the position of approving action it had previously taken, Spain said.

Stanley H. Friese, acting superintendent of the Reed School District, said during his five months in the district he learned there was "little direct information" to the school districts "about what is available from the county office" in the way of service.

He suggested that the county schools office have a customer survey to determine what kind of service districts want from the county office.

The Marin County Board Of Education Also:

INTERDISTRICT REQUESTS — Denied an application by Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Folson of 351 Olema Road, Apt. 14, Fairfax, to permit their daughter to attend Tamalpais Valley School in the Mill Valley School District, and an application by Mr. and Mrs. Nick Baresin of 39 Bayview Terrace, Strawberry to switch a son and daughter from the Mill Valley School District to the Reed School District. The denial vote in each case was 5-2, with Patrick Pollock and James A. Swenson dissenting.

HIRED — Authorized hiring Borge Berrig, part-time teacher of food services, vocational education, at $4,421 a year; William McConnell, part-time teacher, marine environmental technology, $5,232; Meindert Boon, bus driver, $2.87 an hour; Barbara Hastings, instructional aide, $2.73 an hour, and Ruth Holman, naturalist, $75 a week.

VOCATIONAL EDUCATION — Received a report that $123,704 in federal funds have been approved for a project to educate Mexican-American inmates at San Quentin Prison in vocational skills and provide vocational counseling and job placement.

RESIGNATION — Accepted the resignation of James Parks, bus driver, West Marin.

CONSULTANT — Authorized the hiring of Layne Hackett, physical education teacher and author, as consultant for a workshop on Movement Exploration at Coleman School in San Rafael at 3 p.m. today, at a fee of $50.

GIFT — Accepted as a gift $40 for the hearing handicapped program from Mrs. Bruce Ihlenfeldt of 6 Baja Court, Corte Madera.

NEXT MEETING — Adjourned until 8 p.m. Nov. 16 at Oak View School, 70 Skyview Terrace, San Rafael, for a special session on the program for trainable mentally retarded pupils.

New Salary Schedule For Leaders

The Marin County Board of Education last night adopted a new salary schedule for county schools office administrators, carrying a 6.6 per cent hike in administrative salary costs.

Board member Patrick Pollock explained that some administrators would get as little as a 1.5 per cent pay hike and others as much as 7.4 per cent under the new format.

The salary schedule was approved by a 5-2 vote with board president Lee C. Richardson Jr. and board member James A. Carroll dissenting.

The raises are retroactive to July 1. Pollack said the intent was to have the raises comparable to those given teaching employees in July.

Board member James A. Swenson commented that "very few taxpayers get percentage increases for cost-of-living along the way," and reminded the board of its financial responsibility to taxpayers.

Swenson also pointed out that a percentage increase gives more money to those in the higher salary brackets than to those in the lower brackets.

The salary schedule approved, excluding the superintendent of schools whose salary is set by law, included the following salaries:

Deputy superintendent, $22,523; assistant superintendent, $21,368, department directors, $20,213; program directors, project directors and program coordinators, $17,903 and $18,480.

Program associates, project associates, psychologists and consultants, $15,593, $16,710 and $16,748; outdoor education leader, $14,438 and $15,593, and pre-school coordinator, $13,283.

With the pay hikes, the cost of administrative salaries for 1970-71 will increase from $351,812 to $375,094.

LONDON (UPI) — Princess Anne ran up against some 200 demonstrating "skinheads" — working class youths with shaven heads—when she attended a film premier Monday night.

The princess in a white gown and elbow length gloves had come to see Sir Laurence Olivier's firm of Chekhov's novel, "Three Sisters," and was surprised to see the youths in front of the theater shouting slogans and waving signs.

The demonstration protested the closing of "Bronco Bullfrog," a film about the skinheads which was removed after 18 days to make room for Olivier's movie.

The demonstrators were just as surprised to see the princess when she stepped from her limousine and quickly put down their signs and cheered her.

Mauzy Is Elevated In County Schools Office

The Marin County Board of Education last night appointed Byron W. Mauzy, director of business services, as assistant superintendent in the Marin County Schools Office at a salary of $21,368 a year.

Mauzy who joined the schools office in June 1967, has been an acting deputy superintendent for the past several months while Deputy Supt. Stanley H. Friese has been interim superintendent of the Reed School District.

Mauzy was assistant superintendent in the Del Norte County Schools Office from 1957 to 1965 and served as assistant superintendent of Del Norte County Unified District from 1965-67.

The post had been vacant since Jan. 1, 1969, when Friese, then assistant superintendent, was promoted to deputy superintendent.

Assistant superintendent is third in the chain of command in the schools office.

Mauzy's salary for the 1969-70 school year was $18,900 a year and he was scheduled to get a raise to $20,213, but shortly after that raise was approved, he got the promotion and new salary.

The decision to promote Mauzy came after a closed session of the board.

Earlier, on the recommendation of board member James A. Carroll, who wanted more information, the board had voted 6-1, in open sesison with board member Glen E. Robinson dissenting, to table the matter until its next meeting. They later rescinded that action.

Seven Belvedere Residents Fight Fire District Tax

Paying taxes is enough to make many scream, but when Frederick W. Winn and six of his Belvedere neighbors learned they are to pay 87 cents per $100 assessed valuation more than the rest of the city they leveled their sights at the city council last night.

Winn who lives at 6 San Rafael Avenue told the council the 87-cent tax rate is for the Tiburon Fire Protection District which has not served him since September 1969.

He blamed the city for failure to transfer his property and that of his neighbors from the district when the land was annexed to Belvedere 14 months ago.

He said the oversight will cost him $65 and all seven together will pitch in $400 to $500 to a district that doesn't protect them.

"Why should we be penalized by a mistake made in the office of the City of Belvedere?" he asked in demanding that the city recoup the money.

Accepting the blame, City Mgr. William L. Cavalli said he thought the transfer was automatic, but promised to try to recitfy the error by trying to reclaim the money from the fire district.

The homes are covered by the Belvedere Fire Department, he said. "The firemen know, but the tax collector doesn't," Councilman Thomas S. Price pointed cut.

The council resolved to remove the homes from the Tiburon district so they will not be subject to the tax in the 1971-72 fiscal year.

Acquittal On Draft Evasion

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — Leland Howard Jones of Corte Madera, who argued he was drafted out of order, has been acquitted of draft evasion.

James Bruen of the U.S. Attorney's office here said the judgment was handed down Thursday by Judge Robert F. Jeckham of the U.S. District Court after a defense motion for acquittal went unopposed by the government.

The defense for Jones, who refused induction March 17 in Oakland, was that he was drafted prior to others higher on the eligibility list and would not have been drafted then if called in the proper order according to Bruen.

Michel F. Willey, a San Francisco attorney experienced in such cases, said Jones is probably still eligible for draft into the Army although the previous call was invalidated.

Greenbrae Owners Board Chosen

The Greenbrae Property Owners Association has named five residents to its newly formed architectural design and review board.

Members of the new board are: Samuel Serrano of 133 Bretano Way, Virginia Rogers of 16 Los Cerros Drive, John A. Russel of 8 Manor Road, Richard R. Dresel of 285 North Almenar Drive and Ronald O. Plambeck of 480 Los Cerros Drive.

The new board assumed architectural supervision for Greenbrae yesterday, following a transfer of area maintenance responsibility to the association from the Schultz Building Co.

SOUTHERN SONOMA

No fire calls.

Driver Sets Fire To Save Himself

PALMDALE, Calif. (UPI)— Edward J. Robinson, 18, apparently fell asleep at the wheel of his car Monday and the vehicle plunged off a 100-foot embankment.

Robinson spent the next eight hours trying to crawl up the slope. He couldn't make it.

In desperation, started a brush fire which attracted Los Angeles County Fire Department personnel.

"I just knew I was going to die unless I did something," the injured youth told his rescuers. "After all that time down there, it was nice to know someone cared."

Belvedere Council Denies Variances For Third House

The Belvedere City Council last night turned down a series of variances sought by Henry Mettier to put a third house on his 330 Beach Road lot.

Mettier's was seeking rear yard, side yard and height variances for a new main house and would have needed a variance to change the existing main structure into a guest house, City Atty. Robert F. MacKay said.

The council upheld an Oct. 19 rejection by the planning commission by a 3-1 vote with Councilman Thomas S.Price in favor of delaying action on the matter so the applicant could offer an altered proposal to the planning commission.

Councilman Alan Steinau — who wanted to deny the application, but allow Mettier to reapply within the legal limit of a year — won council approval of a staff study of possible zoning law revisions.

The Belvedere City Council Also:

WOODINGTON — Accepted the resignation effective Dec. 31 of Police Chief William S. Woodington who had been with the police force 14 years. His reason was nagging leg injuries.

CLOSED SESSION — Met in closed session to discuss hiring an interim police chief.

AERIAL ADS — Decided to endorse a Sausalito campaign to convince the board of supervisors to enact anti-aerial advertising legislation, and decided to ask the Marin County Council of Mayors and Councilmen to agendize it for endorsement.

LANDSCAPE STUDY — Approved preparation of plans for the San Rafael Avenue parkway project at a cost not to exceed $1,980 by Berridge, Becker and Julin Inc.

FLOOD CONTROL — Approved of an agreement signed Thursday by Price as mayor pro-tem whereby Belvedere will pay $7,841 towards a $23,522 flood control propect in Tiburon.

LANE — Set Dec. 7 for a hearing on abandoning an unnamed lane at 280, 286, 288 and 290 Beach Road.

FIRE LINE STUDY — Approved $1,500 for a study by Gage-Babcock and Associates for a study of the city's firelines to be completed in 60 days.

STREET ANCHORS — Awarded a contract of $20,860 to Kulchin-Wagner Inc. of South San Francisco to install 39 anchors to keep retaining walls on Beach Road at Bay View and Bella Vista avenues from caving out.

TRAFFIC PATTERN — Approved use of traffic lines and reflectors rather than concrete islands for an experimental traffic arrangement at Cove and Beach roads and on Beach from Cove Road to Main Street until the permanent pattern is determined.

CITY COUNTY GROUP — Approved an amendment of the City-County Planning Council that would define a quorum as the presence of a representative from six cities and the county rather than 13 of the 24 members.

FIRE PLANES — Put over to Dec. 7 action on a request by Long Beach to pass a resolution favoring use of surplus military aircraft for firefighting activities.

ANIMAL CONTROL — Deferred action to Dec. 7 on a Mill Valley proposal to require that all dogs be leashed in commercial areas.

VEHICLE LIVING — Passed an ordinance prohibiting living in vehicles.

ZONING — Introduced an ordinance requiring that lots in R-1 area have a 65-foot frontage and 65-foot average width. Second reading and adoption are set for Dec. 7.

ADJOURNED — Adjourned to a special meeting Nov. 16 at 8 p.m. at city hall to discuss the possibility of joining Tiburon Sanitary District Five.

Missionary Among 19 Killed In Bus

MANILA (UPI)—An American missionary was reported today to be one of 19 persons killed when a bus plunged over a 150-foot cliff in the southwest of Mindanao Island, about 500 miles south of Manila.

The Philippine News Service identified the missionary as Clarence Barnes, 36, of Cagayan de Oro, on the central north coast of Mindanao. It gave no U.S. address for Barnes.

Questionaires With Vet Checks

Annual income questionnaries were mailed out this week with the monthly pension checks that went to Marin County veterans and dependents, the Marin County Veterans Service officer announced today.

James V. Burdick said the questionnaires must be returned to the Veterans Administration by Jan. 15 to insure continuance of checks. This also applies to parents of deceased veterans who receive dependency and indemnity compensation.

Pensions for 1971 will be based on the amount of income received in 1970 and the income anticipated in 1971.

Antismoking Rounds Will Be Continued

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The National Association of Broadcasters reports that a survey by the American Cancer Society has revealed most radio and TV stations will continue to air antismoking messages after Jan. 2 — the date after which cigarette commercials will be banned.

The broadcast group made the statement Monday in asking the Federal Communications Commission to refrain from making stations carry antismoking messages after the ban on commercials begins.

Three Teen-Agers Caught In Chase

Three teen-age Santa Venetia boys have been booked into Marin Juvenile Hall on suspicion of vehicle theft, sheriff's deputies said yesterday.

Booked were Chris Grupe, 14, of 7 Adrian Way; Edward B. Nelson, 13, of 615 Rosal Way, and Mark G. Williams, 16, of 620 Rosal Way.

After a report Friday that a pickup truck had been stolen from contractor Roland Johnson on San Pedro Road near China Camp, a deputy who saw what appeared to be the vehicle chased it at high speed north on San Pedro Road.

The truck ran off the bay one-half mile south of Bucks Landing, the deputy said, and the youths ran up a hill but stopped after a warning shot was fired.

DRAMA REVIEW

Actor James Whitmore's Timing Remarkable As Will Rogers

By JAMES E. WILLIAMS

SAN FRANCISCO — Will Rogers immediately captured his audience last night with his opening statement . . . "you all teach your kids two things up here, love God and hate Los Angeles."

With that, a love feast was created at the Marines' Memorial Theater as gifted actor James Whitmore stepped back into the days of the Ziegfeld Follies, the high-living 1920s and the Great Depression.

GOOD MEDICINE

For it was Will Rogers, the Oklahoma humorist, who helped keep the nation on an even keel with remarks that may have offended a few, but really were good medicine for the entire country.

Whitmore is superb in his characterization of the gum-chewing actor-author. While he does not attempt to recreate the Oklahoma drawl nor a carbon copy of Rogers' slump, the timing is remarkable:

The two-hour production, which has been assembled by Paul Shyre and Eldon Elder, goes by so swiftly, you wish for more as Whitmore entones Rogers' most famous line . . . "I never met a person I didn't like . . ."

The monologue which makes up "Will Rogers' U.S.A." is as timely today as when Rogers was making the remarks — on stage and off.

WASHINGTON JOKES

Of course Rogers was most masterful when he was taking Washington apart with such sage comments as "We've got the best politicians in the country that money can buy." "I'm not a member of any organized party — I'm a Democrat," "I came to the capital to the national joke factory to see what our hired help is doing."

And his scheme for solving his nation's traffic problem is still as good as ever. "No car should be allowed on the road until it is paid for."

The monologue on Calvin Coolidge is some of the most humorous of the evening such as "When Calvin Coolidge was vice president, he done the right thing —he kept his mouth shut." Or, "down in Oklahoma, we'd call him a close chewer and a tight spitter."

Unfortunately Rogers' untimely death in 1935 at Point Barrow, Alaska, on a flight with Wiley Post, cut short his look at life as the nation was coming out of the Great Depression and even into a greater era where he could have found plenty to remark about. But what we have are priceless gems poignant now as then.

DON'T MISS IT

It is a show which should not be missed. Whitmore, or rather Mr. Rogers, will be around through Nov. 28 with performances Monday through Friday at 8:30 p.m.; Wednesdays, 2:30 p.m., and Saturdays, 7 and 10 p.m.

'WILL ROGERS' U.S.A.' — James Whitmore, veteran Broadway and film star, opened last night in a one-man show, "Will Rogers' U.S.A." at the Marines' Memorial Theater in San Francisco. The show will continue through Nov. 28.

Audience Can't See All Of It

LONDON (UPI)—The appearance of five nude dancers in the Dutch Ballet Company's production of "Mutations" at Sadler's Wells brought shouts from the audience Monday night.

But the shouts were not because the audience saw too much of the four men and one woman —they saw too little.

The first 10 minutes of the production were performed on a platform extending into the orchestra and people in the upper balconies shouted, "We can't see you" and started chanting and clapping.

The dancers kept on dancing.

Moderate Housing To Be Discussed

State and federal regulations under which provisions for low and moderate income housing are to be included in community master plans will be discussed at 8 p.m. Nov. 16 at the Marinwood Community Center, Lucas Valley and Miller Creek roads.

The meeting, another in a series on the so-called Housing Element, was called by the Marin County Planning Department.

Teachers Sanction Warning To Novato

The Novato Unified School District trustees last night received warning of sancitions by the Novato Teachers Association and at the same meeting granted classified employees a raise.

The board, with trustees Dan H. Barber and Irving D. Chapman Jr. absent, voted unaminously to give the classified employees a 5 per cent raise retroactive to July 1. It also authorized a $3,500 classified salary study to be made by the state cooperative services.

The increase will cost the district $50,330 for the fiscal year.

The Novato Teachers Association, voting 257 to 48 last week, authorized a sanctions alert against the district, Gregg W. De Gear, association president reported. He said that the association would place sanctions against the district next Monday if the negotiating council has not made some progress in salary negotiations.

Trustee President William G. Schneeflock said that the board has not had anything in writing to indicate such action by the teachers.

The teachers representative council, in a letter signed by John Enders of the council during the meeting, offered to lower its demands from 9 per cent to 8.3 per cent. The district has offered a 6 per cent increase retroactive to July 1.

Enders said that the vote of the teachers represented 70 per cent of the NTA membership of approximately 450.

At the board meeting last week, the teachers made several other demands of the district.

In a prepared statement, Schneeflock said that these demands would cost the district $952,000. He listed: salary increase, $502,000; reading clinics, $77,500; master degree bonus, $13,500; department chairmen, $16,000; reduce English class sizes, $132,000; tuition payments, $13,000 and reduction of student-teacher ratio, $198,000.

The staff did not estimate cost of sabbatical leaves, leaves of absence nor reduction of the teaching day for grades 4, 5, and 6 from 300 to 250 minutes a day, Schneeflock said.

To meet all these demands and keep some reserve, the district has $702,000, Schneeflock said.

De Gear, who left before the meeting, listed the sanctions as teachers refusal to take part in all noncontracted work, district committees and curriculum work, chaperoning, bus duty, noninstructional clerical tasks and other assignments beyond normal teacher assignments.

Approximately 120 teachers voted for a strike, he said.

The board held a closed meeting to discuss further negotiations with the teachers before sanctions are applied to the district.

Birch Society Speaker Slated

A speech by a Russian-born woman, entitled "America is Wonderful," has been scheduled by the John Birch Society's Truth About Civil Turmoil Committee.

The talk by Katharyn Iwanowski will be at 8 p.m. Friday at the Corte Madera Recreation Center, Tamalpais Drive, Corte Madera.

Jaycees To Conduct Bike Safety Labs

The Novato Jaycees were authorized last night by the Novato Unified School District board to conduct four bicycle safety clinics.

The clinics will be held Sunday from 9 a.m. to noon at Novato High Shool and San Marin High School and from 1 p.m. until completed at Lu Sutton and Marion schools.

Robert K. Madgett, Jaycee president, proposed the clinics to be held in cooperation with the Novato police department. Bicycles will be inspected and licensed. Parents should accompany their children and safety pamphlets will be given them, Madgett said.

The Novato Unified School District board also:

MEASLES — Agreed to cooperate with the Marin County Health Department in a Rubella (german measles) immunization program. The times and details of the program will be worked out with the County Health Department.

TESTING — Heard a report from Jack O. Rothe, director of pupil personnel services, on the testing program planned for the district.

BUSINESS MACHINE — Agreed to purchase for $22,100 with $8,977 credit for rent on the machine in the past two years, a national cash register 400 for the district use. The district has been paying $635 monthly rent. It will buy the machine for $489 for 36 months which includes repair and maintenance to the machine for the three year period.

TEACHER HEARING — Heard that Wyman W. Kunzler, Hill Junior High School mathematics teacher, fired by the district, has asked for a hearing on the charges. The board asked the county counsel to file formal charges. Kunzler was fired in May but in September the Marin Superior Court ordered the district to reinstate him. The district has since revised its charges against him and refired him.

HAFB Squadron Places Second

The 84th Fighter Interceptor Squadron from Hamilton Air Force base placed second in the F-106 competition at the William Tell weapons meet at Tyndall Air Force Base, Fla. with a score of 10,348.

The squadron lost on the last day to the 17th squadron from Malstrom Air Force Base, Mont., which had a score of $12,183.

The 84th Squadron placed first in weapons loading and first in weapons directors.

WILLIAM WARFIELD
To sing tomorrow

Warfield To Sing At Rehearsal

Bass-baritone William Warfield will sing tomorrow in an "open rehearsal" as the third program in San Domenico School's free public artist series.

The performance will be at 2:30 p.m. in Alumnae Hall on the Sleepy Hollow campus. Warfield will be accompanied at the piano by William Duncan Allen, a member of the San Domenico music faculty and musical director of the Junior Bach Festival.

The program will include songs by Haydn, Schumann, Verdi, Rossini, Saint-Saens, Virgil Thompson and spirituals arranged by Hall Johnson.

Warfield has appeared in Marin Music Chest concerts and recitals and with orchestras throughout this country and Europe. He also appeared in films and on Broadway in the role of the cripple in Gershwin's "Porgy and Bess."

Freshman Class To Sell Candy

The freshman class at Sir Francis Drake High School Nov. 12 will begin its door-to-door sale of chocolates to raise funds for the class treasury.

The annual candy sale is a primary source of revenue for the freshman class and in past years has totaled about $1,000. The funds are used for class activities.

Crowd Jams Hearing On Restaurant

Public interest in a proposed restaurant and bar was strong enough in Mill Valley to draw an overflow crowd to city hall last night and force postponement of a scheduled hearing until a large enough hearing hall can be obtained.

About 130 persons jammed the city council chamber to hear the council consider appeals to a use permit granted by the city's planning commission Oct. 13.

Fifty others waited outside, unable to find seats. They had come to speak on the application of Michael Lerner and Philip Needleman to build a 400-seat restaurant with live music at the old Brown's Furniture Store, 38 Miller Avenue.

In the end, the council decided to continue the hearing to Nov. 12 in larger quarters, yet to be selected.

Councilman Jerome C. Hauke moved for continuance after a policeman delivered a note to Mayor George E. Wickham saying that 50 persons outside had asked for a delay.

"Fifty people is a lot," Hauke said. "If it were two or three it would be different."

City Atty. Leland H. Jordan reminded the council that the hearing and decision must be made within 30 days of the filing of the first appeal of the use permit issuance, unless the applicants agreed to a delay.

Applicant Lerner then stood up and said he and his partner would be glad to waive the 30-day limit. "We think the people should be heard," he said.

It was clear that several members of the audience did not approve of the continuance.

"Is it any reason to postpone this hearing because 50 people came late?" asked Dolph F. Jaeger, of 1 Manor Terrace. "In the discussion of the Cambodia action several months ago, no provision was made for those outside." His remarks were applauded.

But the council, on a motion by Hauke, voted 4-0 for the delay.

Councilman Robert H. Andresen did not participate in the discussion or the voting because his law partner, Lawrence A. Mayer, at one time represented Needleman and Lerner.

Mill Valley Earmarks Funds For Slide Study

The Mill Valley City Council last night appropriated up to $3,500 for soils tests of the massive Miller Avenue Slide to provide legal ammunition in its fight for the slide's removal.

With the results of the tests, the city hopes to recover the cost of removing the slide from the owner of the property, Thomas Collison.

The tests by the San Francisco soils engineer firm of Dames and Moore will show, the city hopes, that the slide was caused by failure of Collison's land.

Councilman Jerome C. Hauke said he opposed the appropriation "because I don't think it'll get the slide fixed this winter, if at all."

He said he was "not convinced that we're going to get blood out of a turnip, especially since the turnip's in Spain." Collison now lives in Granada, Spain.

"What would we do if it proved the city was at fault?" she asked. "Wouldn't it be better to leave it in doubt if that's the case?"

Councilman Robert H. Andresen, however, said it was important to find the truth before proceeding with litigation against Collison.

"If we're going to send the City Atty. (Leland H. Jordan) into battle, we shouldn't give him a toy gun. He needs live ammunition."

Andresen then moved to appropriate the funds. The motion passed, 3-2, with Hauke and Mayor George E. Wickham dissenting. A second motion, to transfer $2,700 from contingencies as partial funding also passed 3-2.

The Mill Valley City Council Also:

CUT — Was told by City Engineer Stanley M. Bala that a cut through Cascade Park for a new sewer line is temporary and ground cover will be restored when the job is complete.

WALL — Awarded a $4,270 contract to Carcano-Velcich Associates of San Rafael for a retaining wall at 400 Ethel Avenue. Bala had estimated the work would cost $4,020.

DRAINAGE — Awarded a $5,890 contract to Ghilotti Brothers of San Rafael for drainage improvements at Monte Vista and Hazel Avenues. Engineer's estimated: $6,700.

BID — Awarded a $6,682 contract to Ghilotti Brothers of San Rafael for drainage improvements on Elm Avenue. Engineer's estimate: $6,891.

SEWER LINE — Approved plans and specifications and called for bids for a sewer main from 12 Ethel Avenue to Throckmorton Avenue.

BICYCLES — Heard a report from City Mgr. William H. Cunningham that Tamalpais High School plans to construct a temporary bicycle storage area in the school's rear parking lot.

DELAY — Continued to its Nov. 16 meeting three public hearings —rezoning of four acres at Miller Avenue and La Goma Street for 68 townhouses; rezoning and master plan approval for 337 apartments on 42 acres at Camino Alto and East Blithedale Avenue; and approval of a plan for a Holiday Inn Motel on Redwood Highway.

EXTENSION — Denied a 10-year extension to a requirement that Jack Martin of 4 Lone Tree Avenue, tie into the city sewer system.

METERS — Agreed to the Chamber of Commerce's request to allow up to two hours free parking at parking meters in the city from Nov. 27 to Dec. 31.

NEXT MEETING — Adjourned to next Tuesday at 8 p.m. at city hall to meet with the planning commission and the county planning staff on the requirement for a housing element to the city's master plan.

Children's Classes In Judo Slated

The classes will meet on Thursdays at 5 and 6 p.m. No class will be held Thanksgiving Day and the sessions will end Dec. 10.

Instruction will be given by the Marin School of Self Defense. Registration may be made at the park and recreation department office at Walnut Park.

SERVING ALL OF MARIN COUNTY

THIRD SECTION — SAN RAFAEL, CALIFORNIA, TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 3, 1970 — 17

THE BALLOT IS SECRET

Nurse Hellen Chandler makes sure that Mrs. Keith Grady of San Rafael has all the privacy of any polling place. Mrs. Grady, new mother of seven-pound, 11-ounce Jennifer Rose, voted today from her bed in Marin General Hospital's Maternity ward. She was one of about 25 patients voting at the hospital. Ballots were picked up from the county elections office by hospital volunteers who were deputized to oversee patient balloting.

A Sympathy March Held At Quentin

A small group of demonstrators marched outside the gates of San Quentin Prison today in sympathy with demands purportedly made by prisoners at Folsom Prison in Sacramento County.

Albert R. Jacobs, San Quentin associate warden, said the first demonstrators appeared shortly after 9 a.m., and there were 21 at 11 a.m.

Many carried signs proclaiming some of the Folsom demands, including union pay and job training for prisoners. Signs also called for prison walls to be torn down, the "Soledad Brothers" freed and "forced racism" ended.

The group, which Jacobs said was apparently from San Francisco State College, was orderly and there was no trouble, he said.

An unsigned flyer distributed on the San Francisco State campus called for a demonstration outside Folsom prison as well as to support prisoner demands.

The flyer said that prisoners in all of the 13 state prisons would begin a strike today, but activity was normal on a holiday schedule at San Quentin, Jacobs said.

Folsom prisoners also carried on normal activities, while a small group of demonstrators marched outside that prison.

Carlton Testifies He Feared Invasion Of I-J Building

I-J Special Report

FAIRFIELD — Lt. James W. Carlton of the San Rafael police testified yesterday that he thought a group of pickets was planning to force its way into the Independent-Journal just prior to an outbreak of violence behind the newspaper plant on Valentine's Day.

Carlton's testimony came in the 10th day of the Solano Superior Court trial of seven men arrested during the riotous Feb. 14 demonstration in support of San Francisco Typographical Union 21. The union struck the I-J Jan. 7.

Carlton told the jury in Judge William E. Jensen's courtroom that he saw a group of pickets engaged in what appeared to be an effort to enter the embattled building.

The lieutenant, jointly in charge of a large police force at the demonstration, said the police guard was promptly strengthened outside the B Street entrance and that the crowd resumed its march around the building when he asked picket captains to get the demonstrators moving.

This incident, he said, came moments before a major disturbance on Julia Street as a car attempted to reach the I-J's circulation truck dock. This and his belief that the pickets had become "agitated" were given by Carlton as his reasons for ordering the demonstrators to disperse when the car was besieged on Julia Street.

He testified earlier in the trial that picketing was peaceful for up to four hours after a window-smashing foray by demonstrators shortly after 8 a.m.

(Although the prosecution concedes picketing was relatively peaceful from about 8:30 a.m. to 12:50 p.m., when the car was encircled on Julia, it seeks to show that there was little for the demonstrators to do after attacking the plant in early morning and that the purpose of the demonstration, called in support of striking printers, was to prevent the I-J from publishing or doing any business that day.)

Carlton, in his final day on the stand yesterday as the prosecution's opening witness, buoyed defense hopes when he told of being informed by two policemen at the scene of the Julia Street melee that there was considerable doubt whether his commands to disperse, given via a powerful loudspeaker atop a building across from the I-J, could be heard.

A tape-recorded diary of Carlton's made during the demonstration was to have been played yesterday, but Judge Jensen agreed with defense contentions that the recording would not add to testimony already given and this should not be heard by the jury.

Arguments between Marin Deputy Dist. Atty. Joshua W. Thomas and defense attorneys continued yesterday over the defense's right to view photographs Thomas intends to offer as evidence, and Judge Jensen said he was considering holding the prosecutor in contempt for not letting the defense see the pictures.

Judge Jensen said he would make a decision tomorrow after reviewing the substance of an earlier order to Thomas surrounding release of the pictures.

The trial, after a day off for Election Day, will resume tomorrow at 9 a.m. Charles Brobeck, a San Rafael police officer who observed the Julia Street disturbance from a rear balcony of the Rafael Theater, is expected to be Thomas's next witness.

Judge Jensen yesterday clarified his earlier ruling in connection with Brobeck's testimony. The defense said yesterday it thought Brobeck should not be permitted to testify in view of the fact it did not receive a copy of Brobeck's police report in advance of the trial, but the judge said his ruling merely restricted the officer's testimony.

Plan For Townhouses Back To Committee

A plan for 24 townhouses on Tiburon's Red Hill was sent back to committee last night by the Tiburon Planning Commission because members objected to the massiveness and monotony of the buildings.

Planning Director Wayne E. Moody said the commission felt the two-story structures, which would be built in a row with no side yards, would make a "very bulky project out of scale and character with other developments on Red Hill."

The commission asked its design review board to "try to break up the linearity" of the project, Moody said.

The commission approved a tentative subdivision map for 27 single-family houses on Mount Tiburon. Of 23 acres in the project, the applicant, Irving V. Moulin, would leave 6.8 acres of steep canyon in open space and build a trail system through the subdivision, Moody said.

The commission recommended that the city council amend its zoning ordinance to set permit fees by resolution instead of by the more cumbersome ordinance procedure.

Commissioners also endorsed a resolution setting four new fees: master plan in a planned development zone, $100 plus $5 per acre; precise plan in a planned development zone, $40 plus $5 per $100,000 value; precise plan requiring design review, $40 plus $2 per dwelling unit over two, and permits for dual use of parking spaces, $10.

The Tiburon Planning Commission also:

DESIGN REVIEW — Appointed Commissioners Allan M. Littman and Peter MacGowan to study amendments to the zoning ordinance to require design review of dwellings more than 30 feet in height and to revise height definitions. The committee is to report at the commission's Dec. 7 meeting.

HORSES — Appointed Commissioners Bennett Wren and Charles E. Bassett to study ordinances designating which zones would allow horses and establishing criteria for issuing licenses for horses.

NEXT MEETING — Adjourned to Dec. 7 at 8 p.m. at city hall.

Change In Plea Entered By Inmate

San Quentin inmate John L. Nelson, charged with two felony offenses stemming from his holdinf his wife hostage at knifepoint for three hours on March 15, changed his plea to guilty on one count yesterday and received a concurrent sentence.

The plea change came as Nelson was due to go to trial in Marin Superior Court. When he pleaded guilty to having a home made knife, the second charge of taking his wife hostage was dismissed.

His sentence will run concurrently with the time he is serving for two rape convictions from San Diego County.

In another San Quentin case yesterday, a jury in the Marin Superior Court of Judge Thomas F. Keating found Clarence Jacobs guilty of committing battery on a guard on May 5 at the prison.

Jacobs, who is serving time for an Imperial County burglary, will be sentenced next Tuesday.

Rohnert Park Council Backs Annexation

The Rohnert Park City Council last night approved annexation to the city of 265 acres north of Sonoma State College.

The annexation request, to be forwarded to the Sonoma County Local Agency Formation Commission, was made by Van Logan of Land Investors' Research, Marin County.

City Mgr. Peter M. Callinan said early development of the property is expected, with housing units designed for Sonoma State College students. He said he also is working with land owners for commitments for sites for neighborhood parks, schools, and a large regional park.

Another annexation proposal, including 204 acres south of the college, met with opposition from the council and was withdrawn. The council said it found no need for annexation since no immediate development plans have been made.

The Rohnert Park City Council also:

MOBILE HOMES — Gave preliminary approval to plans of Codding Enterprises to develop a mobile home park on 30 acres on the west side of Highway 101.

CABLE TV — Noted that Storer Cable Television is offering a special installation price of 99 cents for new customers and asked the firm to make the price permanent. The council also asked the firm to begin cablecasting city council meetings by next March 1, with mutual use of television equipment at Rancho Cotati High School.

HEARING — Adjourned to next Monday at 7 p.m. for a public hearing on an assessment district to widen Snyder Lane.

Pleads Innocent To Charges

Judy Smith Osborne, 33, of San Francisco, entered innocent pleas in Marin Municipal Court yesterday to felony charges of possessing marijuana, having two driver's licenses and being drunk in public.

A preliminary hearing was set for Dec. 15.

Mrs. Osborne was arrested early in the morning of Oct. 26 in a car found by sheriff's deputies on the wrong side of the road on the Sausalito Lateral.

The driver of the car, Raymond Howell of San Francisco, was arrested on suspicion of drunken driving. Mrs. Osborne reportedly had a pot cigarette in her purse as well as two driver's licenses, two social security cards and two authorizations for food stamps.

Six Facing Dec. 3 Trial Over Fracas

Edward Burton Braverman, 22, of Mill Valley, was charged yesterday with defiling an American flag, refusing to leave an unlawful assembly and resisting arrest. Mark Quadlind Kerson, 19, also of Mill Valley, was accused of two counts of battery upon police officers as well as resisting arrest and refusing to leave an unlawful assembly.

Four others were charged only with resisting arrest and refusing to leave an unlawful assembly. They are Samuel French Kerson, 24, of San Francisco, Clifton Harvey Keyes, 25, of Mill Valley, and Marc Estrin, 21, of Mill Valley.

Charles Edward Cox, 23, of no known address, was charged with disturbing the peace and blocking a public thoroughfare.

The fracas started about 2:30 p.m. Saturday when a Sausalito police officer was called to the area in front of the Village Fair Shopping Center where a crowd had gathered to watch the Mime Troupe dancing. The officer said that when he asked the crowd to disperse, the group became hostile.

Jury Trial Set

A jury trial was set yesterday in Marin Superior Court for Robert W. Gilliam, 20, of San Francisco, for the week of Feb. 21. Gilliam is charged with burglarizing a San Rafael model home on July 14, 1968.

Marin Bridge Board Member Will Resign

Joseph E. Sheeks, Marin representative to the Golden Gate Bridge District Board of Directors, announced today he will retire from the board when his term expires on Nov. 20.

"Although I have enjoyed the opportunity for service in this capacity, I feel I cannot afford the time required to do a proper job," he told the Marin County Board of Supervisors.

"It's all a matter of time," said Sheeks, "I just can't make a living and devote adequate time to the bridge board. Sheeks is an attorney with the firm of Bagley, Bianchi and Sheeks of San Rafael.

Supervisors voted a resolution of thanks for Sheeks' two-year stint on the bridge board. He was appointed on Oct. 22, 1968, to fill out the term of Thomas D. Hardcastle. The term ends Nov. 20 this year.

John F. McInnis, chairman of the Marin County Board of Supervisors, asked each supervisor to be thinking of a successor to fill the post left by Sheeks.

Marin County has two other representatives on the bridge board. One is supervisor Michael Wornum and the other is C. Paul Bettini, appointed by the Council of Mayors and Councilmen.

Tiburon Must Finance Bus Service Without Subsidy

If Tiburon wants mid-day bus service continued between Strawberry and downtown Tiburon, the city will have to finance it without further subsidy, the majority of the Marin County Transit District directors declared today.

Marin Transit Systems Inc. of Marin City operates the service with a $4,000 per month subsidy from the transit district.

The mid-day service gets so little patronage that it will have to be abandoned, said Theophus Barron, president of the bus firm.

Transit Director Denis T. Rice, urged that the service be retained, with the City of Tiburon paying $600 per month on condition that mid-day service will be provided free to Tiburon residents, including school children.

"We have other areas, like San Geronimo, West Marin, Bolinas and Stinson which have no service," said Director Louis H. Baar. "If we contribute to every splinter area, we'll defeat our purpose. If Tiburon wants the service, it should pay for it."

Peter R. Arrigoni Jr. noted that other school districts must pay for bus service for children, and said he would oppose subsidizing bus service that would give free rides to children in one locality only.

Kenneth L. Anderson also opposed the subsidy.

Michael Wornum backed Rice, saying he would like to see a free ride system tried in Tiburon, if only to see if patronage can be stimulated.

At Baar's motion, the directors tabled the matter.

Another request for subsidy, by Cecil J. Allen of the San Rafael Richmond Bus Line, also was tabled by the directors.

Suspect Booked On Marijuana

An 18-year-old San Jose man, hitchhiking through Novato, was arrested at 4:49 a.m. today on suspicion of possession of marijuana and dangerous drugs.

Alex Ray Contreras was booked into Marin County Jail with bail not set. He was scheduled to appear this afternoon in Marin Municipal Court.

Novato police reported they questioned Contreras on Highway 101 at Grant Avenue, searched him and found a plastic bag containing four white tablets and vegetable matter thought to be marijuana.

Vandal Stomps On Man's Corvette

A San Rafael man told police that someone stomped on his Chevrolet Corvette in the municipal parking lot at Third and Cijos Streets bewteen 8 and 9:15 p.m. yesterday.

San Rafael police said whoever walked over the car of Jeffrey Snyder of 255 Channing Way, Apt. 8, crushed the fiberglass hood, twisted the radio antenna and scratched paint. Damage was estimated at $100.

Felony Charge On Club Possession

James Harold Dineen, 23, of Anaconda, Mont., was arraigned yesterday in Marin Municipal Court on a felony charge of possessing a billy club Saturday in Sausalito.

His case was continued today for entry of plea.

Dineen was stopped to check his auto which was parked off Rodeo Avenue off-ramp. The officer said that the billy club was on the flor of the back seat.

Youth Sentenced To 30 Days Jail Term

Judge E. Warren McGuire of Marin Superior Court yesterday placed Mark Adam Laufer, 19, of Santa Venetia, on probation for two years and sent him to jail for 30 days for his part in the May 29 burglary of Foster's Freeze Drive-In in San Rafael.

Laufer, who earlier pleaded guilty to the burglary, was arrested inside the drive-in along with a 16-year-old juvenile hall escapee. Officers said a third youth escaped.

Union Labor Publication Raises Voice For Decency

"America has become a strange place. Americans no longer help one another. Instead they demand, 'Give me what I want or else!' Organized labor has been a major contributor to this new attitude of predation, and recently dozens of special interest groups claiming to be 'oppressed minorities' have followed labor's example. The standard approach to solving social problems has become (1) to find someone to blame for the problem and (2) to threaten violence unless the 'guilty party' pays up."

The foregoing quotation is not from the John Birch Society Newsletter. Neither is it from a publication of the U.S. Chamber of Commerce, nor the National Right To Work Committee, nor the Republican Party. It is from a labor union publication, the Musical Voice, published by the Committee To Reform the San Francisco Musicians Union.

The committee, formed last January, is headed by Joe E. Lindenmeier, a Daly City musician who also operates a glass tinting and janitorial service and who is a candidate for president of American Federation of Musicians Local 6 in its election upcoming next month.

THE MUSICAL VOICE makes some very severe charges against the local which Lindenmeier and his committee seek to reform. It lists nine violations of federal law which were found by the U.S. Department of Labor in the local's last election. It charges that the musicians' union's policies keep musicians unemployed while entertainment places turn to "canned" music, and that they bar from membership the rock musicians who have created a recording business that rapidly is becoming a major Bay Area industry.

The committee, in this union publication, claims that if its candidates are elected next month they "will transform Local 6 into . . . an example for the whole community to follow."

They will do this, says the Musical Voice, "by cooperating with musical employers and promoters to an unprecented degree. Local 6 will not bully, badger, threaten, intimidate, or harrass anyone; instead it will bend over backward to assist club owners and musical promoters in presenting live entertainment.

"Local 6 may not be able to single-handedly reverse musical unemployment in the Bay Area," it goes on, "but it can set an example that the best way to solve America's pressing social problems is through cooperation, not selfish-minded strife. If such an example is not set, and soon, in only a few years America will suffer massive civil strife at the hands of special interest groups,each fighting for a better deal for itself. The result will be anarchy or the imposition of a dictatorship."

WE ARE NOT acquainted with Joe E. Lindenmeier. We do not know what chance he and his fellow candidates have to win a union election. But we agree completely with the analysis presented in the Musical Voice, and with this position, as voiced in its editorial:

"The Committee To Reform the San Francisco Musicians' Union believes that it is better for Americans to cooperate with one another for the common good than to be constantly bullying one another, whether it be via strikes, boycotts, violence, civil disobedience, intimidation, or guerrilla warfare."

"My theories aren't banned by my government — just ignored!"

Suit Alleges Discrimination In Financial Firms' Taxation

By HENRY C. MacARTHUR

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — Laws which allegedly foster discrimination against taxpayers are the target in a suit filed in Los Angeles County Superior Court by attorney Jack B. Silver, Beverly Hills, on behalf of Ronald Brooks Cameron, candidate for state controller.

Although the suit apparently has an election gimmick, there remains a vital point which Silver seeks to have cleared up by court action.

The point is that under the provisions of the California constitution, the state legislature is required, when raising taxes of insurance companies, banks and corporations, to secure a two-thirds vote before any taxes on these institutions can be increased.

On the other hand, when the legislature increases taxes on the public, only a majority vote is needed, according to constitutional terms.

SAID SILVER: "This discrimination violates the equal protection laws of the federal Constitution. The effect of this type of voting requirement has been great on the individual taxpayer."

On the face of the situation, it is surprising that the method of increasing the insurance, bank and corporation taxes has not been challenged in the courts before.

Silver says that the tax rates on insurance companies have not been increased since 1952, whereas individual taxpayers' income taxes have increased 143 per cent since 1966. The increase of corporate and bank income taxes during this period was only 34 per cent.

"Within the last four years," said Silver, "individual income tax has been increased five times as rapidly as have taxes on banks and corporations.

"The current ratio is approximately $1.94 individual income tax to $1 paid by banks and corporations."

THE CONTENTION cited in the case would appear to bear out some of the claims made to the effect that insurance companies, banks, and corporations are not paying their fair share for the costs of government in California.

And the proclivity of the federal courts in various actions to end discrimination of various types would appear to indicate that Silver has a point worth arguing.

It will be recalled that federal courts ordered reapportionment of the state on the basis of "one-man, one-vote" in a case that involved the elimination of discrimination. That case was also filed by an attorney named Silvers, but not the same attorney filing the tax case.

Insurance concerns, banks and corporations have enjoyed a privileged status for a good many years, in that it takes more votes to increase their taxes than it does to increase the taxes of the normal taxpayer.

The mere fact that insurance companies and banks maintain powerful lobbies in Sacramento inhances their ability to maintain this privileged status while the ordinary taxpayer whistles in the dark when it comes to influencing legislators.

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Gratitude To Fire, Police Officers

We have always admired the excellent performance by the Tiburon fire and police departments.

Recently we have had a personal experience, a serious accident, where our firemen and police officers responded to an emergency call with greatest possible speed, efficiency and understanding and, with prompt cooperation by the Bay Cities Ambulance Co., Mill Valley, decisively contributed to the happy resolution of an ugly situation.

Please publish our most sincere appreciation, respect and thanks. And remember that their long outstanding record well deserves the encouragement of the best additional commending publicity of which you are so capable.

Water District Headline Misleads

Your headline on the Marin Water District Story last night Oct. 30 is about as misleading and dishonest a one as I've ever seen.

True, the MMWD will be charging 1,000 per cent more for the golf course rental to the Meadow Club. But a thousand times an insignificant amount is still an insignificant amount. The raise in rent brings the monthly rate to less than $700 — an unheard of rental for this kind of property.

A better comparison would be the $250,000 plus that San Francisco makes on its golf course on water district lands. Viewed by this statistic, Marin is getting 3,000 per cent less than it could and should

Tunnel Rainbow 'Un-Beautification'

"As residents of Marin County, we wish to object strongly to your recent 'rainbow' painting of the south end of the Waldo Tunnel. This is a disfiguration of the landscape and an insult to the quiet beauty of the entire county.

"We would hope that the persons responsible for this highway un-beautification would reconsider and restore a more suitable appearance to this publicly owned property. The pastels of Cartoonland should be confined to the Sunday funnies."

Any efforts on your part to improve this regrettable situation would be truly appreciated.

Wrong Identification On School Picture

We appreciate your showing Mrs. (Toshie Liei) Connick and her audience in the Oct. 28 Independent-Journal, but in showing the picture of the girl bowing to Mrs. Connick, you made the mistake of putting Sue Brennan's name down when it was Carolyn Johnson's picture. And another error you made was in spelling Sue Brennan's last name.

You didn't give the boys credit for bringing flowers, also. Both boys and girls brought flowers, because it's a Japanese custom to bring flowers to homes when visiting. The boys didn't like not getting credit for bringing flowers.

Thank you again for the pictures and article. Mrs. Connick is to be commended for her part, also.

Bring Scout Dogs Back From War

G.I.s in Vietnam have made repeated appeals to the Animal Protection Institute, of Sacramento, for help in bringing home their scout dogs, now condemned by an arbitrary "no return" decision of the Defense Department, to be handed over to the Vietnamese army.

The first reason given for not returning the dogs was that they might transmit what is called "bleeders disease." This reason has now been discounted by the surgeon general's office, the disease being transmitted by a tick, already known in Florida.

The second, the problem of rehabilitation, does not bear examination. Thousands of dogs were successfully rehabilitated after World War 2, and the Australian army, in Vietnam, are meeting with no trouble in regard. The API has offered both its services and to find homes for the dogs.

Against the frightful cost of all kinds of weapons of destruction the price of this return, for devoted service, is ludicrously small. Congressman John Moss's bill, HR 19421, which provides for return, or humane disposition, of war dogs, is now referred to the House Armed Services Committee. Letters to the chairman, the Hon. L. Mendel Rivers, to the secretary of defense and to Congressman Moss, would be enormously helpful.

Election Post-Mortem To Measure Coattails

By RAYMOND LAHR

First to be checked will be the more than 20 states where President Nixon has openly campaigned and the more than 30 where Vice President Spiro T. Agnew has appeared.

Democratic efforts have been more often limited to single states. But in advance of the elections, Republicans were showing a healthy respect for former Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey's coattail to help fellow Democrats in Minnesota where he is the nominee to return to the Senate.

THERE IS AN old cliche in politics that the president "stakes his prestige" by campaigning for candidates of his party in years in which the presidency is not at stake. There is not much evidence to support the theory that a president is gambling with his political resources by such campaigning.

Dwight D. Eisenhower, a popular president, did some limited campaigning in the 1954 mid-term election year with indifferent results. His party lost control of Congress in 1954 and failed to regain it when Eisenhower won re-election by a landslide in 1956. His popularity just failed to rub off on Republican candidates.

A seasoned student and practitioner of politics, Nixon knows that a President's coattail is notoriously short in these mid-term elections. His was also very short in 1968 when he won the presidency but the Democrats retained control of Congress.

EXCLUDING "non-political" appearances, the President visited 21 states in October. Of these, only North Carolina has a contest for neither a Senate seat nor a governorship. In the others, 20 have Senate contests this year and 14 have elections for both senators and governors.

Along with payment of some political obligations, Nixon was concentrating on the administration's chief political goal of 1970—to gain the seven seats needed to control the Senate next year.

Humphrey has spent the campaign period in Minnesota, running for the seat of retiring Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy. He is expected to win by a margin which may help a Democrat win the governorship now held by a Republican, and Democratic candidates to unseat one or two Republicans in the House.

FORMER PRESIDENT Lyndon B. Johnson has limited his political appearances to Texas, where the GOP is trying to win a Senate seat and the governorship now held by a Democrat. Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, now the strongest prospect for the 1972 Democratic presidential nomination, has stayed in Maine since Oct. 1 to campaign for re-election. Previously he had appeared in 20 states this year and prepared radio or television tapes for candidates in about 10 other states.

Muskie's following is expected to help re-elect one Maine Democratic House member, who might otherwise be vulnerable. But there are doubts that it will save Democratic Gov. Kenneth M. Curtis.

SENATE DEMOCRATIC Whip Edward M. Kennedy, who has said he will not be a candidate for the 1972 presidential nomination, is staying in his home state of Massachusetts as a candidate for re-election. While he is shooting to win by a substantial margin, his strength is not expected to provide much ruboff for the rest of the state Democratic ticket.

Three other Democratic senators, whose terms do not expire this year and who are potential contenders for the presidential nomination, have traveled many miles for political and campaign events this year. Sen. George S. McGovern, S.D., has visited 23 states, Sen. Birch Bayh, Ind., 39, and Sen. Harold E. Hughes, Iowa, 28.

WINDOW ON THE WORLD

Hijacking Minor Worry To Troubled Russ Rulers

By PHIL NEWSOM, UPI Foreign News Analyst

When two laughing young men emerged from a hijacked Russian aircraft and announced they could "no longer live in the stranglehold regime" of the Soviet Union, to the Kremlin it could be no more than a momentary embarrassment.

To be sure, it was the second hijacking to be suffered by the Russians in less than two weeks, and it also was true that until the first pirated aircraft put down its wheels in Turkey, they had taken a detached view of the problem in the belief it could not happen to them.

But so far as the young dissidents were concerned, it was no more than what was happening to the rest of the world, and it need not be published at home.

OF FAR GREATER importance were events inside the Soviet Union. There was a spreading revolt among Russian scientists who long have been above the rules that applied to ordinary men.

When in early 1956 Nikita Khruschev denounced Josef Stalin at the Soviet Communist party's 20th congress, he opened a Pandora's box which the Soviet leadership never since has been able to close.

He cast doubt upon the infallibility of the Communist party, a doubt compounded by his own overthrow in 1964.

Further influencing subsequent events was the character of the collective leadership which followed him, composed of party leader Leonid Brezhnev, Premier Alexei Kosygin and President Nikolai Podgorny, a leadership pledged against a return of one-man rule, its action limited to compromise.

THE DOOR had been opened, and among intellectuals, first the students and writers and more lately the scientists, there arose increasingly outspoken demands for reform. Within the party leadership there was obvious indecision as to how best to deal with it.

Last May, a prominent Russian geneticist, Dr. Zhores Medvedev, was locked up in a mental institution apparently because he protested Russian censorship of international mail and the suspicion with which authorities regarded requests to travel abroad.

The collective leadership had made confinement to mental institutions an effective substitute for Stalin's firing squads.

Among the many who came to Medvedev's defense were two of special note. One was Alexander Solzhenitsyn, to the outside world one of the Soviet Union's greatest writers. Another was Dr. Andrei D. Sakharov, known as the father of the Russian hydrogen bomb and three-time winner of the Soviet Union's highest civilian award, "Hero of Socialist Labor."

UNDER THESE pressures, the regime released Medvedev in June.

Subsequently, Solzhenitsyn has come to new prominence as winner of the 1970 Nobel Prize for Literature. He says he will go to Stockholm to receive it.

As for Sakharov, he and his fellow physicists have received no more punishment than a warning to mind their ideological manners.

But in no case has the last word been spoken.

College Students Look For Help From County Housing Authority

When Sonoma County establishes a housing authority, it's a sure bet that the student body of Sonoma State College will be one of its biggest customers.

The demand for housing has driven rentals sky high around Rohnert Park and Cotati, while it is expected the level of student income will drop this year because of a tight job market.

The majority of Sonoma State students are older than the average college student. At the advanced age of 25 or 26, most students no longer wish to rely on "money from home."

Most students start the fall semester with money left over from summer jobs or military service. When forced to pay up to $240 per month for a two-bedroom apartment, these resources don't last very long.

A RECENT STUDY by two professors at the college showed that 65 per cent of the 3,200-student body rents housing, with about 1,800 living within 15 miles of the campus.

The study documented the tight budgets students must live on. In fact, 73 per cent reported monthly incomes of less than $250.

These economic factors force single students to crowd into the apartments to reduce costs, but leave the many married students desiring privacy to seek out the few low-cost housing units available.

Some of these low-cost units are not much more than renovated chicken coops and yet can eat up half of the student's meager income.

STUDENTS HAVE LONG felt they are at a distinct disadvantage and will, no doubt, welcome a housing authority if it can make decent housing available to them within their means.

The Santa Cruz County Housing Authority found itself in the student housing business because of the increasing enrollment at the University of California there.

While the housing authority will also concern itself with providing low-cost living units for low-income residents, agricultural workers, and elderly persons on fixed incomes, it is hoped the board of supervisors will give representation to the college community.

What Bird Is That? And That?

A bird identification workshop for members and the public will be presented by the Marin Audubon Society at its November meeting in the Ross Elementary School at 8 p.m. Friday.

John Small, acting director of Point Reyes Bird Observatory, will present an identification lesson on shorebirds of Marin County. Robin Dager will assist.

The workshop will be followed by a field trip to Bolinas Lagoon Nov. 21.

Other events planned for the month by the Audubon Society include:

Monday — A canoe trip on the upper Petaluma River; call Elizabeth Terwilliger in Mill Valley for reservations.

Nov. 11— Family holiday and hike at Steep Ravine Ranch, north of Stinson Beach; from gate of ranch at 10 a.m.

Nov. 16 — Tubbs Island bicycle trip, meeting at 10 a.m. in parking area on Highway 37 east of Tolay Creek bridge.

Nov. 22 — First of the season's Audubon Wildlife Film series, "Hawaii — Paradise of the Pacific" at 7:30 p.m. in Olney Hall, College of Marin. Single admissons or season tickets are still available.

Nov. 23 — Auto caravan to search for Monarch butterflies, leaving the Mill Valley Safeway market parking lot at 10 a.m.

Man, 4 Children Found On Mount Tamalpais

An East Bay man and four children, objects of an all-night search on Mount Tamalpais, were found unharmed about 8 a.m. yesterday.

Sheriff's officers said that Christopher Reuss, 28, his 3-year-old daughter Carla, and Lisa Pair, 12; Bill Pair, 8, and De De White, 9, were reported missing about 9 o'clock Sunday night.

A relative phoned the sheriff's department to report that the five had left Point Richmond about 1 p.m. saying they were going to hike on the mountain.

Their car was found at Rock Springs at about 9:30 p.m. and two deputies, two rangers and two Marin Municipal Water District employees searched the mountain area all night.

The man and the children were found yesterday about one-half mile east of Bart's Retreat on the southwest side of the west peak of the mountain.

It was ont known what town they live in.

Two Cars Burgled In San Rafael

Two auto burglaries were reported by San Rafael police yesterday.

Phillip K. Moessmer of 2 Skyline Road, San Anselmo, told police a man broke into his car Sunday at 9:35 p.m. in the United Market parking lot, 513 Third Street, and removed some parts from the back seat and the bolts holding on the back wheels. Moessmer chased the suspect away, police said, and stoden property was recovered from a nearby auto.

A stereo tape player and tapes valued at $180 were taken between 8 a.m. and 7:45 p.m. Sunday from the car of Brian S. Telford of 31 Gregg Place, Novato, while it was parked at 442 Las Gallinas Avenue, police said.

ART BUCHWALD

Take Week Off, Everybody; You Earned It During Campaign

WASHINGTON — Political campaigns are a very exhausting business, not only for the candidates who run for office, but also for the voters who have to listen to them speak.

Most political candidates, winners as well as losers, take off a week or two to rest up from their physically grueling experience. And they're probably entitled to it.

But what about the person who has been bombarded day and night for the past two months with political commercials, newspaper advertisements, speeches, charges, countercharges, fund appeals, rallies, rhetoric, hyperbole, slogans and dirty pool? No one thinks of him after the election. He is just supposed to pick up where he left off as if nothing happened.

WELL, I'M HAPPY to announce that for the first time in an election year the voter's welfare is being taken into consideration by somebody.

By the powers vested in me as an American citizen, I am giving all those exposed to the 1970 political campaign a week's vacation.

During that week, no one has to read any political story, watch any elected official or loser on television, or discuss with anyone the great political issues that are tearing at the very fabric of our society.

This means that you do not have to watch President Nixon, Vice President Agnew, Democratic Chairman Lawrence O'Brien, Sen William Fulbright or Hubert Humphrey on television for seven days. You can still watch Martha Mitchell if you want to, because most doctors believe that five minutes of seeing Mrs. Mitchell on television is worth a week of sun in the Virgin Islands.

YOU DO NOT have to read any of the political pundits who will explain what happened on election day, nor will you have to study the in-depth analyses by the pollsters as to why the Jewish people voted the way they did in New York, the Italians in Chicago, the Mexicans in Los Angeles, the blacks in Birmingham, Ala., and the WASPS in Grosse Pointe, Mich.

You can forget about the cover stories in Time, Newsweek, and U.S. News and World Report, and you can tune out any radio program that starts, "A recount was demanded in . . ."

For one week you can fish, swim, ski, play golf, read a good fiction book, listen to music and go see an X-rated movie and forget anything that was said during the past two months in the political campaigns. You might as well because the politicians elected to public office are certainly going to forget it as soon as they come back from their vacations.

During the next seven days, take your children to a ball game, your wife to a restaurant, your girl friend away for a weekend. If you're a woman, bake a cake, go to a museum, buy a pair of boots and go away with your boyfriend for a weekend.

You, as a voter, a consumer, a TV watcher, a newspaper reader, have earned this vacation as much as anyone who ran for office. Enjoy your seven-day furlough from politics. Believe me, if I had the power I'd give you more.

HERE'S A COMPROMISE!

Looking for a home in a top area, with 3 or 4 bedrooms, 2 baths, a fun family room, utility room, level front and rear patios AND a Bay view? Finding that for this type and quality of home the prices are astronomical? Here's the reason this home can be bought so reasonably — highway noise. Most of the problem has been solved, however, by a wrap-around, glass-enclosed deck. Consider it — a minor annoyance in return for so much quality living. $41,900.

SUMMONS (MARRIAGE)
Case Number 58344

Superior Court of California, County of Marin.

In re the marriage of Petitioner: MARGA S. KOCH
and
Respondent: HENRY C. KOCH

To the Respondent:

The petitioner has filed a petition concerning your marriage. You may file a written response within thirty days of the date that this summons is served on you. If you fail to file a written response within such time, your default may be entered and the court may enter a judgment containing injunctive or other orders concerning division of property, spousal support, child custody, child support, attorneys' fees, costs, and such other relief as may be granted by the court.

If you wish to seek the advice of an attorney in this matter, you should do so promptly so that your written response, if any, may be filed on time.

NOTICE OF SALE OF REAL PROPERTY AT PRIVATE SALE
No. 18968

In the Superior Court of the State of California in and for the County of Marin.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that on or after Friday, November 20, 1970, the undersigned, DONOVAN O. COOKE, M.D., Public Administrator of the County of Marin, as Administrator With the Will Annexed of the Estate of GEORGE EDWIN PARKER, Alias, Deceased, will sell at private sale to the higest bidder, subject to confirmation by the above-entitled Court, all the right, title and interest and estate of the decedent at the time of his death, and all the right, title and interest the estate has, by operation of law or otherwise, acquired other than or in addition to that of the decedent at the time of his death, in and to that certain real property located in the County of Marin, State of California, commonly known as Assessor's Parcel No. 1-123-30, Street Address: 133 Tamalpais Road, Fairfax, California, and more particularly described as follows:

All that certain real property situate in the City of Fairfax, County of Marin, State of California, described as follows:

LOTS 4 and 4A in Block "C", as shown upon that certain Map entitled, "Fairfax Manor", filed April 8, 1919, in Book 5 of Maps at page 4, Marin County Records.

EXCEPTING THEREFROM all that portion of Lot 4A described as follows:

COMMENCING at the Northeasterly corner of Lot 4A in Block C as shown on that certain Map entitled, "Amended Map of Fairfax Manor", filed in Book 5 of Maps at page 4, Marin County Records; and running thence along the Easterly line of Lot 4A South 25° 44' West 45 feet, thence at right angles to said last mentioned call North 64° 16' West 4 feet, thence North 25° 44' East 45 feet, more or less, to a point on the Northerly line of Lot 4A, thence along said Northerly line South 77° 52' East 4 feet, more or less, to the point of beginning.

Subject to: current taxes, covenants, conditions, restrictions, reservations, rights, rights of way, easements and encumbrances of record.

Bids or offers are invited for the property and must be in writing and may be delivered to the Administrator or to the office of his attorneys, BURESH, GARETY, VALLARINO & COSTAMAGNA, 1615 Fifth Avenue, San Rafael, California, or may be filed in the office of the Clerk of the Superior Court at any time after the first publication of this notice and before the making of the sale.

Terms and conditions of sale: Cash in lawful money of the United States of America, or part cash and part credit, the terms of such credit to be acceptable to the Administrator With the Will Annexed and the above-entitled Court; ten per cent (10%) of the amount of the bid to accompany the offer and the balance to be paid upon confirmation of sale by the Superior Cout. $200,000 Is Offered In Quebec Cases

OTTAWA (UPI)—Rewards of up to $200,000 were announced Monday by the Canadian government for the capture and conviction of Quebec Liberation Front terrorists responsible for the kidnap-murder of Pierre Laporte and the abduction of James Cross.

At the same time, new antiterrorist legislation replacing sweeping powers incorporated in the War Measures Act, put into effect Oct. 16, was introduced in parliament while in London, Scotland Yard issued an alert for six Canadian suspects who may attempt to slip into the country.

Ottawa officials, announcing the rewards, said the maximum amount for a single offer would be $75,000, but the total could go as high as $200,000. A $75,000 reward in the case of Cross, the British diplomat, was offering. Laporte was a Quebec provincial minister.

The government of Prime Minister Pierre Elliott Trudeau reiterated its offer of safe conduct to Cuba for kidnapers of Cross if they released him unharmed.

The major difference in the new legislation introduced and the War Measures Act would be the detention of a person for seven days instead of 21 without charges being laid. The War Measures Act permits the government, if it wishes, to suspend the nation's civil rights. Trudeau invoked provisions of the act when Laport was killed.

A Scotland Yard spokesman in London identified the six suspects believed ready to make an entry attempt as Paul Rose, his brother, Jacques Rose, Bernard Lortie, Francois Simard, Marc Charborneau and Jacques Lanctot.

Canadian Solicitor General George McIlrath told parliament in Ottawa Monday Paul Rose had been under surviellance at the time of the kidnapings, but had evaded arrest before the War Measures act was invoked.

Peale Sees Nixon As 'Our Greatest Positive Thinker'

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Norman Vincent Peale, who wrote a best-seller on the subject, feels Richard M. Nixon is "the greatest positive thinker of our times."

The 72-year-old clergyman was in town Monday to talk to a convention of motel owners.

Dr. Peale, who presided at the wedding of Julie Nixon and David Eisenhower two years ago, said Nixon personified the positive thinker because of his comeback from political oblivion.

He also had kind words for Spiro T. Agnew, Ronald Reagan, George Murphy and James L. Buckley, Conservative Party Senate candidate from New York.

Dr. Peale described himself as a "conservative," but not a "hawk," but he begged off a lengthy discussion of politics.

A Fight Over Too Much Work

NEW CASTLE, Australia (UPI) — Leborer Vincent Renshaw pleaded guilty today to assaulting a fellow worker for working as hard as three or four men.

The court was told Renshaw saw John Ozdovy loading two bags of wheat at a time on a truck instead of one and after exchanging words "Renshaw punched Ozdovy a number of times about the head and body," police said.

Renshaw's attorney told the court his client lost his temper because Ozdovy was doing work normally done by three or four men.

Kentfield Composer To Release Album

A young Kentfield composer, whose group the Tamalpais Exchange is now playing at New York's Bitter End night club, will soon realease his second album.

Michael Knight, son of Mr. and Mrs. James G. Knight of 67 Francis Avenue, is in Florida recording the new album following distribution last month of his first titled "Tamalpais Exchange," his father reported yesterday.

The first album features music from the off-Broadway rock musical of the same name which was composed by Knight and had a five-week run last winter, Knight said.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Saturday Night Palsy Brings Paralysis To Extremities

Van Dellen

Pressure on a nerve or artery is the main cause of numbness and tingling of an extremity. In most instances, the discomfort awakens the individual, and the sensation disappears with a change in position. When pressure on a nerve lasts 30 or more minutes, sleep palsy occurs. The involved extremity is not only numb, but cannot be lifted because of weakness or paralysis.

A person must be dead tired to develop sleep palsy, and some victims admit drinking too much before retiring. Saturday night palsy is a more serious form of the disease. The drunk falls asleep with his arm hanging over the back of the chair and the head resting on his arm. This causes considerable pressure on the nerves and blood vessels in the armpit.

MANY MIDDLE-AGED persons are awakened at night by a "pins and needles" sensation in both arms (acroparesthesia). This condition is due to pressure on the nerves of the neck. The tingling is noted in both arms and comes on regardless of what position the extremity is in.

Numbness, tingling, burning, aching or pain may develop when the neck muscles press upon that artery that delivers blood to the arm. This is more apt to occur when the arm is held over the head, especially when sleeping. In this position, certain muscles and tendons cross over the blood vessels and cut off the circulation.

THERE HAVE been reports of gangrene developing in the tips of the fingers from sleeping with the hands above the head. The pulse at the wrist is strong when the arms are held at the sides of the body but disappears when the hands are held above the head. The remedy: the spouse should tie the victim's hands to the sides of the body on going to bed.

(Questions on medical topics will be answered by mail if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request to the Independent-Journal.)

ALBUMIN

REPLY

Other kidney tests will be needed to determine whether the albumin in the urine is caused by disease or represents an innocent finding. Now and then the albumin appears only after reclining but disappears on being up and about. Send stamped, self-addressed envelope for our leaflet on albuminuria.

SHINGLES NOT FATAL

A.G. writes: Is there any truth in the old saying that if shingles goes clear around the waistline, it's the end?

REPLY

No, but there is a grain of truth in the misconception. Shingles usually attacks a nerve on one side of the body. However, exceptions occur in people who are extremely ill, debilitated or dying of cancer. These individuals have very little resistance and may develop shingles on both sides of the body. Should they succumb, the original disease and not the shingles should be blamed.

WARTS AND BARE FEET

S. writes: Several girls in our high school class dance in bare feet on wooden floors. Warts developed on the bottom of one girl's feet and her physician blames barefoot dancing. Is this possible?

REPLY

Yes, because some warts are caused by viruses, which are contagious. They develop in minor injuries or scratches when walking or dancing barefooted.

Today's Health Hint — Colds may be lessened by maintaining resistance.

Trial Set For Prison Guard On Gun Threat Count

San Quentin guard William B. Endres, 41, of San Rafael, has been arraigned in Marin Municipal Court on a charge of exhibiting a firearm in a rude and threatening manner in a Sausalito restaurant.

Endres pleaded innocent to the misdeamor and a jury trial has been set for March 25.

The officer was arrested Wednesday evening after an employee of the Valhalla Restaurant called police saying Endres had been waving and pointing the gun at her.

Police said they saw Endres hiding behind a archway near a door to the restaurant. The officers said he ran into the restaurant when he saw them and was arrested sitting at the bar with the gun lying on the bar.

The gun was loaded, police said.

Four Marinites Join Air Force

Four Marin youths, including a girl, enlisted in the Air Force lost month, T/Sgt. Bennie Montoya, Air Force recruiter for Marin County, has reported.

Trial Set For 3 In Burglary

A jury trial was set yesterday for Jan. 1 in Marin Superior Court for four Marin City youths charged with burglarizing an Almonte residence on Dec. 1, 1969.

Due to stand trial are Terry Lee Grinner, Robert Ward, Ralph Wayne Howard and Harold Cook, all 18 at the time of the arrest.

The youth's were arrested after sheriff's deputies staked out the house which had been burglarized earlier in the day. The four were nabbed when they came back to the house, apparently to pick up hidden loot.

Hearing Is Slated In Marijuana Case

The case of Paul Edward LeClair, 19, of San Anselmo, charged with possessing marijuana Sept. 26 in San Anselmo, was not accepted by juvenile court because he is already on adult probation.

A preliminary hearing has been set for Dec. 8 in Marin Municipal Court.

Self-Defense In Thoresen Death Case

FRESNO, Calif. (UPI)—Attorneys for Louise Thoresen will attempt to convince the jury that she killed her millionaire gun collector husband in self-defense — even though she might have been able to flee instead.

That was the line of defense which emerged Monday during jury selection in the trial of the widow of William E. Thoresen III, whose bullet-riddled body was found in a bed at their Fresno home amid crates containing machineguns, grenades, other weapons and munitions.

The prosecution waived the death penalty Monday after defense attorney Kenneth Devaney indicated that Mrs. Thoresen will claim she shot her husband in self-defense.

Mrs. Thoresen, 34, slender and long-haired, sat quietly in a two-piece blue suit with miniskirt as attorneys questioned prospective jurors.

Defense attorneys James Shepard and Devaney asked all prospective jurors whether they agreed that person has a right to defend himself without first trying to escape.

"If the court instructed you that a person is not required to try to escape before defending himself, and the evidence showed Mrs. Thoresen had a reasonable opportunity to retreat, will you be able to follow that instruction?" Shepard asked.

Out of a panel of 60 possible jurors, the defense and prosecution interviewed 20 Monday and nine of these were excused.

More prospective jurors were to be questioned today.

Thoresen, the heir to a Chicago steel fortune, was shot five times in the back with a .38-caliber pistol June 10.

The weapon was one of hundreds found in the house by officers who said the place "looked like a warehouse" with crates full of machineguns, mortars, land mines, grenades, handguns and explosives. Fifty pounds of marijuana were also found.

In 1969 Thoresen and his wife were both convicted of hoarding 77 tons of weapons and munitions in the San Francisco area in 1967. A review of that ruling had been ordered the day before Thoresen was shot.

50 Children Die From Drug

NEW DELHI (UPI)—Police reported today at least 50 children have died since Sunday morning in three Punjab towns after being given a poisonous drug by the son of an unlicensed doctor.

Police said the drug responsible for the deaths was given to 35 children of Moga and to 48 children in surrounding areas.

Physicians said the children apparently died of strychanine poisoning.

The 22-year-old son of a homeopathic medical practitioner, who was practising without a license, was arrested and charged with causing death due to negligence.

Judge Critical From Burns

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—A Stockton judge is in critical condition at a San Francisco hospital today because of burns suffered in an eastern San Joaquin County hunting lodge.

Judge Robert Sullivan of San Joaquin County Superior Court suffered third-degree burns over 40 per cent of his body Sunday when a lodge stove exploded.

The accident apparently happened when Sullivan poured lighter fluid into a stove he believed was cold. Embers set off the blast and fire.

THE PUBLIC PAYROLL

Outlay In Novato Schools

The Independent-Journal today continues publication of public payrolls in Marin, listing wages and salaries now paid in the Novato Unified School District.

The following payments are subject to upward revision, however. The district board has offered teachers a 6 per cent raise, but the teachers have rejected that, insisting upon a 9 per cent raise.

Nonteaching personnel have requested an unspecified cost-of-living increase.

Any raises granted would be retroactive to July 1.

Marin's Best-seller on current events

You can learn a lot that's not in the books from your daily I-J. Unlike a text, it presents the texture of living events . . . the here and now of history drawn from the most exciting library — the world itself.

Each day, hundreds of news stories and articles bring you the mental stimulation of WHAT HAPPENED, where, how and why. Combined, they bring you perspective; they help you form judgements, enable you to act in an informed manner on public affairs.

With the I-J you're not merely "taking the paper," you're subscribing to a liberal education provided you read and think. All yours at a price which even includes personal delivery to your door.

TELEVISION REVIEW

Series Touches Raw Nerve In Canada

By RICK DU BROW

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—"Relevance" is the aim of many American video shows this season. But it's unlikely NBC-TV expected its current two-part episode of the "Ironside" series, which uses a plot device that involves Canadian terrorists, to be as edgily topical as it is.

The program, which concludes with this Thursday's episode, has been postponed in Canada because of the recent tense events in that nation surrounding terrorists and the separatist movement.

Spokesmen for NBC-TV and Universal Studios, which produces the series, said they understood originally the postponement would be for several weeks, but concede it is a matter of judgment for Canadian television, which must gauge the taste from its own vantage point.

Of the postponement in Canada, Cy Chermak, executive producer of "Ironside," says: "I think they are absolutely right."

Actually, many Canadian viewers, including those in Montreal, saw the first episode on American channels received there. According to a newsman colleague north of the border, the show "has caused a fair stir in Canada," and is "uncomfortably — for Montrealers—realistic."

The two-parter is not so much relevant — that is, significant socially—as it is just topical. It is, in fact, a throwback to the ancient and much-practiced movie device of combining mystery and romance against a background of social upheaval. The accident in this case was that the real upheaval suddenly made nasty headlines.

In the two-parter, a theft is part of the focus. And Capt. Ironside (Raymond Burr), a law enforcement expert, is in Montreal to attend a meeting of criminologists. A delegate to the meeting was killed outside the hotel in the exposon of a mailbox. And an 18-year-old boy, member of a terrorist group, was arrested in connection with the crime. The boy's mother appealed to Ironside for help, and it turned out she was Ironside's old flame. Thus the touch of romance.

Ironside and others at the meeting decided the death was more likely related to the theft than a politically-motivated slaying. Thus the touch of mystery. In the second part, says NBC-TV, the death is widely attributed to political motives. There is dissent within the terrorist group about the planned bombing of a parade; the boy's girlfriend tries to prevent him from getting involved. The Montreal police must guard against a parade incident and also solve the delegate's murder.

The script, said Chermak, was written more than a yeor ago, and the principal photography was finished in July. He said the writer, Sandy Stern, "wanted to tell a love story and a mystery against the background of the separatist movement." Almost all the show was shot at Universal. Only some airport exteriors and the St. Jean Baptiste parade were filmed in Canada. And none of the series stars went north for this.

Said an NBC-TV spokesman: "We feel the separatist part of the show is only peripheral. The program was reviewed several times by our standards people as developments occurred in Canada, and each time we felt the show was not in bad taste."

Hearings Set On Tax Help For Ecology

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — Hearings on taxation as a means to control the environment will be held Thursday and Friday in San Francisco by the Assembly Revenue and Taxation Committee.

Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael, chairman of the committee, said the hearings will compare the effectiveness of various tax incentives with added taxes "for those who are destroying our environment."

The hearings will be from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. in Room 30, 170 Fell Street.

The hearings, from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. on both days, will be held Thursday in the Golden Gate Bridge District's toll plaza offices and Friday in the Board of Education Hearing Room, Room 30, 170 Fell Street.

Testifying on Thursday will be former Marin County Supervisor Ernest N. Kettenhofen of San Anselmo and representatives of the State Water Resources Board, State Air Resources Board, Sierra Club and Anti-Litter League.

Three Teen-Agers Injured In Two Auto Accidents

Three San Rafael teen-agers were injured Sunday in two traffic accidents in San Rafael, police reported yesterday.

Donna Lynn Nelson, 16, of 620 B Street was treated at Marin General Hospital for cuts on the chin and left leg and a fractured nose. Her car hit a brickwall during a U-turn on Oakdale Avenue near Mountain View at 1:58 a.m., police said.

A companion, Leslie Lynne Mitchell, 14, of 1476 Lincoln Avenue was admitted to the hospital for back strain and multiple bruises. She was released today, according to a hospital spokesman.

Scott Pfeiffer, 15, of 27 Archangel Way, was treated at Marin General at 2 p.m. for a cut left knee and bruises on the left elbow and hand. The hospital said he was involved in a motorcycle accident in San Rafael, but police had no record of the accident today.

San Rafael Favored In Prep Game Of Year

By DAVID EINSTEIN

The San Rafael High School Bulldogs, an awesome aggregation with lightning speed, will be four-point favorites to dethrone the defending champion Terra Linda Trojans Friday night when the teams meet for the Marin County Athletic League football championship at San Rafael High School.

A standing-room-only crowd of near 4,000 will watch the league's only undefeated teams square off in what should be a tremendously dramatic game, coming as it does on the second to last week of the 1970 season.

Both teams have mementum. The Trojans, winners of four straight MCAL crowns under coach Don Lucas, have not lost in league play since the final game of 1968. This year they have won five straight league games, and can finish another perfect season by defeating the Bulldogs.

San Rafael's momentum is not as extensive, but lately it has been spectacular. With coach Bob Muster at the helm, the Bulldogs have stormed to four straight league wins, the last three of them by shutouts. In addition, they lead the league in offense, averaging 20 points a game.

Physically, the teams are quite different although their styles of play are similar. San Rafael is a tremendously fast club, but not overly big. Terra Linda has good size, but lacks depth.

Offensively, the Bulldogs are definitely superior. They have Scott Duncan, the league's best running back, to give them an explosive outside attack, and halfback Dave Urquhart and fullback Mark Farrar to supply the inside running game.

The Trojans can almost match Duncan with tailback Matt Bowman, a quick step artist who like Duncan has racked up two straight 100-yard performances. Bowman has been the key for the Trojans this year; if he does well, the team does well.

But if the Bulldogs put the clamps to him, Lucas better take a quick course in magic, because Terra Linda's passing attack is barely adequate. Quarterback Larry Kerr has been effective, but most of his passes have been swings and screens, and a fast team like San Rafael can usually stop those.

The Trojans have two above average receivers in Bill Sherbert and Bill LaHaye, but neither is blessed with speed, so their patterns are always short.

San Rafael's passing game has seldom been tested this year, since the Bulldogs have moved so efficiently on the ground. But Dirk Gansloser has one of the best arms in the MCAL, and one of the fastest ends to throw to in Duke Besser.

Defensively, the Bulldogs have been fantastic, and speed here again is the reason. Doug Diego, Doug Puskar and Bill Lechner are as agile as any linemen in the league, and the backfield, which includes Duncan, Urquhart, Craig Hecht and Dan Meredith, is so fast it can stop most running plays before they reach the secondary.

Terra Linda's defensive unit is big and fierce, typified by Kerr, a middle linebacker who doesn't care much for opposing runners. The Trojan line, with standout tackles Bruce Little and Ed Alvesk has successfully shelved almont every running attack it has encountered this year.

But the Trojans have not been invulnerable. Their secondary, since the loss of star safety John Buckley early in the season, has been shakey, and can be thrown against. And while they have been brutal against the inside run, they have been beaten on the outside.

Here are the odds. Give San Rafael six points for a superior running game, two for quarterback Gansloser and three for their defensive secondary. Give Terra Linda a touchlown because they are the defending champions, and honor always counts.

Net result — San Rafael by four.

BLUE'S TASK

Dick Butkus Is His Foe

By RALPH CHATOIAN

Forrest Blue is a handsome young man who has the unenviable job of going out and bumping heads with Dick Butkus next Sunday afternoon.

And he looks about as worried as a lawyer preparing a case. Blue, when he's not attending law school at University of Florida in the off-season, plays center for the high-flying San Francisco 49ers.

LUNCHEON

He told the Marin County chapter of the 49er Goal Rushers Club about his thoughts on the subject of Butkus and the Chicago Bears yesterday at the group's weekly luncheon at the Holiday Inn, Terra Linda.

In the violent world of pro football, the middle linebacker is the blocking target of the center. Butkus, that charming young man who smashes out of your television for that antifreeze commercial, will be the target for Blue next Sunday when the 49ers take on the Bears in Chicago.

CRY A LITTLE

"I'll probably cry a little at night," he deadpanned. Then on a more serious note, said, "Against a guy like Butkus, you just have to go out and outphysical him." Translation: Hit harder.

He said it's always tough to play the Bears in their own den of Wrigley Field, saying there's a world of difference playing before your own fans and on the road. "Especially Chicago. Those fans are something else."

It was a jovial mood at the meeting, since the 49ers are atop the standings in the Western Division of the National Conference at the halfway point in the campaign. Blue said key games remaining for the 49ers are against the Los Angeles Rams and Detroit Lions, and added, "We know we have to beat the Rams to win the division, but we're really out to win all seven of the games we have left."

GAME BALL

Blue said 49er linebacker Frank Nunley was awarded the game ball by his teammates following Sunday's 26-10 victory over the Green Bay Packers.

"We felt anybody who could intercept two passes with a cast on his hand deserved it," he said about Nunley who had suffered a broken hand the week before against Denver.

About 49er rookie Bruce Taylor's 70-yard return of an intercepted pass Sunday, Blue called it "unbelievable." Said Blue: "He must have been hit by seven people but he just kept going. That's the kind of a player he is, a true No. 1 draft choice."

Blue, a No. 1 draft pick for the 49ers himself (1968), admitted San Francisco hasn't generated much offense the past couple of games and lauded the defense for holding them up.

GOSSETT

One of the main parts of the 49er offense the last two weeks has been Bruce Gossett, the talented kicker who has kicked four field goals in each of the last two victories.

"He's a great fellow, very conscientious and full of confidence. I don't think we got hurt by that trade do you?" he said as understatement about the off-season trade that sent defensive back Kermit Alexander to the Rams for Gossett. Applause by the Goal Rushers.

Also honored by the Goal Rushers yesterday were high school all-star football players Scott Duncan of San Rafael and Clifford Hall of Tamalpais.

Quarry's Offer To Pay Denied By Commission

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Heavyweight Jerry Quarry's attempt to lift his suspension in California by payment of a $1,000 fine was rebuffed today by the California Athletic Commission pending a hearing.

Still recuperating from an eye cut that brought about his third-round defeat by Cassius Clay in Atlanta, Quarry told a news conference Monday he hoped to get into good standing in California by payment of the fine.

The fine was levied against Quarry for his failure to go through with a bout in Los Angeles against Mac Foster last May, meeting him in New York instead.

Athletic commission chairman Robert Voigt said payment of the fine would not automatically take Quarry off suspension because when he was fined the fighter was given until Sept. 30 to make payment.

"Quarry also was suspended for failure to abide by a valid order of the commission and he still remains on suspension until a hearing is held and the commission learns why he failed to pay the fine in time," Voight said.

The boxer said he was anxious to get back into good standing in California in order to act as a second for his brother, Mike, a rising young fighter.

Quarry said he was anxious to meet Clay again and felt he could beat him in a second meeting. The Bellflower, Calif., boxer said his attorney, Paul Caruso, had been in touch with Clay about the possibility of a return match and the undefeated heavyweight indicated he might consider the proposal but only after Clay had met champion Joe Frazier.

"Many of you thought I called this conference to announce my retirement," Quarry said. "I'm not going to retire. I feel I can beat Clay. I felt in the fight I could beat him.

"Aside from the cut over my left eye, he didn't hurt me and I'm going to work for a rematch.

"The three rounds at Atlanta didn't prove anything. I hurt him in that fight. He knows it and I know it. I honestly feel if it had gone four or five more rounds I would have won."

Quarry said the cut over his eye, which required 15 stitches to close, was opened by a right hand blow and Clay caught it again with another right and then bumped the cut with his head.

STEELERS WHIP BENGALS

Hanratty Gets Job Done, Bradshaw Admits Defeat

PITTSBURGH (UPI)—Terry Hanratty has his job back today as quarterback of the Pittsburgh Steelers—with an unusual concession of defeat from rookie Terry Bradshaw.

"I know one thing, I don't deserve to start any more," Bradshaw said. "I think Terry earned that right. I should be sitting on the bench."

Bradshaw, the Steelers' glamour boy, the No. 1 draft choice who took Pittsburgh by storm during the exhibition games, admitted he was dejected with himself after Hanratty came off the bench in the second half Monday night to lead the Steelers to a 21-10 victory over the Cincinnati Bengals.

UNHAPPY

"I feel like the Steelers just aren't getting their money's worth from me," Bradshaw said. "I'm very unhappy and I don't mind telling you. I don't like playing bad football."

Pittsburgh's victory in the nationally-televised game moved it within a game of the lead in the Central Division of the American Football Conference, But Hanratty refused to concede that he would start next Sunday against the New York Jets.

"I hope so, but I'm just playing it by ear," he said. "I'm not going to commit myself." Steelers' Coach Chuck Noll, also non-commital as usual, said "We haven't made the decision yet on who will be the starting quarterback and we won't until later in the week."

OBVIOUS

Still, it is obvious that Hanratty must be No. 1.

With the Steelers' attack going nowhere in a hurry, he came in midway through the third period. Early in the fourth quarter he threw a 72-yard touchdown pass to Dennis Hughes and then drove the team 52 yards for a clinching 2-yard touchdown run by Warren Bankston.

"We just put a few things together in the second half," Hanratty said.

The former Notre Dame All-American said "it's something you can't put your finger on,"

See STEELERS, page 30

NO YOU DON'T — After taking a long pass from Cincinnati's Virgil Carter, Eric Crabtree was hauled down on the one yard line by Lee Calland of the Steelers in the first quarter last night in Pittsburgh. The Bengals scored shortly afterwards, but lost the game, 21 - 10.

Knicks Give S.F. Basketball Lesson

Warriors Soundly Whipped

The San Francisco Warriors, playing miserable defense and handling the ball like the hot end of a branding iron, succumbed to the hard working New York Knicks Monday night 111-99 at the Oakland Coliseum Arena.

OUTCLASSED

New York thoroughly outclassed the Warriors. Detensive wizard Walt Frazier and teammates Bill Bradley and Dick Barnett led a persistent full court press which helped force a remarkable total of 34 San Francisco turnovers.

The Warriors committed 19 of their ball control errors in the first half to help the National Basketball Association champion Knicks mount a 61-51 lead at intermission.

Frazier and Cazzie Russell each bagged six points during a 16-4 spree in the first 5:47 of the third quarter to give New York a 77-55 lead and put the game out of reach. San Francisco was able to stay relatively close only because of a good shooting display in the first, second and fourth quarters.

27 POINTS

Frazier fiinshed with 27 points, nine rebounds, eight assists and numerous steals. He made 10 of 17 field goal attempts and converted all seven free throw tries. Russell wound up with 22 points and Dave Stallworth with 17.

Consistent forward Jerry Lucas was the lone bright spot for the Warriors, who fell to 3-6 and two games behind in the Pacific Division. Lucas led San Francisco in points with 20 and in rebounds with 18.

San Francisco shot just 25 percent from the floor to pile up only 18 points in the third quarter and seal the victory for New York. The Knicks maintained a 2 1-2 game bulge in the Atlantic Division with a 10-2 record.

BELOW PAR

Willis Reed of New York and rival pivot Nate Thurmond of the Warriors both played far below their capabilities. Reed hit only two of 14 field goal attempts and Thurmond connected on just one of 11. Each played around 35 minutes, with Reed grabbing 13 rebounds and Thurmond 15.

The Warriors next swing into action Wednesday night at the San Francisco Cow Palace against the Baltimore Bullets.

Pac-8 Offense Award To Washington Soph

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Sophomore Greg Collins, a reserve quarterback who kept Washington's faint Rose Bowl hopes stirring, has been chosen Pacific-8 offensive player of the week by conference officials.

Collins guided an 18-point final quarter last Saturday for a 25-23 comeback win over Oregon.

ACCORDING TO NFL:

Refs Were Right In Kansas City

NEW YORK (UPI) — A National Football League spokesman said Monday that the official in Sunday's controversial Kansas City-Oakland game made the proper call "under the framework of the rule as it now stands."

The referee, Bob Finley, ruled that the penalties on Ben Davidson of Oakland and Otis Taylor of Kansas City occurred on a "continuous action" play so they were offsetting penalties that resulted in nullification of Len Dawson's scramble from the Oakland 48 to the 29 with a minute remaining.

The result was that Kansas City was moved back to a third-and-11 situation on the 48 and was forced to punt after failing to make the first down. Oakland then took over on its own 20 with 46 seconds remaining and drove to the Kansas City 41 with eight seconds left. George Blanda then booted a 48-yard field goal to tie the game 17-17.

REF MOVED BALL

Much of the confusion resulted because the referee moved the ball to the Oakland 14 after calling the penalty on Davidson, who piled on Dawson after the quarterback completed his scramble.

But Taylor took his own retaliation against Davidson. Taylor slugged the Oakland defensive end to start a brawl that emptied both benches and resulted in the ejection of Taylor. The Chiefs also were assessed a penalty for a personal foul.

Kansas City argued that the play had ended once Dawson gained the first down on the 29, and that the Chiefs should still have a first down after the penalties on Davidson and Dawson were assessed.

NFL'S OPINION

However, the NFL spokesman said that, "the play had not been blown dead" when Davidson piled into Dawson and Taylor retaliated.

He said, "the films seem to indicate that Dawson was not tackled but fell over his own man. But it doesn't make any difference because the whistle hadn't blown."

The spokesman said that Finley moved the ball to the 14 because he wasn't aware of the penalty on Taylor at that point.

He said there was a long delay because the refs explained the action to the coaches and then they had to check with the press box to find out where the ball was on the 48 because the first down sticks had already been moved.

"It's the officials' job to see that the game is played under the rules and that's what they did," the spokesman said.

FISH AND GAME

Mail Piles Up During Vacation

By AL GIDDINGS

Being out of the country for a month has caused a pileup of my mail. Lots of fish and game events and happenings. Let's try to catch up with things in the outdoor world.

Chuker and quail season opened last Saturday. Chuker, introduced from the Himalayan foothills in the 1930s, has become well established in most arid regions of the state, but remains somewhat under hunted in California. The top chuker counties in 1969 were Kern, San Bernardino, Inyo and Lassen.

MARY AND I took a ride to Lassen County for chukers, quail and cottontails over the weekend. Upon arrival in the lava rock areas, we ran into car trouble — no transmission fluid in the transmission. The car just stopped. We gave the hunting a go, getting five quail, and one cottontail and missing six chukers.

The car had us worried, so we started back, barely making the highway, and stopping completely six miles from Litchfield in Lassen County. But then came a Highway Patrol man. Yep, an old friend, Charlie Heart, who left Marin about a year ago. He got us to Litchfield, then took us home for lunch, and invited us for a quail hunt. We planned to meet Charlie the next morning for a chuker hunt, but after leaving his place Saturday evening, we headed back to the chuker area. There we hit a rock and the muffler came off. We wired it up, but put off the chuker hunt. On the way back to Litchfield, a jack rabbit — one of the million in the area, ran under the car and knocked the muffler off completely. That was it!

IT'S A NEW high four-wheel drive station wagon from now on. We're in the market! The chukers? They live on the highest, rockiest, driest mountain that you can see East of Highway 395. You can hike up, but it's generally about six miles to the top, and that's where the chukers are! They really hold, hide under rocks, and can run fasster than a road runner. The four-wheel drivers did the best, naturally; they went to the mountain tops. The limit on chuker is six, and they are considered a delicacy.

Shooting for ducks on the public shooting areas has been excellent, with opening day averages being four birds per hunter. Six more state and federal areas opened this past weekend. The waterfowl population survey taken Oct. 14, showed approximately 4 million birds now in California. Two million of these were sprig. Sprig have been the dominating bird in most hunters' bag to date. A storm will really put the birds in the local areas, as two million ducks and one-half million geese were tallied at Tule Lake and Lower Klamath.

JACKSNIPE season opens Nov. 14 this year state wide through Jan. 17. The limit was set at eight per day, sixteen in posssession.

Black Sea Brant opens Nov. 21 through Feb. 21, with a limit of four set per day, eight in possession.

Six lakes in the California central coastal region received trout plants last week. Lakes planted were Upper Blue Lake, Lake County; Lake Merced in San Francisco; Phoenix and Lagunitas in Marin County; Del Valle Lake in Alameda County, and LaFayette Reservior in Contra Costa County.

DR. EPHRAIM KAHN, a public health physician heading the checks on mercury in striped bass has said that mercury has been found in striped bass weighing more than four pounds. Pregnant women, according to Dr. Kahn, should avoid eating the fish at this time. Mercury has been deposited in the rivers which empty into San Francisco Bay. California has more mercury mines than any other state. Until five years ago, the mercury was used in industrial plants of the area, and it was used in Sierra Gold mining operations. This has stopped, but the residue is still here, Dr. Kahn explains. It won't get worse, but nothing can be done at the moment.

but Bradshaw put his finger on it.

"Terry just played a fabulous game," he said. "We needed it —we needed that spark. It was there all the time, we just needed someone to come in and do it, and I'm glad he did.

DESERVES IT

"It's obvious he deserves to start, he really and truly does. Every time he's come in this year, he's done a great job. The coach might get mad at me for saying that, but he does deserve to start."

Hughes, a rookie tight end from Georgia who signed with the Steelers as a free agent, also scored their first touchdown on a 27-yard pass from halfback Dick Hoak in the second period.

The Bengals led 10-7 before Hanratty got hot, scoring on Virgil Carter's 2-yard pass to Eric Crabtree and a 43-yard field goal by Horst Muhlmann.

It was a desperation, third down and 14 pass by Hanratty who was chased out of the pocket almost to the sideline when he unloaded.

"I always dreamed of throwing something like that," Hanratty said. "I saw Hughes just at the last second when someone was chasing me toward the sideline and I didn't know how accurate my throw would be.

TOUGH PASS

"It was a tough pass to throw, but I knew I didn't have anything else—it was either throw it or take the loss, and then it would be fourth down."

Hanratty completed 7 of 11 passes for 128 yards while Bradshaw hit on only 4 of 12 for 40 yards. The Steelers also were aided by the punting of Bobby Walden, who averaged 54 yards in six kicks and repeatedly put the Bengals in a hole.

Car Crash Kills Veteran Newsman

MOUNT PLEASANT, N.Y. (UPI)—Steve Smilanich, veteran United Press International newsman and assistant sports editor, was killed early today in a two-car collision on the Taconic State Parkway near here, police said.

Smilanich, 42, of Yorktown Heights, N.Y., was killed when his car collided with one driven by Richard E. Kwasnik, 30, of Peekskill, N.Y. Kwasnik was not injured in the accident which occurred about 12:40 a.m.

Kwasnik was charged with driving while intoxicated, police said, and was released on $100 bail. Police said Kwasnik's car apparently crossed the dividing line on the parkway and sideswiped Smilanich's car. Both men were alone at the time of the accident.

Esposito At Record NHL Pace

NEW YORK (UPI)—Phil Esposito of the Boston Bruins is running well ahead of the pace he set when he established a National Hockey League single season scoring record in 1968-69.

The talented center picked up three assists in Boston's 6-0 shutout of the New York Rangers last Saturday night and now has 19 points in just nine games for an early lead in the NHL scoring race. Two years ago when he set the record with 126 points he had only eight points in his first nine games.

LEADERS

The Bruins, who are 7-1-1 and in first place in the East Division, boast the league's top three scorers. John McKenzie of the Bruins is second with 16 points and teammate Ken Hodge is third with 14 points. Esposito is tops in assists with 12 and Montreal's Yvan Cournoyer, currently on the injured list with a broken foot, leads in goals with 10.

49er Johnson To Be Ready For Bears

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Jim Johnson took some punishment while helping set up San Francisco's initial touchdown in a 26-10 victory over Green Bay.

Johnson made a key block to spring cornerback Bruce Taylor on a 70-yard interception return which led to the 49ers' first TD. Johnson made the mistake of slicing down big Green Bay guard Gale Gillingham and now Jimmy has a sore shoulder from the effort.

"Frankly, I'm not feeling so hot. My shoulder hurts," Johnson told a boosters club meeting Monday. "The block was okay, but the big man fell on my shoulder. That moose must have weighed 250."

Johnson figures he'll be back in the starting lineup Sunday when the Niners face the Bears in Chicago. Middle linebacker Frank Nunley suffered a slight muscle pull against the Packers but did not leave the field. He, too, should be ready for the Bears.

The Niners have a half game lead in the National Conference West, an unusual position for a club known for years as a "loser." Running back Ken Willard said following the Green Bay game that there's no trace of defeatism among the 1970 49ers.

"We used to lose so much around here, we began to think we were snakebitten," Willard said. "But no one's beating us. We go out and win each week. When we get behind in a game, nobody worries. While we're in the process of convincing others, we're convincing ourselves, too."

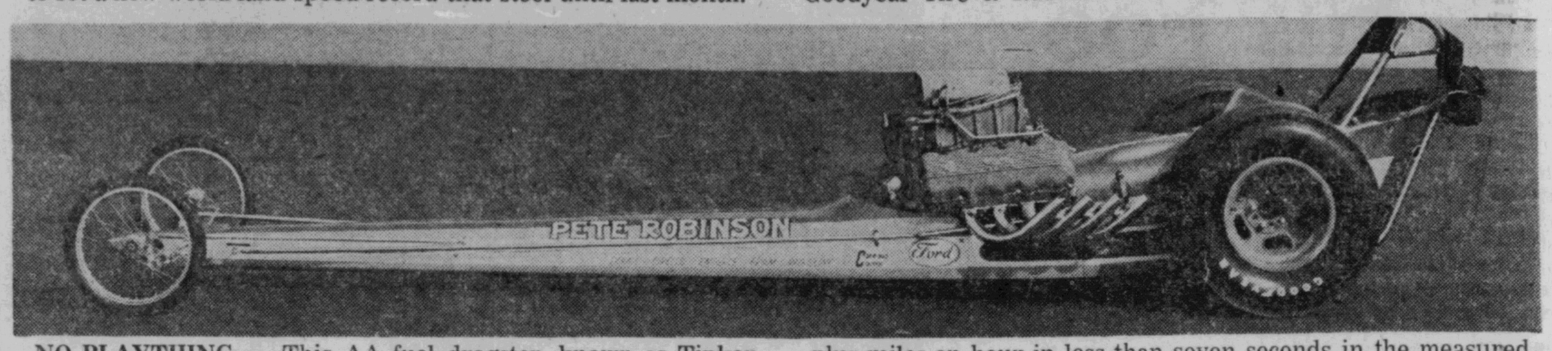
HOTTEST OF HOT ONES — The Spirit of America — Sonic I blasted over the Bonneville Salt Flats at 600.601 miles per hour to set a new world land speed record that stool until last month. The jet-powered vehicle is one of five of the fastest machines on wheels that will be in San Rafael Nov. 9, 10 and 11 on the Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co.'s "Meet the Hot Ones" tour.



NO PLAYTHING — This AA fuel dragster, known as Tinker Toy, is anything but a toy. It has been driven to speeds of 225-plus miles an hour in less than seven seconds in the measured quarter mile. Tinker Toy is part of Goodyear's "Hot Ones" exhibit.

Hot Machines To Be On Display

Five of the fastest machines on wheels, including the car that held the world land speed record from 1965 until early last month, came to San Rafael next Monday on the Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co.'s nationwide "Meet the Hot Ones" road tour.

The free exhibit, housed in two huge vans, will be held for three days at Marin Tire and Brake, 666 Irwin Street.

The hottest of the hot ones will be the 34-foot Spirit of America-Sonic I, a needle-nosed, turbojet powered vehicle that Craig Breedlove drove to a world land speed record of 600.61 miles per hour on the Bonneville Salt Flats. That record stood until Oct. 23, when the Blue Flame covered the measured mile in 622.4 mph.

The other cars in the exhibit include a Dodge Charger-Daytona, a McCluskey Lola, an AA fuel dragster called "Tinker Toy" and an All American Eagle rear engine Indianapolis-type vehicle.

The Charger-Daytona, a new edition to the "Hot Ones" tour, is similar to one driven to victory by Bobby Issac in the 500-mile Grand National stock car race at Texas International Speedway in 1969. That same year, a Charger-Daytona set a world close-course speed record of 199.987 mph at Talladega, Ala.

Sports car fans will enjoy inspecting Roger McCluskey's Lola-chassis T-70 Mark III, a group seven car of the type sanctioned by the SCCA for the Canadian-American Challenge Cup series. The group seven cars are among the fastest racing cars in the world due to their lightweight construction and unlimited engine displacement.

The Tinker Toy is anything but a toy. This car, known popularly as a "rail," has ripped through the quarter mile at 225-plus mph in less than seven seconds. It runs on a combination of fuels including nitromethane and alcohol.

The All-American Eagle is similar to one driven by Bobby Unser when he won the 1968 Indianapolis 500.

Last year, the "Hot Ones" exhibit drew an estimated 150,000 people in 52 U.S. cities.

Stanford Needs Win Over Huskies To Insure Roses

OAKLAND (UPI)—Stanford's unblemished record in the Pacific-8 Conference doesn't faze coach John Ralston. He still worries.

Ralston's Indians, led by NCAA career total offense record holder Jim Plunkett, are on top of the Pac-8 with a 5-0 record. But losses to Washington and California could drop Stanford into a season ending tie for first place with any of four darkhorse aspirants to the title.

However, a win over Washington next Saturday would give the Indians their first Rose Bowl trip in 18 years.

HUSKIES TOUGHEST

"They have a lot of momentum. Their offensive line is the biggest in the conference and they have an excellent defensive secondary."

Stanford's Plunkett will be firing into a secondary which is statistically the best in the league. The Huskies have allowed five touchdowns all season and an average of 166 passing yards per game. Plunkett has fired 12 scoring passes and has averaged 248 yards through the air each game.

Now 2-2, the Huskies came from behind last weekend to upset Oregon 25-23. As improbable as it may seem, the victory has coach Jim Owens smelling a chance at the Rose Bowl. He spoke to the football writers by phone from Seattle.

STANFORD BIGGEST

"Stanford is the biggest game for us right now," Owens said. "We're still mathematically in it. We felt the same way before we played Oregon. Our club is playing well."

California coach Ray Willsey will be rooting for the Huskies. If Washington can surprise Stanford and Cal can get past Oregon State, then the traditional Cal-Stanford "Big Game" at the end of the season will be bigger than ever.

"It's a very interesting conference race," Willsey said. "If we are to survive, we have to beat Oregon State."

While pondering the possibilities of next weekend's games, the writers took time Monday to recognize outstanding Northern California performers from last Saturday's contests.

TWO FOR CAL

California placekicker Randy Wersching was named offensive player of the week and teammate O. Z. White, a lineman, was chosen the top defender. Wersching booted a 46-yard field goal in Cal's 13-10 upset of Southern Cal.

In the college division, Tony Martin of San Francisco State was given the offensive award after lofting a pair of field goals in a 20-20 tie with Sonoma State. Linebacker Rich Churchward of Hayward State was acclaimed for his 15 tackles in a 14-12 defeat of Sacramento State.

OH, SAY CAN YOU SEE

A mission bell symbolizes the city's heritage in this winning design for a San Rafael city flag. The design, submitted by Barbara Schlesselman, 16, of 213 North Almenar Drive, Greenbrae, was selected from more than 100 submitted by San Rafael school students. It was presented to the city council last night, but the council will wait until a cloth model is made before deciding whether officially to adopt it. The two blocks on each side of the flag will be a bright orange, and the bell and words "San Rafael" will be a dark blue on white.

Election Turnout Dampened By Weather, Bitter Words

Rain Cuts National Turnout

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Americans passed mid-term judgement on President Nixon's leadership of the nation today, casting ballots in the most bitterly contested off-year election since 1946.

Rain, snow and apathy kept millions of potential voters from the polls. With bad weather blanketing a large part of the country, fewer than half the citizens of voting age were expected to turn out to help choose 35 governors, 35 senators, 435 representatives and thousands of state and local officials.

CLOSE CONTESTS

In some battleground states, however, close contests brought out a bigger vote than political pundits had expected. Voter turnout was reported heavy in Connecticut, Texas, Tennessee, Georgia, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Pennsylvania and Vermont.

President Nixon who made his leadership the big issue of the election by campaigning personally in 22 states, declined to predict the outcome of today's balloting but told reporters: "I hope the voters get out all over the country. Now is the chance for the American people to speak for themselves."

Vice President Spiro T. Agnew, who carried the hod for the Republicans with barnstorming tours that covered 29 states, walked coatless through a driving rain to vote in his hometown of Towson, Md.

Rejecting Democratic charges that he poisoned the campaign with divisive oratory, Agnew told reporters he was proud of his contribution. "I think I've done what I set out to do," he said.

BITTER CAMPAIGN

Not since 1946, when Republicans swept into control of Congress by asking voters if they had "had enough" of Roosevelt-Truman administrations, has an off-year election stirred such acrimonious exchanges between the two major parties. It was in 1946 that Richard M. Nixon was elected to Congress, beginning the political career that led finally to the White House.

Despite the heavy voting in several key states, most analysts forecast a total vote of only 57 to 60 million, less than half of the electorate.

Although a light vote is traditionally regarded as a good omen for Republican candidates, final pre-election surveys indicated President Nixon had little chance of achieving his prime goal—Republican control of the Senate.

The consensus of "expert" forecasts—always subject to error—was that the GOP might pick up two, or a maximum of five, Senate seats. The minimum net gain the Republicans

Early Poll Slightly Off 1966

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—President Nixon and fellow Californians voted under generally sunny skies today in an election dominated during final bitter campaigning by the political stumping of the native son president.

The early voter turnout ran ahead of the June primary but slightly behind the 1966 gubernatorial election, when Gov. Ronald Reagan swept into office on a landslide.

At issue in the nation's most populous state was whether to retain Reagan and Sen. George Murphy in office or replace them with Democrats Jess Unruh and Rep. John V. Tunney.

NIXON VOTES

Nixon arose early at his oceanside villa and drove to a small schoolhouse near the Western White House in San Clemente to vote. Casting ballots with him were Mrs. Nixon and daughter Tricia, and two servants.

In Los Angeles County, about 8 per cent of the 3.1 million registered voters cast ballots in the first two hours—slightly ahead of the June primary pace.

Registrar-Recorder Ray E. Lee predicted between 75 and 80 per cent of the county's registered voters would turn out.

In San Diego County, the vote was running ahead of June as expected but behind 1966. The turnout at 9 a. m. was 5.78 per cent.

San Francisco Registrar Emmery Mihaley forecast a 77 per cent turnout. In Sacramento County, voting was described as "average" with 81 per cent forecast.

GOOD WEATHER

Statewide, about 6.8 million voters—78 per cent of those registered—were expected to cast ballots on a sunny day with generally warm temperatures.

Polls were open statewide from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m.

Nixon campaigned all-out for Murphy, placing his home state political prestige on the line and also touching off a rock-throwing demonstration in San

I-J Clear In Ruling By NLRB

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — The Independent-Journal has been cleared by the general counsel of the National Labor Relations Board of a union accusation that the newspaper has failed to bargain in good faith.

The decision of the general counsel of the NLRB in Washington, D.C., clearing the newspaper of charges of unfair labor practices, was received at NLRB offices here today.

Nathan R. Berke, an attorney for the I-J, said the labor board's regional office in San Francisco had been informed that charges by San Francisco Typographical Union 21 against the I-J were unfounded.

"The regional office and the general counsel in Washington concluded there is no merit to the charges," Berke said. "That means there will be no hearing."

In its complaint to the labor board, the typographical union, on strike against the I-J since January, had accused the I-J of unilaterally changing the greivance procedure regarding discharges, refusing to bargain in good faith to settle the strike; developing a profit-sharing plan that discriminated against union members.

The union's first claim stemmed from the firing of union vice president John DeMartini who was dismissed for not getting a substitute when absent

Robbins Appointed As City Attorney

San Rafael City Councilman Fred C. Robbins Jr. last night was appointed city attorney to succeed David Menary Jr. who was named a Marin Municipal Court judge, last month. (Other San Rafael City Council stories, page 3.)

Prior to appointing Robbins, the city council accepted Menary's resignation effective next Tuesday. It then appointed Robbins and voted to accept his resignation from the council when it is presented in writing.

Robbins abstained on the vote to appoint him and Councilman John A. Miskimen was absent, but Mayor C. Paul Bettini and Councilmen Fred E. Jensen and Harry A. Barbier formed the needed majority.

City Mgr. James H. McCown said later that the council probably will appoint a successor at its Nov. 16 meeting to complete Robbins's council term which expires in April 1973.

Robbins, 44, was appointed to the city council in January 1969 to succeed Louis H. Baar, who was elected to the Marin County Board of Supervisors.

He won election to the council in April 1969. He was a member of the San Rafael Planning Commission for more than six years before his appointment to the council.

He is a partner in the San Rafael law firm of Smallman and Robbins.

Judge Lifts Ban On Kent Probe Criticism

KENT, Ohio (UPI)—A federal judge today lifted a lower court order which banned critical comment on a special grand jury report on last spring's disturbances at Kent State University.

U.S. District Court Judge Ben C. Green criticized the ban, imposed by the Portage County Common Pleas Court.

"Public officials may not wield an ax when a scalpel is required," he said.

Green's decision lifting the ban was on a suit filed by the American Civil Liberties Union.

The special grand jury indicted 25 persons and absolved the Ohio National Guard of any blame in the deaths of four students, killed May 4 when Guardsmen fired at demonstrators on the Kent State campus. Those indicted did not include any Guardsmen.

Green said the lower court order was "overly broad." He said the grand jusy report went "far beyond consideration of the offense" on which the indictments were based.

"It considers the conduct of not only those charged with violations of the law, but also makes a critical report of the actions and conduct of officials of Kent State, the Ohio National Guard and others caught up in the events which transpired at the university," Green said.

Vote Light To Moderate By Late Morning; Polls Close At 8 P.M.

A light to moderate turnout of voters was reported by Marin precincts in today's general election.

The percentage of voters balloting by late morning averaged just over 20 per cent. County election officials have predicted an 83 per cent turnout by the county's 102,003 voters.

The polls will be open until 8 p.m.

Returns will be reported from the Civic Center by radio station KTIM starting at 8 p.m. The absentee ballots will be counted first, and partial returns will be reported each half hour.

The final tally is expected by 12:30 a.m., "or sooner," according to Peter C. Meyer, county elections officer.

The turnout was reported as follows: Stinson Beach Community Center, 61 of 381 registered; Tamalpais Valley Improvement Club, 107 of 576 registered; Sausalito Nursery School, 95 out of 482; St. Andrew Presbyterian Church, Marin City, 70 out of 393; Strawberry Point School, 53 out of 375; Park School, Mill Valley, 110 out of 485; Shepherd of the Hills Lutheran Church, Tiburon, 100 out of 508; San Anselmo City Hall, 119 out of 624; Henry C. Hall School, Larkspur, 142 out of 525; Neil Cummins School, Corte Madera, 85 out of 387; Corte Madera Town Hall, 75 out of 367.

The Meadows, San Rafael, 124 out of 562; the Guido Milani residence, 15 Taylor Avenue, Fairfax, 89 out of 575; the Ross home of William E. Carewe, 8 Norwood Avenue, 93 out of 376.

Bengtson Not One To Give Any Alibis

In the legendary nine years Vince Lombardi coached the Green Bay Packers the ywon five National Football League championships and the first two Super Bowl games ever played.

Only once during Lombardi's reign did the Packers finish as low as third in their divison. That was n 1959, Lombardi's first year at Green Bay, after the Packers finished in the cellar with a 1-10 record in 1958.

WHEN LOMBARDI dictated the choice of Phil Bengtson as his successor in 1968, Bengtson was the first to put himself on the spot by saying that anything less than another championship would constitute an unsuccessful season as far as he was concerned.

In 1968 the Packers finished third. They were third again in 1969. And when they left Kezar Stadium Sunday after their 26-10 loss to the 49ers, they once again were third in their division.

Of the 22 first string Packers who won successive NFL championships in 1965-66-67 and the first two Super Bowl games in January of 1967-68, many are now gone. When Bengtson took over, 11 of the Packer veterans were 30 or older.

BENGTSON IS the kind of man who never would point out such an obvious fact. If he ever alibied in his life there is no record of it.

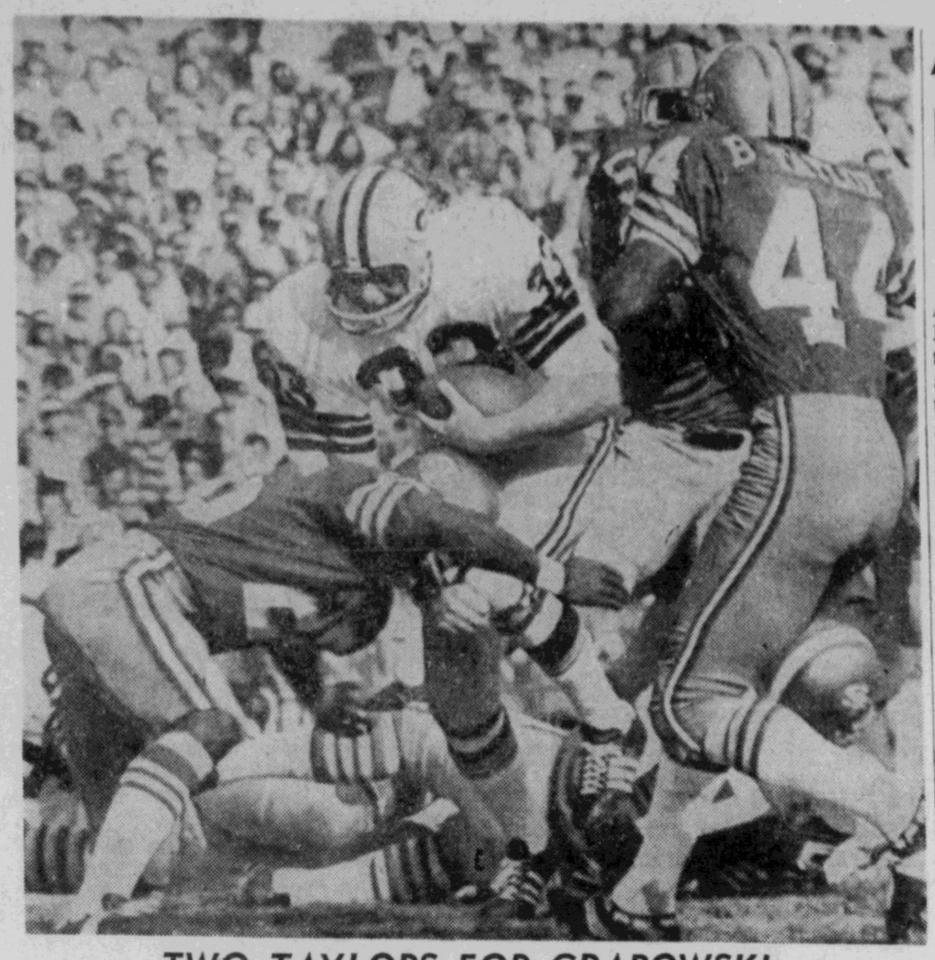
Because he is a quiet man who has never been known to raise his voice to a player, some think he isn't a strict team disciplinarian. Packers subjected to Bengtson's defensive drills during the years he was Lombardi's defensive coach scoff at that.

Bengtson, a 6-4 tackle at University of Minnesota in the '30s when the Gophers went undefeated for three straight seasons, personally knows just how much a body can take. Thus, when Henry Jordan one day asked Bengtson what it would cost him to knock off from an unusually long drill, Bengtson said softly: "Only your reputation, Henry." The 6-3, 250, Packer tackle tore back into action after that quiet reprimand.

SO THE disciplinary standard at Green Bay hasn't changed since the legendary Lombardi era, just the method of maintaining it. Bengtson never could use Lombardi's shouting technique no more than Lombardi could conduct a drill without raising his voice at least once.

Trying to follow a legend of nine years is a most difficult job, perhaps an impossible one. Nobody in pro football envied Bengtson when he was put on the spot in 1968. As he said then, anything less than another championship would be an unsuccessful season for the Packers. Now it would appear the Packers are headed for another unsuccessful season — no championship — but the final chapters of the 1970 season still are to be written.

Bengtson's friends hope they will make happy reading for him.



TWO TAYLORS FOR GRABOWSKI

San Francisco 49er safety Roosevelt Taylor put the stopper on Green Bay's Jim Grabowski during Sunday's game in Kezar Stadium, and Bruce Taylor (44) came up to help out. The 49e defense led the charge in the 26-10 victory.

Alcindor Leads NBA In Scoring

NEW YORK (UPI) — Lew Alcindor, star center of the Milwaukee Bucks, remains both the most accurate marksman and the most prolific scorer in the National Basketball Association today in latest statistics compiled by the Elias Sports Bureau.

The figures, which include games played through Nov. 1, show that Alcindor has scored 194 points in six games for a 32.3 average and has connected on 77 of 123 field goal attempts for a .626 percentage.

Lou Hudson of Atlanta ranks second in scoring with a 29.4 average in seven games, followed by John Havlicek of Boston with 28.1, Jerry West of Los Angeles with 27.4 and Elvin Hayes of San Diego with 26.8.

Sabres Pick Up Seals' Reject

OAKLAND (UPI) — Winger Paul Andrea has been waived by the California Goleen Seals of the National Hockey League and picked up by the expansion Buffalo Sabres.

The Seals drafted Andrea from Vancouver last June. Andrea had scored 44 goals for the Canucks. He tallied just one for the Seals in 10 games.

The Bay Area team next plays the New York Rangers Wednesday night in the Oakland Coliseum Arena. The Seals avoided a loss to the Rangers for the first time in four years by gaining a tie earlier this season.

Bowling

ST. LOUIS (upi)—Dave Soutar, a righthander from Gilroy, Calif., scored a two-pin victory over Nelson Burton Jr., of St. Louis Monday night for a $5,000 win in the $50,000 Bellows-Valvier Open Bowling Tournament.

The triumph was Soutar's third this year and eighth in his career.

Third place went to Dale Glenn of Los Angeles, who rolled a 223-214 last-game triumph over Bobby Knipple of Long Beach, Calif. Both Glenn and Knipple rolled perfect games during the tourney.

Horse Racing

NEW YORK (UPI) — Nijinsky, chosen as England's No. 1 thoroughbred race horse and valued at more than $5 million, is scheduled to arrive at Lexington, Ky., Tuesday afternoon to begin a new career as a syndicated stud.

In a two-year career, Nijinsky won 11 straight races before losing his last two.

Tennis

NEW YORK (UPI)—The $50,000 Pepsi Masters tennis tournament will be held at Municipal Stadium in Tokyo, Japan, Dec. 7-10 and 14-15.

The Pepsi Masters will be the largest tennis tournament ever held in Japan and will feature the top six players from the $200,000 Pepsi Grand Prix.

Football

NEW YORK (UPI)—The American Broadcasting Company has announced it will televise games involving nationally-ranked Ohio State, Auburn and Arizona State on Saturday, Nov. 14.

The ABC regional telecasts will include Georgia at Auburn, Ohio State at Purdue and Utah at Arizona State.

Golf

Lee Trevino kept his lead in the points division, with 1,336.1

BASKETBALL ROUNDUP

Beaty, New Scenery Have Stars Streaking

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

There are streaks and then there are streaks.

The Utah Stars of the American Basketball Association have a nice, little streak going, a streak that has seen them win their first seven games, including Monday night's 119-100 decision over the Memphis Pros.

The Cleveland Cavaliers of the National Basketball Association are also in the midst of a streak, a not so nice one that has seen them lose all 11 of their games thus far, including Monday night's 141-87 drubbing at the hands of the Philadelphia 76ers.

The Stars are the same team which bowed to Indiana in six games in the ABA's championship round last season. They played out of Los Angeles during the 1969-70 campaign and the change of scenery seems to have worked wonders. Also not detracting from the team's stellar performances has been the addition of Zelmo Beaty, who sat out last season after jumping to the Stars from Atlanta of the NBA.

Beaty tallied 28 points Monday night, as did teammate Donnie Freeman, in leading Utah past Memphis in the only ABA game. Craig Raymond, who was traded by the Stars to Memphis before the start of the season, topped the Pros with 21 points.

The 76ers placed seven men in double figures as all 12 Philadelphia players saw action in the rout of Cleveland. Archie Clark with 21 points and Jim Washington with 19 led the way while rookie John Johnson paced the expansionist Cavaliers with 20. The 54 point difference was the biggest winning margin in the history of the 76ers but a crowd of only 3,022 witnessed the one-sided contest. It was the smallest crowd ever to watch the 76ers in their four years at the Philadelphia Spectrum.

Connie Hawkins collected 29 points and Dick Van Arsdale had 22 in leading Phoenix past Buffalo and sending the Braves down to their seventh setback in eight games. Phoenix held a 105-77 lead midway through the final period but the Suns failed to score a field goal in the last 6:18 of play, enabling the Braves to close within eight points. Mike Davis topped Buffalo with 21 points.

MERCURY IN FISH

Sacramento River's Pollution Danger

By LANCE D. MacARTHUR

SACRAMENTO — (CNS) — River fishing is one of those fine, relaxing sports where it feels like half a day passes every hour, and the water sloshes on the muddy banks in rhythmic patterns calming tense nerves.

The guy at the bait shop knows you, and everybody seems to know where "your" spot is, whether it's on the bank or anchored somewhere in the swiftly moving water.

There's a friendly atmosphere about the whole thing, and it means a lot to a whole lot of people to get the kind of relaxation this type of fishing offers.

SUCCESS

Each year during the striper and salmon runs, hundreds if not thousands of fishermen, in kayaks, boats, cabin cruisers and yachts as well as in waders, galoshes and bare feet, line up along the Sacramento from Rio Vista to Redding, waiting for the big ones.

COMPETITION

And there's a lot of competition among the "experts" as to who will catch the most, or the biggest, during the season.

For the uninitiated, this buildup as to the benefits of river fishing is necessary to get the impact of the enjoyment thousands of Californians would lose if such fishing were eliminated.

Although there are no schemes under foot to eliminate fishing in California rivers, and incidentally, such fishing is constitutionally guaranteed, the possibility of closing the rivers because of pollution is not that far-fetched.

Just last week, a federal-state environmental task force warned pregnant women not to eat fish from waters of the San Francisco Bay-Delta region because dangerously high concentrations of mercury could cause their babies to be mentally retarded.

POPULAR

The dangerous species, bottomfish such as channel cats and striped bass, are quite popular with sports fishermen, and represent a healthy percentage of the fish taken from the Sacramento River.

The mercury, which comes from various industrial wastes dumped into the river as well as being washed from mining operations of a hundred years ago, is not on the increase now, but development along the river is.

It is only a matter of time before other pollution problems crop up, and pollution controls must be rigorously enforced to prevent any buildups of dangerous chemicals in the river system.

The state legislature passed the most stringent laws in the nation with regard to water pollution during the last session, but laws are only words unless the general public, business and industry support them.

Intent and direction of the law is clearly written, but it is up to a well-conceived, harsh enforcement program to insure a growing, rather than a declining, quality of water in California's rivers.

Fishing means too much to many people to be even mildly threatened, and it would be painful indeed to see the banks of the Sacramento void of locals enjoying themselves in semi-retirement, vacations or after work.

'62 Series Films Will Be Shown

Films of the 1962 World Series between the winning New York Yankees and San Francisco Giants will be shown tomorrow night at the meeting of the S.F. Giants Booster Club of Northern California.

The dinner meeting at Rubini's Restaurant in Fairfax starts at 7 p.m., followed by the films, with Lon Simmons the master of ceremonies.

Persons should call Rubini's for reservations, said Boosters president Alan Murray.

San Jose Chief Plays Down 'Riot'

SAN JOSE, Calif. (UPI) — The police chief of San Jose says last Thursday's attack on President Nixon's limousine was something less than the "riot" which Nixon and other Republicans have claimed.

California labor leaders went a step further Monday, charging that the President himself provoked the incident for political purposes.

The assert draw a "no comment" from the Western Wtite House.

"The so-called riot has been exaggerated," said Police Chief Ray Blackmore, whose men guarded the auditorium parking lot where demonstrators chanted obscenities and threw an undetermined number of eggs and other missiles at the Presidential limousine.

"I did not have any concern that the demonstration would get physical," Blackmore told a group of San Jose State College students. "The 'barrage' on the President was verbal, not physical."

The chief said policemen who gathered debris in the parking lot after the incident only picked up "one bottle and a few rocks."

The police account contrasted sharply with that given by Republican Sen. George Murphy, who, with Gov. Ronald Reagan, accompanied the President during the Thursday night incident.

"This was so militant," Murphy said, "that I believe if that mob had been able to get hold of the President or the Governor or myself they would have torn us to pieces."

John F. Henning, executive secretary-treasurer of the 1.6 million member California Labor Council on Political Education, AFL-CIO, claimed President Nixon "personally aggravated and provoked the San Jose students for political purposes."

Henning and other labor leaders agreed with students who said the President's flashing the peace sign just before riding his limousine through the unfriendly crowd was a provocative act.

U.S. Viet Deaths Drop To 5-Year Low

WASHINGTON (UPI) — American combat deaths in Vietnam fell to a five-year low last week, a Pentagon official said Monday. The election-eve announcement came three days earlier than usual for weekly casualty reports.

Jerry W. Friedheim, deputy assistant defense secretary, did not say how many GIs lost their lives last week but it was understood the total was about 30. That would be the lowest total since the week that ended Oct. 23, 1965, when the toll was 14.

Friedheim was asked by reporters if there was any connection between the announcement, usually made on Thursday in Saigon, and the fact that the congressional elections were being held today.

He replied only that he made the announcement because it was "very significant."

Vietnam casualty totals have been running below 50 in a number of recent weeks. If last week's death total was 30, it would be lower than the 32 fatalities in the week ended Jan. 22, 1966.

Friedheim also announced that U.S. troop strength in South Vietnam was down to 374,000, compared to 543,000 when the Nixon administration took office.

Meanwhile in Saigon, U.S. military spokesmen said today four Americans were killed Monday when their helicopter crashed in the Mekong Delta. Another American was killed in a Communist ambush 35 miles from Saigon.

South Vietnamese troops reported killing 46 Communist troops and capturing 14 in a series of small battles in northern South Vietnam and southeastern Cambodia. Their own losses were set at two killed and four wounded.

In Cambodia, troops from a government task force at Tang Kauk 52 miles north of Phnom Penh fought a brief but sharp clash with an estimated 50 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong troops near their base Monday. A government spokesman said fighting also was reported under way today near the village of Prek Tamek, nine miles north-northeast of Phnom Penh.

Last week's floods, the worst in six years, left at least 193 persons dead and more than 204,000 homeless in the five northernmost provinces, South Vietnamese military authorities reported today.

Another 10 persons are missing and 11 injured. Some 5,759 homes were destroyed or damaged, military spokesmen said, and crop damage in the already rice short area ranged up to 80 per cent.

Israeli Source Says Tel Aviv Assumes Cease-Fire Extension

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

A military source in Tel Aviv said today Israel assumes the Suez Canal cease-fire will be extended before its scheduled expiration Thursday because neither the Israelis nor Arabs are anxious to resume fighting.

But, he added, Israeli troops will be in battle readiness as the 90-day cease-fire, which went into effect Aug. 7, draws to a close.

He said that if the Egyptians remained quiet on the west bank of the canal, Israeli troops on the east bank would continue to respect the truce even if there is no formal extension beforehand.

The spokesman said he expected the cease-fire to continue because the Arab world is still in a state of disarray because of the Jordanian civil war last month. He also said the new leadership in Egypt has not yet stabilized its position and probably is not ready to make any major decisions, such as it would be forced to do if fighting did resume.

Arab political sources in Beirut said earlier Palestinian guerrillas have begun a purge of their ranks in a shakeup believed aimed at leaders of the moderate Al Fatah organization.

Israel accused Britain Monday of damaging Middle East peace efforts with a call for Israeli withdrawal from occupied territories with room only for negotiations to make minor changes in the pre-1967 war boundaries.

"It is hard to understand why they think it useful now to enter the negotiations themselves and thereby to prejudice its outcome and to set the prospect of peace some distance backward," an Israeli spokesman said.

The British stand before the U.N. General Assembly debate on the Middle East chilled Anglo-Israeli relations only hours before Israeli Prime Minister Golda Meir arrived in London from Ottawa today for three days of talks, including meetings with Prime Minister Edward Heath.

An Israeli spokesman said the British proposal would restore the situation that led to the 1967 war and was unacceptable to Israel.

The debate ends today with Mexico due to speak. General Assembly President Edvard Hambro said a decision then would be made on whether to delay voting on proposed Middle East resolutions for a day or two to allow completion of a compromise resolution.

Voting Returns

Election returns from the Civic Center will be broadcast by radio station KTIM-FM beginning at 8 o'clock tonight. The station is at 100.9 on the FM dial.

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

Attacks Flights

MOSCOW (UPI)—The Soviet Defense Ministry today demanded the United States stop its "piratical flights" over Soviet territory.

The Ministrys newspaper Red Star, in a front page editorial, said "American imperialists" seeking to aggravate the international situation continue their "extensive military and intelligence activities directly near the borders of our country."

The editorial said there were more than 10 violations of Soviet air space by U.S. aircraft in the past three years. It linked the recent U8 incident with the shooting down of Gary powers U2 spy plane over Sverdlovsk in 1960, adding "it would be worth reminding how such piratical flights end."

The captives are Maj. Gen. Edward C. D. Sherrer, Brig. Gen. Claude M. McQuarrie Jr. and Maj. James P. Russell. Also with them in detention is Co. Civat Danli, a Turkish liaison officer who was with them aboard a Beechcraft U8 that inadvertently flew into the Soviet Union OCT. 21.

Airport Arrests

KARACHI, Pakistan (UPI)—Police have arrested three airport workers but have not connected them with the driver of a luggage van who rammed a receiving line for Polish President Marian Spychalski, news reports said today.

News reports said two drivers and another employee of Pakistan International Airways were arrested and two hand grenades seized in one of their homes.

Police questioned all airline employees who were at the Karachi airport Sunday when Mohammed Feroz drove a luggage van into the reception line, killing Zygfryd Waniak, deputy Polish foreign minister, and three Pakistanis. Spychalski and his wife were knocked down in the incident but were uninjured.

Warsaw Talks

WARSAW (UPI)—West German Foreign Minister Walter Scheel today opened direct talks with the Polish government expected to end in a treaty of goodwill, including German acceptance of Poland's western border at the Oder and Neisse rivers.

Negotiations of the agreement settling differences dating from World War II will take days and possibly weeks, Polish observers said today.

Paints Over Piccasso

VALLAURIS, France (UPI) —A Spanish dishwasher who wanted to draw attention to his artistic talent painted over a section of his countryman Pablo Piccasso's "War and Peace" mural at the local museum and then surrendered to police Monday night.

Officers quoted the unknown artist, Salvador Izcuerdo-Torres, 34, as saying, "I wanted to draw the attention of my illustrious compatriot to the difficulties that an unknown painter meets to make himself known to the public. They tell me I have talent but I don't sell my painting . . ."

Izcuerdo-Torres has been working as a dishwasher since coming here from Lausanne, Switzerland, police said.

Complain Of Sound

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The three major television networks received numberous telephone calls Monday night from viewers complaining about the poor sound track of President Nixon's 15-minute speech Monday night.

Network officials said — and the Western White House confirmed that the faulty sound was a part of the tapes provided by the Republican National Committee, which sponsored the paid political telecasts, and was not the fault of the networks.

The sound track faded in and out in volume, contained loud background Hum and at times carried such loud crowd sounds that Nixon's words were lost. Some irate callers thought there might have been political sabotage.

Vandalism Arrest

LONDON (UPI) — Police arrested a 35-year-old painter Monday night after two pool balls were thrown through a window of No. 10 Downing Street, Prime Minister Edward Heath's residence. Arnold Barraclough was charged with causing wilful damage.

Power Warnings

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A reserve power shortage in one of every four utility systems in the continental United States could result in blackouts or electrical shortages this winter according to the Federal Power Commission.

In a survey taken by the FPC of 187 large utility systems, 48 had generating reserves of less than 15 per cent for the winter peak load period.

The commission said that seven of the 15 systems in the Northeast have low reserves, but the region as a whole has a higher winter reserve margin than last winter.

Calley's Search

QUANG NGAI, South Vietnam (UPI)—First Lt. William Calley, charged with 102 murders in the alleged My Lai massacre, concluded his search for defense evidence near the scene today. He planned a trip to Saigon in quest of more information.

Calley, who is scheduled to go on trial before a general court-martial at Ft. Benning, Ga., later this month, talked to two Vietnamese rural development workers who were brought to provience headquarters in Quang Ngai city, seven miles southwest of the My Lai, Tuesday morning.

SALT Round

HELSINKI (UPI)—The Soviet Union today failed at the renewed Strategic Arms Limitation Talks (SALT) with the United States to emerge with concrete proposals for curbing the nuclear arms race.

Western sources disclosed that chief Soviet negotiator Vladimir S. Semenov did not present any Moscow plan to match that proposed by the United States in Vienna last July at the second phase of the talks.

The first full working session between the two sides at the third round of SALT was held at the Soviet Embassy and lasted 55 minutes.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

Investor Influenced By Bargain Prices

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. I am 61 and retiring to care for my invalid brother. Could you tell me what my $1,000 E bonds bought in 1952-1955 are now worth? Also should I continue holding Fidelity Capital, Fidelity Fund and Puritan? I have a few shares of Fidelity Capital and 2,000 of the other two. — R. W.

A. Your E Bonds are currently redeemable at $1,288-$1,408 each. The recently added one-half par cent interest bonus will be credited at the end of each bond's semiannual interest period beginning on or after June 1, 1970. Since your bonds have been held through at least one maturity, the bonus will be paid when you redeem your bonds.

Your three funds are all members of the Fidelity Group. In the last decade their performance records have ranged from outstanding to average, depending on the fund's investment goal. The most speculative, Fidelity Capital, now concentrates on longer-term, high-quality growth issues. Thus, this fund, as well as the other two, is suitable for you.

Q. I bought Unicare at 5. It is now down a little and I am thinking of buying more. I am also interested in Gateway Transportation. Which do you think is best? — C.S.

A. Unicare Health Services, traded over-the-counter, is slow to release operating results, making it impossible to assess current operations accurately. At the close of its nine month period ended last February, revenues were up sharply to $17.8 million and net income, after special credit, was equal to 16 cents a share. Dilution from warrants, debentures and acquisitions will probably impede earnings growth, which has to date failed to keep pace with revenue expansion. I would not add to this issue. Gateway, another low-priced OTC stock, reported strike-related deficits in the first two quarters of 1970. As of December 31, 1969, current liabilities exceeded current assets. You appear to be influenced more by low selling price than by intrinsic worth in your investment selections.

Tobacco Firms' Nod To Tar Disclosure

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Major tobacco companies have announced they are ready to begin disclosing tar and nicotine contents of cigarettes in virtually all printed advertisements.

The Tobacco Institute, representing the industry, notified the Federal Trade Commission that the voluntary program had been drawn up in response to an FTC request of Oct. 1 to state how the firms would conduct one.

Eight companies signed a letter to the commission saying that in newspaper, magazine, billboard and other types of printed ads, they would "disclose clearly and prominently" the tar and nicotine contents as determined by FTC tests on each brand of cigarettes.

30-DAY WEATHER OUTLOOK

According to information supplied by the National Weather Service, near normal precipitation and above normal temperatures will prevail in Marin County through the end of the month. Last year during the same period San Rafael registered 1.19 inches of rain, compared with the season average of 2.86 inches. Daytime temperatures for San Rafael last year averaged 69.6 degrees with the overnight range 47 degrees.

Council Likes Plans For Old Courthouse

The San Rafael City Council last night was given a look at plans for the development of the old San Rafael Courthouse property and liked what it saw.

Real estate broker Robert A. Roumiguiere, one of three men who paid $38,000 for an option to purchase the property from the county, presented an architect's sketch of the proposed development to the council.

The proposal, which was made public several months ago, calls for a remodeled courthouse annex containing office space; a highrise, five or six stories, office building with retail shops on the first floor, and two financial buildings, either banks or savings and loan associations.

The option of Roumiguiere, Ernest N. Kettenhofen and Independent-Journal publisher Wishard A. Brown to purchase the property expires next Tuesday.

Roumiguiere told the council last night that the three would ask the board of supervisors today for an extension of the deadline for payment of the remainder of the $767,000 total price of the property.

If the supervisors grant the extension, he said, the three will continue working on the plans for what they are calling "Mission Square." If the extension is not granted and another party picked up the option to purchase Roumiguiere said the three would be willing to help pursue development.

The Mission Square proposal calls for more than 50 per cent of the property to be open space with a fountain and plenty of trees.

Roumiguiere said he, Kettenhofen and Brown were attempting to develop the property for the good of San Rafael and there would not be much profit in it for them. "It's not economically attractive," he said, "but indications are it can be put together."

"It looks nice to me," said Councilman Harry A. Barbier, and Councilman Fred E. Jensen asked, "When are you going to start building?"

"I certainly hope you're successful," Mayor Paul Bettini said as the council directed City Mgr. James H. McCown to lend the city's support to the request of the three for an extension from the county.

San Rafael's Young Music Mecca Under Strong Attack

San Rafael's music mecca for Bay Area young people was ripped into last night by the San Rafael City Council as it searched for a way to close it. (Another San Rafael City Council story, page 1).

The subject of the council's scorn was the purple-painted Pepperland on Francisco Boulevard near Irving (Whitey) Litchfield's Bermuda Palms.

Litchfield also owns the Pepperland building which in recent months has housed top-name rock concerts which have drawn hundreds of young people.

But what might be popular with hundreds of young people is apparently not with many other persons. "I've never had so many complaints on one things since I've been mayor," Mayor C. Paul Bettini said, adding that it was not only the color of the building which was drawing complaints, but noise, crime and cars being broken into as well.

Councilman Harry A. Barbier described Pepperland as a "bad scene," and said, "The only thing Whitey Litchfield ever contributed to this city is a police problem."

The council told senior city planner Charles J. Linthicum to work with the city attorney to see what could be done to put an end to Pepperland.

Linthicum told the council that from a preliminary investigation, it appears that the concert-dance hall use would not be considered a legal nonconforming use of the building and thus require Litchfield or whoever is operating Pepperland to apply to the city for a use permit.

The San Rafael City Council also:

SERVICE STATION — Passed without discussion final adoption of a zoning ordinance amendment allowing service stations in C-1 districts and then rezoned the sites of two homes at 1117 and 1111 Lincoln Avenue from R-4 to C-1 to allow construction of a Mobile Oil Co. service station at the corner of Lincoln and Mission avenues.

UTILITIES — Authorized spending $8,388 for undergrounding utilities at the site of the old city corporation yard on Francisco Boulevard, with two-thirds of the cost to be reimbursed by developers of the property.

CLAIM — Denied and referred to the city's insurance carrier a $200,000 claim by Kenneth J. Burton of 2 Hansen Road, Novato, for injuries suffered in a San Rafael auto accident Sept. 27.

MEETING — Adjourned to its next regular meeting at 8 p.m. Nov. 16.

Silkscreen Class Being Offered

Those interested in participating in the 10-Tuesday course which will meet from 7 to 10 p.m. each session should contact Garvey. There will be a tuition charge.

Viet Prisoners Program Subject

A public program on the Vietnam prisoners of war and those missing in action will be held at a dinner meeting at 7 p.m. Friday at the Officers Club at Hamilton Air Force Base by the Novato Chapter of the Air Force Association, Marin Jaycees and Fighter Pilots Association.

Some wives of prisoners of war will be there and a film on the Vietnam war will be shown, according to Phillip Coady, president of the Novato chapter of the AFA.

Conditional Use Permit On Tap

A request for a conditional use permit to allow construction of a 22-unit housing development near the intersection of Santa Rosa Avenue and Glen Drive will be considered by the Sausalito Planning Commission tomorrow at 8 p.m. in city hall.

David Hunter, who is asking the permit, seeks to construct the development, which includes apartments, duplexes and some single-family homes, on 145,000 square feet of land which he owns.

Paper Judges Lindsay As Sexiest Man

LONDON (UPI) — Mayor John V. Lindsay of New York City topped a list of the world's 10 sexiest men published today by the London Daily Sketch.

"All other advantages aside, John Lindsay is the sexiest politician since Clark Gable turned down an offer to play George Washington," said Sketch writer Anthea Disney.

"He has the sort of features made for the back of coins: boyishly handsome, with faint creases of care around the eyes, a neon smile and normally o lack of hair falling over his forehead."

She advised the newspaper's readers they could see for themselves the charm of the New York mayor when he arrives Wednesday for a brief visit.

Runnersup in the 10 sexiest men list were Calvin Lockhart, actor; Alain Delon, actor; Frank Sinatra, actor and singer; Moshe Dayan, Israeli defense minister; Warren Beatty, actor; Pierre Trudeau, Canadian prime minister; Paul Newman, actor; Mick Jagger, singer, and Tom Jones, singer, in that order.

Missile Launched

VANDENBERG AFB (UPI)— A Minuteman intercontinental ballistic missile was launched from this coastal aerospace center Monday at 3:05 p.m. in an operational test down the Western Test Range. The launch was conducted by a crew from Whiteman Air Force Base, Mo.

Library Hiring Wins Approval

San Anselmo City Council, meeting last night in closed session, accepted a library board recommendation that Mrs. Marjorie Baubel of San Anselmo be hired as a 10-hour-a-week employee.

Formal hiring will come at the next city council meeting, Nov. 9, according to Mayor James F. Reed.

Reed said discussion involved whether the parttime position should be filled by a new employee or the work added to that of an already employed parttime worker.

Coin Club Meeting

The Marin Coin Club will meet at 7:30 p.m. tomorrow in the Redwood High School Faculty lounge. There will be a coin auction at the open meeting, according to Howard Graham, a spokesman for the club.

Petaluma Council To Seek Time To Stop Creamery's Pollution

Faced with a possible cease and desist order from the regional water quality control board, the Petaluma City Council last night requested a two-month extension to abate a source of pollution in the Petaluma River.

City engineer David A. Young said the board had ordered abatement of the Western Avenue storm drain where waste from the Petaluma Cooperative Creamery is dumped directly into the river.

Young said the waste is essentially cooling water from the plant, but has a higher oxygen demand than the river can tolerate. The discharge from the creamery places a daily flow down the river that resembles soap suds.

Arthur Cerini of the creamery said that new equipment has been installed, but that a needed transformer to complete the operation may not be ready until Jan. 1.

The council agreed to ask the control board to extend the abatement date until Jan. 1, but Young said he wasn't sure the board would grant it.

If the board issues a cease and desist order, the city could be faced with a fine of up to $6,000 per day.

The Petaluma City Council also:

MOBILE HOMES — Introduced an ordinance rezoning 28 acres on North McDowell Boulevard from agricultural to mobile home park. The rezoning plan, which was denied by the planning commission, will receive a public hearing on Nov. 16.

REZONING — Introduced an ordinance rezoning 601 D Street fron single family residential to multiple-family. A hearing was set for Dec. 7.

LIGHTS — Approved the installation of four additional lights at four city parks including McDowell, Luchessi, Oak Hill and Cherry Valley playground for a total annual additional cost of $156.

Oil-Spill Reports Asked Of Public

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — The Coast Guard wants Bay Area citizens to act as lookouts for oil spills and other pollution on the Bay.

Rear Adm. Mark A. Whalen, district commanding officer, said that if citizens report quickly on any oil slicks or other pollutants, rapid steps can be taken to minimize harmful effects and meet requirements of the Water Quality Improvement Act of 1970.

He asked persons sighting spills to notify the nearest Coast Guard facility, giving the location and size of the spill and the time it was spotted.

STOP SIGN — Referred the request of the Petaluma Parent Nursery School for a stop sign on Webster Street at Hayes Lane to the traffic committee.

OVERPASS — Approved a resolution urging the State Highway Commission to begin construction of a widened East Washington Street overpass of Highway 101 before January, 1972. The council also requested that first phase plans include a pedestrian overcrossing.

JOINT MEETING — Urged Mayor Helen Putnam to arrange a meeting with the Petaluma Board of Education and Old Adobe School District board on growth problems as soon as possible. She said a full scale meeting may not be possible until January, but that a preliminary meeting may be held in the next two weeks so that the council can have full information on the school crowding situation before considering additional annexations and subdivisions.

STUDY SESSION — Set a study session for next Monday at 7:30 p.m. on changing the meters in the A Street parking lot, a proposed fence ordinance and park development.

APPOINTMENT — Appointed Sharon Cincera as deputy city clerk.

CLOSED — Went behind closed doors to consider charges of misconduct against Planning Commission Chairman Paul Stanley and to consider an appointment to fill a vacancy on the commission.

ALMANAC

Today is Tuesday, Nov. 3, the 307th day of 1970.

The moon is between its new phase and first quarter. The morning stars are Mars and Saturn. The evening stars are Mercury, Venus and Jupiter.

Those born on this date are under the sign of Scorpio.

On this day in history:

In 1783 Congress ordered the Continental Army demobolized.

In 1917 Americans at home learned of the deaths of U.S. soldiers fighting at Nancy, France, the first American fatalities of World War I.

In 1964 a record 67 million American voters went to the polls and Lyndon Johnson was elected president by the biggest majority in history.

A thought for today: American novelist Dorothy Canfield Fisher said, "A mother is not a person to lean on but a person to make leaning unnecessary."

45 Days Jail For Burglary Try

Dennis Victor Chesley, 20, of San Rafael, has been placed on probation for two years and given 45 days in jail for his part in the attempted burglary of a San Anselmo residence on June 10.

He was sentenced by Judge Peter Allen Smith, who sat at the Marin Superior Court trial in which Chesley and Robert Sterling Evans, 22, of San Rafael, were convicted.

Evans, who was also convicted of another burglary, is serving a six-month jail sentence.

HOW TO PLAY

WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

Even In World Championship, Players Fail To Look Ahead

Election day is a traditional time to look ahead — perhaps for several years. If you're a bridge player, you can rely on your training at the bridge table, where good things are sure to happen if you look ahead accurately enough. Because this column tells you nothing but the truth, I'll let you in on a little secret: Even in a world championship the players don't always manage to look ahead far enough.

LOW HEART RETURN

When today's hand was played last June in Stockholm, during the match between North America and Norway, one of the Norwegian experts won the first trick in the East hand with the ace of hearts and returned the nine of hears.

Bobby Wolff, of the American team, played a low heart from his hand, since he had a pretty good idea of what was going to happen. West ruffed and returned a club, driving out declarer's ace.

TRUMP ROUNDS

Wolff drew three rounds of trumps, ending in his hand; led the jack of diamonds for a successful finesse, and took the rest of his diamond tricks. Then he led the ten of clubs from dummy, not caring which opponent won the trick.

If West won, he would have to return a club or a diamond. Dummy would ruff, while South got rid of his last low heart.

If East won the club trick he could lead a heart, but his lead from Q-10 would let dummy's jack and declarer's king win separate heart tricks.

FORESIGHT

East showed a lack of foresight at the second trick when he returned the nine of hearts. He should have looked ahead to the 11th trick.

Suppose East returns the queen of hearts at the second trick. South must play the king, and West ruffs. The rest of the play is the same, and South eventually gives up a club.

11TH TRICK

East wins this trick and now at the 11th trick can lead the 10 of hearts from his 10-9. Dummy's jack wins, but East gets the nine of hearts as the setting trick.

DAILY QUESTION

Partner opens with one spade, and the next player passes.

You hold:
♠ — 9 8 2
♥ — A Q 10 9
♦ — 7
♣ — K J 6 5 4.

What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid three hearts.

This forcing raise promises strong trump support (usually Q-x-x-x or better), with a count of 13 to 16 points, including short suits as well as high cards. In this case you have 10 points in high cards and three points for the side singleton.

THE VATICAN COUNCIL

Recollections Of Cardinal Cushing

By LOUIS CASSELS
UPI Religion Writer

After patiently sitting through four or five weeks of oratory — which under Council rules had to be conducted exclusively in Latin — Cardinal Richard Cushing decided to go home to Boston. Reporters interviewed him on his departure, fully expecting the routine explanation that "urgent archdiocesan affairs" called him home.

Instead, the ruggedly honest old Irishman said: "I can't understand a word they're saying so I might as well go home and get back to work."

The next occasion was the Kennedy inaugural, when Cushing delivered what must surely have been the longest prayer ever given on such an occasion. It was freezing cold, and people were fidgeting as they stood, trying to keep circulation going.

The rostrum began to belch smoke from an electrical short-circuit and firemen hurried forward to cope with it.

Through it all, oblivious to fire and freeze, the grand old man kept praying. And throughout the whole episode, Jack Kennedy struggled to keep from breaking into a grin.

Then there was the day when he presided at Jack Kennedy's funeral in St. Matthew's Cathedral in Washington. I was UPI's "inside" man with a seat up front. When Cushing started to leave the church at the end of the service, he paused by the casket, patted it gently with his hand, and said in as soft a voice as his penetrating brogue would permit: "Dear Jack, Dear Jack."

Millions of Protestants will join Catholics in saying "requiescat in pace" (rest in peace). No Catholic prelate of our time, save Pope John himself, was as widely loved and respected by Protestants as Richard Cushing.

Prelate's Requiem Mass Is Scheduled Saturday

BOSTON (UPI) — The powerful, the rich and ordinary citizens who revered him in life paid homage today to Cardinal Richard Cushing, the blacksmith's son who died a prince of the Roman Catholic church.

Cushing, 75, died of cancer Monday, which was All Souls Day, when Catholics honor their dead. His body lay in state today at Holy Cross Cathedral, where his Requiem Mass will be offered Saturday morning. He will be buried at St. Coletta's Home for Retarded Children, an institution he founded in 1947 and which was one of his favorite concerns.

The cardinal, a priest for 49 years had been in ill health frequently since 1954. It was reliably reported he had cancer.

It was obvious in recent months that his health had failed still further. He lost weight and his strong voice weakened to a raspy whisper.

Last month Cushing retired as Archbishop of Boston after 26 years' service. Two years before, when he was assailed by some critics for defending the right of President Kennedy's widow to marry Aristotle Onassis, his offer to retire had been rejected by the Vatican.

The ceremonies Oct. 7 in which Archbishop Humberto S. Medeiros was elevated to Boston episcopate were an ecclesiastical rarity in that Cushing attended. Medeiros was with the cardinal at his home when he died shortly before 2 p.m. Monday.

Cushing's great warmth, humor and personal magnetism were the qualities that endeared him to both his priests and the Catholic laymen of Boston. His bubbling, jaunty informality startled people on a number of occsions—such as the times he danced Irish jigs with housewives at church celebrations or played Santa Claus in the red vestments which harked his rank — he called them his "glad rags."

The Cardinal was influential in the highest levels of Roman Catholic hierarchy and one of the leading American prelates for years, yet he was not deeply involved in theological scholarship. He returned to Boston after the first two sessions of the Ecumenical Council in Rome because, as he frankly told newsmen, he could not follow the proceedings, which were conducted entirely in Latin.

Cushing was best known for his friendship with influential people, particularly the Kennedy family. He was a long-tme friend of the Joseph P. Kennedy and adviser and confidant to his wife and sons.

President Kennedy was "Dear Jack" to Cushing. The Cardinal was given his Navy dog tags when the chief executive was assassinated in 1963. He presided at the funeral of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy when he was assassinated in 1968.

Cushing married John D. Kennedy — then a senator — to Jacqueline Bouvier in 1953. When the President's widow wanted to marry Onassis in 1968, he defended her right to do so, cautioning that she could not marry Onassis and remain a Catholic in good standing.

When critics of the marriage responded with "gutter" mail after his announcement, he offered to resign, saying "If they don't understand me after 27 years, they'll never understand me." Pope Paul VI refused that retirement request.

The cardinal who first succeeded in his priestly career as an "armchair missionary," raising funds, had wanted for years to minister to the poor in South America, and first asked to retire in 1962, but the Pope did not accede to his request until about two months ago.

Lions Schedule Ecology Speakers

The newly chartered Northgate Lions Club will have a series of speakers on Marin environmental problems at its Friday morning breakfasts. The club then will select a project for improving the environment, according to club president Melvin B. Fox.

Lions International chartered the Northgate club on Oct. 16. It meets in the Oakview Club at the Meadows at 7:34 a.m. on Fridays.

Rain Gear Stolen

A raincoat and umbrella with a total value of $100 were taken at an unknown time from the auto of Horton P. Joaquin of 220 Canal Street, Apt. 40, San Rafael, police said today.

SHE'S FOR REAL, THE GUN ISN'T

"The gun she carries isn't real, but everything else is," says the Palo Alto record store owner who hired Marika Jung as his new security guard. He said the image of the house cop needed a soft touch.

Aviation Improvement Panel Formed As Watchdog Group

The Aviation Improvement Commimttee of Marin, a group of citizens who own or fly airplanes, has been formed to act as watchdog over aviation development in the county.

Gerald Bonner of Kentfield, who heads the group, told the Marin Aviation Commission last night that his organization will take a position on items on the commission agenda hereafter.

The aviation commissioners voted unanimously to ask the Marin County Board of Supervisors to recommend to the Golden Gate Bridge District that a heliport be considered along with a ferry terminal in Corte Madera or Larkspur.

A subcommittee, headed by Herbert Hanson, recommended that the airplane tie-down fee at Gnoss Field, which is now $15 per month, be raised by one-third, but commissioners took no action until further study.

Chairman Ray W. Foreaker Jr. said the next meeting of the aviation commission will be held at 8 p.m. Dec. 1, but the place of meeting is not decided. The commissioners met last night in the Marin Aviation Building at Gnoss Field.

Sausalito's Parking Ban Due Discussion

The merits of a partial parking ban on a two-block portion of Bridgeway in downtown Sausalito, begun in May, will be discussed by the Sausalito City Council at a special meeting Thursday at 8 p.m. in city hall.

In addition to assessing results of the no-parking test, the council will also consider the city's traffic problems, including several solutions which have been proposed by a consultant hired by the city, the Sausalito Businessmen's Association and Chamber of Commerce.

Tourism Declines

Actors Agree To Contract Extension

NEW YORK (UPI)—Actors Equity members have agreed to extend their present contract for two weeks with off-Broadway theaters while negotiations continue on the condition pay raises will become retroactive no later than Nov. 9.

Sean Callery, a spokesman for the 200 actors involved with 120 theaters, said Monday the performers, who make $75 a week now, are demanding $200 and better working conditions. The present contract expired Monday.

Blood Drive Slated For Music Professor

Dr. Warren was recently stricken with leukemia and is a patient at City of Hope Hospital, Duarte, Los Angeles County. Students, staff and faculty members donated 41 pints of blood for his fund in a drive on campus last week.

New Parking Ideas To Hub City Council

The San Anselmo Planning Commission last night approved parking recommendations which if accepted by the city council will require existing apartment houses to provide one space per housing unit.

Commission Chairman Philip S. Heinecke said today the action followed months of study by a citizens' street and traffic committee.

Heinecke said the three-part report recommends relaxing of variance procedures governing parking, waving of variance fees for parking applications at existing developments, and empowering the planning director to grant parking variances without consideration by the commission. The report also calls for a citizens' group to assist property owners seeking to expand or create additional parking space.

Heinecke said the recommendations apply to both hilly and flat areas within the city and cover only single family and multiple family units. Commercial developments are not included.

While the recommendations require parking expansion by some multiple dwelling units, Heinecke said the recommendations "only attempt to encourage" single family homeowners to expand parking. No requirement has been placed on them, he said.

In other action last night, the commission established a subcommittee to develop changes in planned development zoning to allow more flexibility.

Heinecke said the planned development zone now requires plans to be submitted at the time such a zone is requested and the zone is granted on the basis of those plans.

Should conditions such as traffic or drainage change before the development is constructed, the city is bound by its original zoning approval.

Petition Organizer Sees Nixon Censure Momentum

Mrs. James Melton, of 1171 Cambridge Street, Novato, spokesman for the drive, said not enough of the petitions had been returned to give any estimate of how many signatures had been gathered. But, she said, she was arranging to have 1,000 more petitions printed today in response to numerous calls from interested volunteers.

She said the petitions would be taken tonight to political campaign headquarters throughout the county, and "we expect to get a lot of signatures" though "not much response from Republican" campaign offices.

The petition drive seeks not only Nixon's censure but calls for a law banning any president from using "the American people's time, money and power given him by the people" to campaign for any other individual. The drive will go on "two years if necessary" to get the law, the Novato woman said.

She said the signed petitions will be presented to some United State senator to launch the censure action in Congress.

Mrs. Melton said support is rising from groups still involved in working for individuals and propositions on the ballot, that will take up the petition drive after today. "They're not radical groups, but I'm not at liberty to say who they are," she said.

Alto Homeowners Stopping Leaks

Homeowners in Alto are cooperating with the Alto Sanitary District's program to reduce infiltration of surface water into sewer lines, the district board was told last night.

Director Carl O. Heynen Jr. reported that property owners have repaired about half the 38 leaks in sewer laterals that the district discovered when it conducted smoke testing of the system.

In addition, Heynen said, the district has repaired 10 leaks in its own sewer lines. The fewer the leaks, he said, the less rain water will enter the system and find its way to the sewage treatment plant.

Two Injured When Car Leaves Road

Two 32-year-old Almonte men were injured last night when their car ran off Pine Hill Road in Almonte, according to the California Highway Patrol.

Wing S. Wong and Frederick Janeski, both of 357 South Morning Sun Avenue, were taken to Marin General Hospital following the 10 p.m. accident. Wong was treated for a scraped forehead and possible fractured rib, while Janeski was treated for a fractured right arm.

Officers said Wong told them he swerved his car to avoid an animal and struck a block wall at 371 Pine Hill Road.

No Action On Request By Allison

Board members said the request, submitted late last week, was "too big a matter" for hasty decision.

Twenty Drake High teachers sat through the meeting, finally presenting a petition urging the board not to accept Allisen's resignation as their principal. The petition was signed by all but two of the school's teachers and every noncertificated worker in the school, the delegation told the board.

The Tamalpais High School District Board also:

PHYSICIANS — Selected Carl E. Slichtmann as physician for Tam High; Ripley H. Hunter and Roger W. Hedin for Drake and Redwood at $25 per hour for general services and $50 per football game attended.

COACHES — Approved extra service hiring of Robert Cosc as Tam High varsity swimming and water polo coach, for $55(and William Purcell as Redwood High varsity swimming coach at $400.

HIRINGS — Approved hiring John Isola, district custodial staff, at $681 per month; Stephanie Draper, clerk-typist at Drake, $536, and Virginia Chandler, clerk-typist at Redwood $536.

GRAPHIC ARTS — Approved purchase of $7,400 in printing equipment from sole bidder Printmac Pacific Inc., South San Francisco, for Redwood High shop.

SIDEWALKS — Contracted with architects Busnell, Jessup Murphy and Van deWeghe for up to $600 to design new walkways at Tam High and authorized the same firm to proceed with construction drawings for Phase II of the Tam building program.

STORM DRAINS — Authorized calls for bids on storm drain improvements at Drake High.

NEGOTIATIONS — Hear from District Supt. Wilbur Hawkins that the district negotiating team will remain the same as last year's.

CHP Motorcycle Officer Injured

O'Brien, of Santa Rosa, was reported in satisfactory condition at Santa Rosa Memorial Hospital. The California Highway Patrol had no details of the accident, but said the officer was en route to his patrol area when the accident occurred at 12:30 p.m.

Good things come in little oak barrels.

What makes a brandy smooth?
Mostly, it's the wood the brandy is aged in. That's why the best barrels are small ones which allow close contact between wood and liquor.
Almadén Brandy is aged in little oak barrels.
The result is a drink that goes down so smooth, you hardly know you're swallowing.

President's Stumping Sparked State Races

Jose that sparked a major controversy.

Nixon drew on the violent incident to dramatize the law and order issue over nationwide television.

Murphy took out a full page election eve ad in several newspapers to tell voters "the riot . . . which threatened the lives of President Nixon, Gov. Reagan and Sen. Murphy" made it clear the decision they faced was "between anarchy or law and order."

Tunney responded by accusing Murphy of "political terrorism" and said "this is one of the most incredible hatchet jobs that I've ever seen. It's rotten. It makes it appears as if a vote for me is a vote for anarchy."

Democrats implied the anti-war demonstration was exaggerated and probably planned.

Reagan, who was riding with Nixon and Murphy in the President's limousine and flashing demonstrators the peace sign, replied "if I'm going to plan anything, it's not going to be anything where they are throwing rocks at my head."

Pollsters predicted a big victory for Reagan, who challenged Nixon for the Republican presidential nomination in 1968.

The 59-year-old former actor based his second term bid on a record of economy in government and a "get tough" policy toward campus militants and welfare abusers.

Unruh, 48, the son of illiterate Texas sharecroppers who rose to speaker of the state Assembly, accused the Republican governor during a hard-hitting campaign of being controlled by "half-hidden millionaires" and big business.

Unruh and Tunney both blamed Republicans for California's rising unemployment rate, now 7 per cent.

One issue dogged Murphy right to the end. That was his former $20,000 per year consulting contract with Technicolor. Tunney called it a "conflict of interest."

"That's all Tunney says—Technicolor, Technicolor, Technicolor," the senator complained.

Murphy emphasized his "belief in America" during the long campaign and pointed to legislation he sponsored in the fields of bilingual education and auto smog controls.

Californians also voted on six other statewide offices, all 38 California members of the House, half the state senators, all 80 assemblymen and the four members of the Board of Equalization. They also were confronted with 20 state ballot propositions and hundreds of local issues.

An army of 150,000 election officials manned the polls and processed ballots. Extra guards protected computer centers from threats of radical sabotage.

The two major political parties called on 100,000 volunteers to turn out friendly voters.

Democrats outnumbered Republicans by 54.9 to 39.8 per cent—a slight gain for the majority party since the primary. But Californians frequently cross party lines. They did in 1966 in electing Reagan by a landslide over former Gov. Edmund G. Brown.

Brown's son, Edmund Jr., was running in his first statewide race today. The 32-year-old Democrat contested Negro Republican James L. Flournoy for secretary of state.

Another Negro, Wilson Riles, was challenging Max Rafferty for the politically nonpartisan job of state superintendent of public instruction. At least one independent poll showed Riles could pull a major upset.

The parties poured hundreds of thousands of dollars into key legislative races in an attempt to gain control of the Senate and Assembly. The majority party next year will reapportion congressional and legislative districts and draw California's political map for a decade. Republicans now hold a one-vote advantage in each house.

The most controversial ballot proposition was No. 18 to allow local government to spend up to 25 per cent of its gasoline tax revenue for smog-fighting purposes.

In other statewise races, Los Angeles District Attorney Evelle J. Younger, a Republican, was running against Deputy Attorney General Charles A. O'Brien for attorney general; former Brown aide Milton G. Gordon was contesting Republican incumbent Ivy Baker Priest for treasurer; Democrat Ronald Brooks Cameron was challenging GOP incumbent Houston I. Flournoy for controller, and state Sen. Alfred E. Alquist, D-San Jose, opposed Republican incumbent Ed Reinecke for lieutenant governor.

Elections Are Far Off In Greece

ATHENS — (Toronto Telegram News Service) — Sudden press speculation in Athens about "imminent political developments" — ranging from the naming of a date for elections to the return of King Constantine from three years of self-imposed exile in Italy — has been firmly squashed by the Greek government.

The next Greek elections, it has been made clear, still lie in the indefinite future.

The speculation coincided with the U.S. decision to resume full-scale military assistance to Greece, sharply curtailed after the 1967 military takeover and the formal visit to Athens of U.S. Defense Secretary Melvin Laird.

Despite the logic of the aid resumption, in view of the importance of Greece to NATO defense at a time of growing Soviet penetration in the Mideterranean, belief apparently persisted in some quarters that there had been political horse-trading between Athens and Washington over the supply of military hardware.

The government spokesman, George Georgalas, has made it clear that there has been no change in the government's determination not to restore parliamentary administration until the country is safeguarded against a return to the methods and personalities of the old Greek political world.

In a recent radio and television address, he listed five basic targets to be attained before elections could be held.

The per capita income must reach $1,100 annually and the economy must become self-sustaining and in a position to amortize productive investment.

Administrative decentralization and reorganization must be completed.

Social inequalities between income groups and regions of the country must be reduced.

The reform of the educational system must be completed.

While these targets did not necessarily have to be achieved in full for elections to be held, they must be achieved "to the point where the country is secured against the danger of retrogression," Georgalas said.

The government would decide "when we have reached a point permitting us to set a prospect for elections," and, he said, there was no question of any timetable.

While much of what Georgalas said was a re-statement in greater detail of known government policy, the spokesman — who holds the rank of undersecretary to Prime Minister George Papadopoulos with responsibility for press and information — advanced the issue further than it had been taken before by looking to what would happen when elections were eventually held.

It was a mistake, Georgalas said, to think that elections would mark "the end of the revolution;" they would rather be "the beginning of its parliamentary phase."

While the pro-government newspapers welcomed the statement, viewing the government targets as far outweighting in importance any talk of early elections, the undersecretary was taken to task by two traditionally right-wing, royalist newspapers.

The morning newspaper Acropolis maintained that "much of what Mr. Georgalas said was not in keeping with the Western spirit or with government policy as expressed by the prime minister," objecting particularly to "the contention that economic development in Greece cannot take place under a democratic regime."

The afternoon newspaper Vradyni, in a long front-page editorial, described the targets listed by Georgalas as conditions for a return to parliamentary rule as "completely vague and capable of indefinite prolongation."

Bomb-Making Tools Seized; Six Arrested

NEW YORK (UPI)—Six persons were arrested in raids on three apartments that produced tools and supplies for assembling bombs, a small library on demolition techniques and maps showing the layout of more than 50 buildings in New York and Chicago, authorities said Monday.

The six including four said to be members of the revolutionary Weathermen group, were arrested on charges of conspiracy to commit murder and arson and conspiracy to make bombs.

Bronx District Attorney Burton B. Roberts, who announced the raids, said the apartments had been under surveillance in connection with a series of recent bombings in this area. However, none of the six was charged with an actual bombing "at this time," he said.

Among the articles seized in the three apartments — two in the Bronx and one in Manhattan — were 400 blank draft cards printed by a metal plate, which was recovered, Roberts said. The alleged bomb supplies included batteries, watches for timing devices, bullets, railroad flares, ball bearings and tools for cutting pipes.

Roberts identified those arrested as Donald Cavellini, 27, a graduate of the City College of New York, employed as a clerk; his twin brother, William, of Sovermville, Mass., studying for a master's degree in urban affairs at Massachussets Institute of Technology; Beth Katz, 27, a graduate of Brandeis University employed as a librarian; Jefferson Bernard, 19, of Syracuse, an unemployed laborer; Mary Doyle, 54, a clerk; and her son, Timothy, 28, unemployed. All but Mrs. Doyle and William Cavellini were members of Weathermen, the district attorney said.

Roberts said Cavellini's, Mrs. Katz's and Mrs. Doyle's apartments had been under surveillance for some time but the raids developed by accident Sunday night, when two patrolmen investigated a report that a man with a gun had been seen in Cavellini's apartment.

They knocked at the door and Donald Cavellini answered, Roberts said, but he slammed the door again when he saw the police. The officers got inside through a read window and found the bomb supplies, the books on explosives and plans for the buildings.

After these discoveries, Roberts said, his staff decided to obtain warrants immediately and search the other two apartments, where other materials were found.

Pot Charges Are Dismissed

Marijuana charges against Neal Richard Kraemer, 22, of no known address, were dismissed yesterday in Marin Municipal Court by Judge Alvin H. Goldstein Jr. because the evidence had not been analyzed.

The district attorney's office is without a laboratory expert to make such analyses and is trying to make arrangements with federal or state chemists for the tests.

Kraemer was arrested Aug. 1 by sheriff's deputies and was accused of having pot and a pipe for smoking it.

Hub School Board Meets On Rec Tax

The San Anselmo School District Board, meeting today at 7:30 p.m., at Hidden Valley School, will continue discussion of an agreement with the City of San Anselmo for utilization of the district's community service tax for recreation.

The board will also consider formation of its District Goals and Philosophy Committee and hear a report on multi-ethnic education, among other agenda items.

Hearing Set For Man In Car Theft

George Edward Myers, 23, of no known address, pleaded innocent yesterday in Marin Municipal Court to a charge of car theft. A preliminary hearing was set for Friday.

Myers was arrested last Thursday after a high speed chase through downtown San Rafael after he had been seen driving a car with no lights on at 8:25 p.m. The car had been reported stolen from a San Anselmo man.

Bad Weather Cut Vote In Much Of Nation

need to wrest control from the Democrats is seven.

Democrats were expected not only to hold their own but probably make slight gains in the House, as well as to pick up several key state governorships —a vital factor in jockeying for the 1972 presidential election.

Some big-name politicos were virtually assured of election today:

Nelson Rockefeller as governor of New York; Hubert H. Humphrey as comeback-senator from Minnesota, Ted Kennedy as senator from Massachusetts, Edmund S. Muskie as senator from Maine, George C. Wallace as governor of Alabama, Ronald Reagan as governor of California.

But even though they seemed home free, they too had to sweat out tonight's reurns, for he size of their winning majorities will affect their political potency for 1972.

As always, the election was likely to turn up some important new faces. Among those with fair to good prospects of victory were Democrat Dale Bumpers as governor of Arkansas; Conservative James L. Buckley as senator from New York; Democratic State Sen. Lawton "Walking Lawton" Chiles for senator from Florida; Democratic State Treasurer Adlai E. Stevenson III as senator from Illinois; Democrat John J. Gilligan as governor of Ohio; Democrat John V. Tunney as senator from California, and Fr. Robert F. Drinan, a Catholic priest, as a congressman from Massachusetts.

The campaign was the most bitterly contested of any off-year election in many years, with President Nixon putting his personal prestige on the line by barnstorming through 22 states.

But even before the weather turned sour, a light turnout of voters was indicated in many areas. The evidence was that the electorate was not greatly stirred either by Republican attempts to saddle Democrats with blame for violence and disorder, or Democratic attempts to pin on Nixon responsibility for rising prices and growing unemployment.

Those who needed only a small excuse for leaving their franchise un-exercised found it in the cold wet weather which covered most of the nation from the Rockies to the East Coast.

Snow was reported along the eastern slopes of the central Rockies and rain or drizzle fell over the central plains to the upper Great Lakes.

There was light snow mixed with rain in Minnesota and Iowa. Farther east, showers or steady rains were common from the upper Ohio valley into the Middle Atlantic states and on down into the Carolinas. Unseasonably cool weather invaded much of the western half of the nation as well as parts of the deep South.

West of the rockies, and in the Southwest, the Gulf Coast and in parts of upstate New York and New England, the weather was either fair or threatening at worst.

CLEAR

during working hours, the attorney said.

The profit-sharing charge, Berke said, was unfounded because all employees are treated alike in the program.

The union can ask reconsideration of the Washington ruling within 10 days, Berke said.

In contrast, charges of unfair labor practices brought by the Independent-Journal against the union have been confirmed by the labor board.

A trial examiner ruled Sept. 3 that mechanical superintendent Gordon Dixon had been illegally disciplined by the union.

On Aug. 17, the examiner ruled the typographical union and two Teamsters' locals were guilty of illegal secondary boycott in trying to halt shipments of newsprint at a San Francisco pier that were destined for the I-J.

On June 24, a U.S. District Court judge found the striking union guilty of illegal picketing in violation of an injunction. The complaint was filed by the labor board.

Contempt hearings are now underway in federal court here against the striking union, two Teamsters' unions and a longshoreman's local for civil and criminal contempt. The NLRB charges the four labor groups with illegal secondary boycott aimed at coercing businesses to halt advertising in the paper.

The charges stemmed from a three-week wildcat boycott in Central Marin by teamsters trying to stop trucks making deliveries.

Arraignment On Burglary

Daniel Raymond Christian Prince, 20, of 87 Marina Vista, Larkspur, was arraigned yesterday in Marin Municipal Court on a charge of burglarizing a Larkspur residence on Oct. 14.

His case was continued to next Monday for entry of plea.

Prince was arrested last weekend on a warrant charging that he was the person who fled the home of Virginia Ann Schryver of 108 Ardmore Road after she surprised him in the house.

Pot Cultivator Gets Jail Term

Judge E. Warren McGuire of Marin Superior Court yesterday placed Martin Gerald Bida, 25, of no fixed address, on probation for one year and sent him to jail for 15 days for a marijuana offense.

Bida had earlier pleaded guilty to having pot when arrested in September 1969 near Point Reyes Station.

Sheriff's deputies said that he had pot plants, a machete and three books on how to raise marijuana in his car.

Larkspur Youth Gets Sentence

Judge E. Warren McGuire of Marin Superior Court yesterday sentenced Peter Winston House, 18, of Larkspur, to the California Youth Authority on charges of attempting to burglarize a car and possessing LSD.

House, who earlier had pleaded guilty to the charges, was arrested Sept. 13 in Sausalito.

At the time of the guility pleas, another charge of burglarizing a Corte Madera laundromat was dismissed.

Mrs. Abras Says Police Report Erred

Irmgard Abras of 16 Elaine Way, San Rafael, said yesterday that the police erred in reporting she had been treated last Thursday at Marin General Hospital for an overdose of tranquilizers.

Mrs. Abras said she had not taken an overdose and that no treatment was necessary at the hospital, as she had merely felt groggy. She was taken to the hospital at 5:30 p.m., she said, not 3:30 p.m. as reported in Friday's I-J.

Petty Theft Draws 3-Year Probation

Delores May Brattin, 384 Monte Vista Lane, Petaluma, was placed on three years probation in Southern Sonoma Municipal Court yesterday for petty theft.

Judge Alexander, J. McMahon suspended a three month jail sentence and ordered her to make restitutiin for the $100 taken for the Wilson School Parent-Teacher Association. Mrs. Brattin pleaded guilty after a felony grand theft charge was reduced to the misdemeanor.

OBITUARIES

Rites Held For William Wade

Funeral for William Wade of San Rafael has been held in San Rafael, followed by inurnment in Mount Tamalpais Cemetery.

Wade died in a local convalescent hospital Oct. 25. He was a native of Missouri and a retired postal inspector who worked 15 years in San Francisco. He is survived by his wife, Nina Wade, and a daughter, Doris Chiaravalle, both of San Rafael, and a sister and a brother, Florence Long and Edward Wade, of Hannibal, Mo.

He was a veteran of Army service in World War I and a member of the American Legion.

RUTH HOOPER

Private service was held yesterday for Ruth Irene Hooper of San Anselmo.

Mrs. Hooper, 57, of 222 Los Angeles Boulevard, died Sunday at a local hospital following a short illness.

A native of San Francisco, she had lived in Marin County about 25 years.

Mrs. Hooper was the wife of the late Fred A. Hooper, a Marin County deputy sheriff for many years.

She was employed at Macy's in San Rafael and was a member of the Order of the Eastern Star.

Surviving are a daughter, Valora Pitts of San Anselmo; two sisters, Wilma Dallas of Santa Clara and Elaine Petrovsky of Millbrae, and two grandchildren.

EDNA HENDREN

Funeral for Edna J. Hendren, 81, retired Marin and Sonoma teacher, will be held at 2 p.m. tomorrow at the Sorensen Funeral Home in Petaluma.

Mrs. Hendren died Sunday at a local hospital after a short illness.

A native of Bloomfield, she was the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Conrad Boysen, early settlers. Mrs. Hendren was a graduate of San Jose State College and taught school in Hawaii, Nicasio, San Rafael, Cinnabar and Liberty before her marriage in 1926 to William Hendren, a retired rancher.

After her marriage, Mrs. Hendren served as a substitute teacher in the Petaluma School District. She was a member of the Morning Star Chapter No. 61, Order of Eastern Star and the Two Rock Valley Presbyterian Church.

Intombment will be at Cypress Hill Memorial Park.

Contributions may be made to the Two Rock Valley Presbyterian Church.

JOHN McLEAN

Funeral for John McLean, stepfather of Arthur Whitley of Fairfax, was to be held today in Fayette, Iowa.

McLean died Friday in a San Rafael convalescent hospital at the age of 83. He was a native of Iowa, and had lived for 11 years in Marin County. He also is survived by three grandchildren.

ANNA ALVES

Anna A. Alves of San Rafael, sister of Mary Brazil of Petaluma, died yesterday in a local hospital, after a brief illness. She was 60.

A native of Pescadero, she lived in Marin County some 20 years before moving to Sonoma County with her late husband Joseph A. Alves, a rancher. She had returned to Marin County two years ago, living at 215 Bayview Street, San Rafael.

The funeral will be at 2 p.m. Thursday in Harry M. Williams Mortuary, San Rafael. Burial will be in the Odd Fellows Cemetery, Santa Rosa.

MARY E. COOK

Mary E. Cook, 96, a lifelong Petaluma resident, died yesterday at a local hospital after a long illness.

Mrs. Cook was the wife of the late Charles Cook and made her home with a cousin, Allen Hart, 4955 Lakeville Highway.

Requiem Mass will be offered at 9:30 a.m. tomorrow at St. James Catholic Church, Petaluma. Intombement will be at Calvary Cemetery. Recitation of the Rosary will be at 8 p.m. at the Sorensen Funeral Home, Petaluma.

MRS. ALLISON

Private funeral has been held for Harriet Allison of Berkeley, sister of Vera Allison Gaethke of Mill Valley.

Mrs. Allison died Oct. 23 in an Albany hospital after a long illness. She was 69.

Born in San Francisco, she lived there until going to the University of California. She lived in the Berkeley area for the rest of her life, which was punctuated with trips to Europe, Asia and the South Seas.

In the mid-1920s she wrote a dictionary of the language of Niue in the South Pacific. After returning to the university, she took a bachelor's degree in about 1932.

Able to read half a dozen languages, she became a research assistant to Professor Emeritus Charles Kent of the University of California Department of Paleontology in 1956 and retired in 1966 due to ill health. She had worked as a legal secretary during World War II.

Mrs. Allison, who resumed her maiden name following a divorce, is also survived by a daughter, Barbara Kennedy of New York, a brother, George Allison of Washington, D.C., and two grandchildren.

Novato Forming Housing Group

A committee will be formed to study the housing element of the Novato master plan, the Novato City Council decided last night after a joint meeting with the Novato Planning Commission.

The two bodies could not agree on the size of the committee, but the council asked for volunteers to serve it, reported secretary Peggy Lehigh.

The committee would meet every two weeks to study all phases of housing in the city. The city shall furnish a secretary and keep the minutes of the meetings, she said.

Berliners Want One City

By EDWARD K. DeONG

CHEPOINT CHARLIE, East Berlin (UPI)—They stood in the deepening twilight —two young women in heavy coats, one grasping the handle of a baby carriage, and a young man in an ill-fitting winter suit —and stared through the barrier toward the lights of West Berlin.

Their eyes seemed to carry them across the ugly wall — across the barren and brightly illuminated "death strip," past the machinegun-armed guards in gray uniforms at this border crossing, into the forbidden side of their divided city.

They were not alone. other little groups of East Berliners kept similar vigils nearby, perhaps 25 in all, few of them talking. Occasional tour buses from the west, finishing their last trip of the day, wound through the obstacle course of the checkpoint into a bustle of life the East Berliner may visit only in his mind.

For perhaps 20 minutes they stood there as the early darkness fell. Then slowly, they turned and walked toward home, past the drab store fronts, pushing the baby carriage up dimly-lit Friedrichstrasse to the east.

No matter which side of the wall is theirs, one of the dominant feelings expressed by Berliners is a longing for an undivided city.

On the East, the longing is told mainly by the eyes of those who gaze across the border toward parents they may not visit or grandchildren they have never held. Only occasionally will an East Berliner say to a visitor, a stranger, that he wishes things were different.

On the West, the signs are stronger. New autobahns are planned to run through the entire city, although now they stop short at the border wall. And the West Berliner, while often expressing hatred for the East German government, never seems to cease a hopeful search for the slightest hint the border might be reopened.

"It will be, one day," they assure you in conversations on the street, in ships and bars, in their homes. "It must be. We are still a single city."

There is a general feeling that the West German government will recognize the present border between Germany and Poland, accepting the East German government's grant of two large areas of land to Poland. In return, West Berliners hope, their city will be granted some concessions by East Germany, which surrounds them.

Until 20 minutes after midnight on Aug. 13, 1961, the two sides of Berlin were not entirely isolated. Many East Berliners worked in Western sectors, and families from the West crossed into the East to visit relatives and friends.

Then the wall began going up.

Today it stretches across the entire city, an obscene scar of white concrete slabs stacked eight or nine feet high, topped by round tiles, and of empty buildings with bricked-up windows and doors. Daily, workmen add new refinements.

"They have recently added a mercury vapor light system," said Lt. Col. Richard Terry, a top official in the U.S. Berlin brigade. "This was very expensive, about the same type system you'd find back home on the interstate highways or on big city streets."

By night, these lamps bathe the death strip with daylight brightness.

Neither East Berliners nor West Berliners may cross this border now, or even talk across it by telephone. Those in the West do not try to get into the East and today —because word of the wall's formidable fortifications has spread through the East —escape attempts from East to West Berlin are rare.

Virtually all of last year's 729 escapees from East Germany crossed into the West somewhere other than in Berlin.

Almost nightly there are reports of shots fired from the guard towers. But the last documented shooting of a would-be escaped took place months ago.

About six weeks ago, in the last escape U.S. military officials in Berlin said was successful, two guards left their tower together and swam across a canal to the West carrying their weapons. Escapes by a single guard are unheard of, because they are stationed in pairs.

"Because 65 guards have been shot by their buddies near the wall, the guards now are fairly trigger happy," Terry said. "They tend to shoot at anything suspicious, rather than climbing down to see what it is."

East Berlin is no longer the grim and desolate place it once was, although it hardly compares with West Berlin.

In recent years the Communist government has spent millions trying to erase the scars of World War II from the capital of East Germany and make it a more beautiful, more modern city.

From an initial showplace of reconstruction along Karl Marx Allee, with a few modern apartment buildings and shops, the city has expanded vastly its housing improvements and has developed one large shopping center not unlike those found in the West.

"But many, many people still live in apartments that are very old and that are in a bad state of repair," an East German guide said. "In addition to the new apartment buildings, there is a program to improve the old apartments. But much remains to be done."

East Berlin's streets still present an atmosphere of the 1930s.

There are few cars, and many of those that do travel the roads are very old. By far the greatest traffic through the city is pedestrian. Streets are poorly lighted, and most stores and shops are devoid of window displays. Neon signs are rare and generally small.

Stylish clothes seem almost non-existent. Durability, instead, seems the objective. One afternoon's ride through the downtown streets turned up no midi or maxi skirts or coats, only one mini skirt, and absolutely no flare pants or other mod styles.

Most women wore sweaters and either knee-length full skirts or straight-leg slacks. Most men were dressed in rather baggy trousers, generally with sweaters or work jackets, and the few who wore suits seemed to have been inexpertly fitted. Colors tended to be dark.

Even so, the scene can be misleading. Communist Party Secretary Walter Ulbricht has been bringing the East German economy up steadily from an almost zero level after the war. Almost half the labor force today is female.

"He has brought the economy of his country to the point where it is the highest of any of the Eastern-bloc countries in Europe," Col. Terry said.

By contrast, West Berlin is a bright and bustling city with streets full of cars and stores bursting with goods and customers.

Put back on its feet initially by the Marshall Plan, supported in its isolation by the occupying Western powers — the United States, Britain and France —West Berlin is today an international city with an industrial base growing toward self-sufficiency. About two-thirds of Berlin's 3.2 million inhabitants live in this part of the city.

The West German government pays 94 per cent of the cost of maintaining West Berlin's occupied status. In addition, to keep the city from being inhabited only by the very young and the very old, the West German government encourages migration to Berlin.

West Germans who move to West Berlin receive income tax reductions and may qualify for interest-free government loans of up to 10,000 marks (about $2,740).

In addition, the government provides marriage loans of up to 10,000 marks for eligible couples who get married in West Berlin. The birth of one child in the city erases one-fourth of this debt. Birth of a second child cancels another one-fourth, and with the birth of a third child the whole loan is forgotten.

Because raw materials must be brought into West Berlin, and most manufactrered products exported, most of its industries are small. Nevertheless, the city is extremely prosperous and its people seem to enjoy a very high standard of living.

Products in the stores are brightly displayed and cover the entire range of consumer goods. Fashionable clothes, both for men and for women, are the rule rather than the exception. Night life abounds, and the streets are full until the wee hours of the morning.

Although the city is in every sense occupied by a garrison of soldiers from three nations, the military presence is almost invisible.

30-Car Pile-Up Kills Eight

LODI, Italy (UPI)—A flaming 30-car pileup on Italy's Autostrada superhighway today killed eight persons and injured more than a score others.

Ambulances, fire engines and police units sped from neighboring towns to a stretch of the highway between Milan and Lodi to help extricate trapped and injured motorists and get them to hospitals.

Police officials said two truck drivers, whose headon collision around dawn triggered the chain reaction wreck, were killed outright and that six other persons died from injuries.

High DDT Levels In Sea Lions

PACIFIC GROVE (UPI) — The Hopkins Marine Station reports record high levels of DDT in the carcasses of dead sealions, which it says could explain the disease that has cost 90 of them their lives.

Dr. John Phillips said Tuesday one reading of 3,900 parts per million in the blubber of one animal and an average of 1200-1500 parts per million. The highest reading ever recorded in sea life previously by the station's laboratory was 1,029 parts per million, Dr. Phillips said.

He emphasized that autopsies on the animals won't be made officially for several days.

New Limits On Pollution Due Hearing

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — Tough new limits on proposed on industrial air pollution will have their first public hearing by Bay Area Air Pollution Control District directors at 10 a.m. Thursday in district offices, 939 Ellis Street.

The proposed new regulations hammered out during a 15-month battle between the district's advisory council and Bay Area industry, severely reduce existing limits on emissions. If adopted by the board, the new regulations would be the toughest in the nation, according to the district's chief administrative officer, D.J. Callaghan.

Spokesmen for both industry and conservation citizen groups are slated to testify at the hearing, which may run over to Friday.

The board's personnel committee will meet first at 8:30 a.m. to consider appointments to the advisory council under a new state law that requires more members be selected from conservation groups. The full board will convene at 9 a.m. to discuss a long-postponed request from a citizens group to disclose all data on industrial pollution.

Five Drivers Sentenced

Five persons have been sentenced in Marin Court by Judge Alvin H. Goldstein Jr. for drunken driving.

Ray Harold Buckland, 42, of 202 South Street, Sausalito, arrested July 12, 1969, in Sausalito, was placed on probation for two years, fined $250 and sent to jail for five days.

Tauno Victor Sjoblom, 51, of Novato, arrested April 4 in Novato, was placed on probation for one year and fined $250.

Rolland Charles Saunders, 44, of 389 Riviera Drive, San Rafael, arrested Sept. 3 in San Rafael, was placed on probation for six months and fined $100.

Charles Howell Olson Jr., 31, of 44 Meadow Road, Mill Valley, arrested June 6 on Highway 101, was placed on probation for one year and fined $125.

Eleanor Theodora Mole, 48, of 18 Somersel Lane, Mill Valley, arrested May 14 on Sir Francis Drake boulevard, was placed on probation for one year and fined $150.

Cigarette Tax Share Is $3,851

The unincorporated areas of Marin County received $3,815 and of Sonoma County $15,687 as their cigarette tax apportionments for October, the state controller's office has reported.

Tarantino's Living Quarters Approved

Living quarters built behind Tarantino's Restaurant in Bolinas won legal approval yesterday from Ralph D. Cairns, Marin County deputy zoning administrator.

Ludwig Tarantino had built the living quarters without a permit about two years ago as an addition to his restaurant at 32 Main Street.

Cairns approved a use permit for the addition on condition that Tarantino submit plans to the county building inspector and comply with all county codes.

The deputy zoning administrator also:

NEW HOME — Delayed a decision on a request by Terry Sochet of Sausalito for variances to build a home on a 2,500-square-foot lot at 198 Stanford Avenue, Mill Valley. Mrs. Sochet asked for a home with 1,200 square feet of floor space, which Cairns said is too large for the size of the lot.

VARIANCES — Approved a dining room addition for Klaus and Ellen Werner of 20 Corte Dorado, Greenbrae; and construction of a carport roof and screening fence at the home of David E. Geissinger at 151 Homestead Boulevard, Mill Valley. Structures in both cases would intrude slightly into the required setback areas.

Panthers File $10 Million Suit

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — A $10 million damage suit filed by the Black Panther party against the Los Angeles Police Department charging harassment and deprivation of civil rights has been dismissed in federal court.

U.S. District Court Judge A. Andrew Hauk ruled Monday the Panthers "failed to set forth sufficient facts to give the court jurisdiction over the plaintiffs."

Hauk said a new complaint could be filed if new facts were available. The suit stemmed from a raid by police on Panther headquarters here earlier this year that resulted in a two-hour gun battle.

Two Icelandic Stow-Aways Caught, But After The Fun

REYKJAVIK (UPI) — Two youthful Icelandic fishermen apparently wanted some fun American style but were refused entry at a U.S. Air Force base.

Outraged, they stowed away on a flight to New York, slipped past customs, saw the real thing for 12 hours and repeated the performance for the flight home.

They were caught on arrival at Keflavik Airport and were back aboard their boats today to await the decision of the prosecutor.

Manager Gretar Kristjansson of the Icelandic airliner, Loftleidir, said the two, aged 19 and 24, at least would have to pay their fares.

Police did not identify the youths but said they tried last Thursday to enter the U.S. base club at Keflavik to have some fun but were denied admittance.

Angered, they went to nearby Keflavik Airport where they posed as passengers boarding a regular Loftleidir flight to New York. They boarded without tickets or passports, police said.

At Kennedy Airport they slipped out through a construction site without reporting to customs and 12 hours after a tour of Manhattan boarded another Loftleidir jet by slipping in the same way.

Sewer Line Trouble

The Sausalito-Marin City Sanitary District Board and Sausalito city officials will discuss elimination of fresh water infiltration into city sewer lines at a special meeting at 7 p.m. tomorrow at Sausalito City Hall.

Graduate Student Shot In Holdup

SAN JOSE (UPI) — Robert Burgess III, 25, Crystal City, Nev., was fatally shot in a holdup of the Spartan Grocery Store near the San Jose State College campus today.

Burgess was a graduate student at the college and a part time employe at the store.

Corte Madera Council Says Marin Must Fight Air Ads

The Corte Madera Town Council last night turned a sympathetic ear to a Tiburon resident's plea for protective ordinances against what he termed "aerial pollution" in Marin.

"We must stop dead in its tracks an epidemic about to start in Marin," Dr. George Sugarman of 59 East View Avenue. That epidemic, he said, is the upsurge during the last year of aerial advertising in the Bay Area.

Marin has not suffered yet but it will, he warned the councilmen, who agreed unanimously to ask that the topic be placed on the next agenda for the Marin Council of Mayor and Councilmen.

Mayor Edward W. Colthurst, in suggesting the item be forwarded to that county wide body, said it would do little good for municipalities to take a piecemeal approach to outlawing airplane advertising. "We will have to act in concert (with other cities and the county) to stop it before it starts," Colthurst said.

Councilman Byron D. White said he has witnessed large-scale aerial advertising on the East Coast and Southern California. "If Marin doesn't adopt such an ordinance," he said, "and as billboards are removed, advertisers will be turning to that form of advertising."

Sugarman said he had turned to city governments after receiving a cool reception when he approached the county board of supervisors.

The Corte Madera Town Council also:

POSITIONS — Tabled discussion on a Police and Fire Committee report recommending creation of police lieutenant and assistant fire chief positions from existing police sergeant and fire lieutenant positions.

RECREATION FEES — Established a $2 non-resident recreation fee for the town's fee supported winter recreation programs. The fee previously only applied to Larkspur residents. It will go into effect Jan. 1.

LIBRARY — Set Nov. 6 at 2 p.m. for groundbreaking ceremonies for the Corte Madera Library to be located along Meadowsweet Drive.

SCOTT VALLEY — Agreed to send a representative to Mill Valley public hearing on Scott Valley Unit. Four developments adjacent town limits. The representative will insure that Mill Valley is aware Corte Madera has no interest in connecting Sausalito Street to the Scott Valley development. Reason given was the street's narrow passage couldn't handle additional traffic.

ADJOURNMENT — Adjourned to the next regular meeting Nov. 16.

Property Alert Ordinance Plan Before Council

A proposed ordinance to protect purchasers of property in Sausalito by alerting them to any limitation the city has placed on the land or structure will be considered by the Sausalito City Council today at 8 p.m. in city hall.

If the ordinance becomes law, the seller would be required to provide the buyer with a record containing a history of any city actions (such as planning commission decisions) which affect the property in question.

The council will also consider a proposal from the planning commission that the council hear only appeals of planning commission decisions. At present, most items which the commission approves, such as variances and conditional use permits, must still go to the council for final approval.

Dog Licensing Check Starts —Door-To-Door

The Marin County Humane Education Center has started a door-to-door dog licensing check, reminding residents that dogs must have a 1970-71 license and a current rabies vaccination.

Mel Morse, executive director, said the door-to-door program will continue for the next three months. The licensing agents won't be wearing a regular Humane Society officer's uniform, but will be carrying a letter of authorization, Morse said.

All dogs more than 4 months old must be licensed, and the licensing period is from July 1 to Aug. 31, with a $3 late charge if licenses are purchased after Aug. 31.

Residents new to Marin County are allowed 30 days to purchase a dog license.

Manson Team Claims Threat On Witness

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — A key state witness at the Tate murder trial has admitted that police raised the propect she might face the gas chamber or life in prison if she did not tell them all she knew about the slayings.

Dianne Lake, 17, a tiny girl who spent two years with the "Manson family," had been summoned Monday by the prosecution as its final witness in the 21-week-old trial.

Defense attorneys immediately challenged the admissibility of her story and, in a session held outside the presence of the jury, brought out claims that she was appearing under duress and out of fear.

"What did Leslie tell you?" asked Deputy District Attorney Vincent Bugliosi.

"She said she stabbed someone who was already dead and the more she did it, the more fun it was," Miss Lake replied.

The trial was in recess today for the elections.

If Miss Lake is permitted to testify before the jury Wednesday, she may be on the stand much of the day. The state is expected to rest its case once she has concluded her testimony.

At Atascadero Charles (Tex' Watson, a defendant in the Tate-LaiBanca slayings who last Friday was described as insane—"virtually vegetative" — is now sitting up and eating regular meals at Atascadero State Hospital.

Watson, 24, was sent to the mental hospital after three court-appointed psychiatrists convinced Superior Court Judge George Dell the action was necessary to save the man's life.

According to a report given the court, Watson "has become listless, flaccid, he makes no movements, his lips are pursed. It is impossible to spoon-feed him and we are starting to feed him by nasal tube.

"He is virtually vegetative... he is rapidly reverting to a fatal state . . . which could be rapidly fatal."

It also was disclosed that Watson, since his arrival in Los Angeles from Texas Sept. 11, had lost 50 pounds, dropping to a weight of 110 pounds. He is 6-foot-2.

However, L. C. Wayne, Atascadero administrator, said that shortly after his arrival Friday night Watson voluntarlly drank liquid nourishment and continued on the oral, liquid diet Saturday and Sunday.

Giant Licensing Pact Is Signed For A New Engine

DETROIT (UPI) — General Motors Corp. and three other companies have agreed to a $50 million licensing arrangement for a revolutionary new engine which may eventually be used on passenger cars.

GM announced late Monday that the agreement involved itself and the Audi-NSU Auto Union AG and Wankel GMBH, both of West Germany, and Curtiss-Wright Corp. a Woodridge, N. J., aircraft manufacturer.

The Wankel engine covered by the agreement uses rotary pistons instead of the conventional up and down pistons. The engine is compact, lightweight and has 15 moving parts.

GM said the purpose of the licensing arrangement was to facilitate GM's "further intensive research and development studies of the Wankel rotary combustion engine to determine whether it is suitable for GM automotive applications."

A GM spokesman declined to elaborate on possible use of the engine in production line automobiles of the future. At present, the engine cannot meet U. S. pollution emission standards.

Under the arrangement, GM would pay the companies $5 million by the end of this year, $10 million for the first four full years of the agreement and $5 million at the end of the fifth year.

"At the completion of these payments, GM will have the right to manufacture and sell the Wankel rotary combustion engine on a worldwide basis without further payments," the company said.

The giant automaker has the right to cancel the arrangement at the end of a contract year on one day's notice.

San Anselmo Fire Guts Apartment

Fire blamed on a can of hot charcoal briquets burned a wooden deck and gutted the interior of a San Anselmo apartment last night, firemen said.

Tenant Vincent Melovich was away from the apartment at 437 Scenic Avenue at 8:17 p.m. when the fire broke out. The building suffered $5,000 damage and the apartment's contents $1,500 damage, firemen estimated. Water damage to the apartment below was to be estimated later today.

Ship Hijacker Escapes In Cambodia

PHNOM PHEN (UPI) — One of two Americans being held prisoner in Cambodia for the hijacking of the American munitions ship Columbia Eagle last March escaped from custody Thursday, government officials said today.

The officials identified the escapee as Clyde McKay, 26, of San Diego, Calif. They said McKay made his break with Larry Dwayne Humphrey, 23, of Ventura, Calif. Humphrey was identified as a deserter from the American armed forces in Thailand being held for allegedly trying to run guns to the Communists in northern Cambodia.

The other accused hijacker — Alvin Glatowski, 21, of Long Beach, Calif. —told UPI this afternoon the two were probably trying to make contact with Communist forces in Cambodia.

"That's probably where they're heading for — more than likely," Glatowski said.

There was no immediate comment from government or American embassy officials on the five-day-old escape.

Glatowski said he did not accompany the two "because I wasn't aware they were going to leave."

"But it's all right by me. I wish them luck. They have my best wishes," he said.

Military police at the hotel said the two got away from their guards in Phnom Penh's central market.

"They just slipped away, I guess," Glatowski said, smiling.

The three Americans had been under house arrest in a government hotel in downtown Phnom Penh for the past month.

Junior High Is Evacuated; Call On Bomb Threat

After a half-hour search of the school, classes were resumed, police reported.

Earlier, at 9:29 a.m., another bomb threat was made against Novato High School.

A search of the lockers there disclosed a container of pills police suspected to be dangerous drugs. The owner, a 17-year-old girl, was cited to juvenile authorities.

A third harassment of the Novato Unified School District came at 12:49 p.m., when someone turned in a false alarm from the school administration alarm box at 1038 Seventh Street.

Innocent Pleas In Holdup Case

Two Santa Rosa men charged with armed robbery and assault with a deadly weapon stemming from the holdup of a San Rafael pool hall owner on Oct. 9 pleaded innocent yesterday in Marin Superior Court.

A jury trial was set for the week of Nov. 23 for Gilbert Fullam, 25, and John Douglas Renda, 26.

The men were arrested after a chase from San Rafael to the Petaluma-Point Reyes Road where they abandoned their car.

They reportedly held up George Lefevre, owner of Georges' Recreation Parlor, as he got out of his parked car, and grabbed a bag containing $19,000.

They are accused of firing two shots at pursuers as they fled.

Probation, 30 Days Given In Thievery

Judge E. Warren McGuire of Marin Superior Court yesterday placed Gerald Arthur Beaudoin, 18, of Corte Madera, on probation for one year and sent him to jail for 30 days.

Beaudoin had earlier admitted burglarizing a car in San Rafael on April 22.

'PRICE WAR' IS REPORTED AT STATIONS

The price of gasoline at some downtown San Rafael service stations is down as much as four cents a gallon in a somewhat limited price war.

A sign at West End Shell Serivce at 1540 Second Street declares "price war" and prices on both regular and premium gasoline is down four cents to 31.9 and 35.9 cents a gallon.

Several other stations in the area have knocked prices down two or three cents while others have held.

One station operator said the little war has been going on for about a month, and was apparently being done without the backing of the oil companies involved.

Santa Rosan Is Booked For Gnoss Fire

A 20-year-old Santa Rosa youth was booked into Marin County Jail yesterday on a warrant charging him with arson and burglary in the $250,000 fire at Gnoss Field on Oct. 12.

Held in lieu of $37,500 bail was William Phillip Nance. He was to appear in Marin Municipal Court today.

Three other youths charged with burglarizing the airport are in custody in Sonoma County Jail, according to inspectors Bowen Bridges and Marco Melovich of the Marin Sheriff's Department.

They are Wayne Armstrong, 19; Manuel Mosher, 15, and Charles Joseph Molina, 16.

Melovich and Bridges said that the youths apparently went to the airport to steal gasoline.

After breaking the lock on a pump, they discovered they had to go inside the building to release the pump.

Once inside, they stole a tape recorder and a radio, according to the officers. In order to cover fingerprints, the building was then set on fire, officers theorized.

The fire burned a cafe, office and parts department as well as the $150,000 plane rented by cosmetics manufacturer William Penn Patrick and used by Sen. George Murphy in his campaign.

New Trial Date In Quarry Theft

A new trial date of Feb. 8 was set yesterday in Marin Superior Court for Gerald Clair Crane, 18-year-old Larkspur youth accused of burglarizing the Hutchinson Co. quarry in Greenbrae and having 100 pounds of stolen dynamite.

Crane had earlier pleaded guilty to the charges, but was allowed to reenter innocent pleas to two counts of burglary and one possessing explosives.

Judge E. Warren McGuire allowed the youth to change his pleas after probation officers recommended a commitment to the California Youth Authority. There had been an earlier commitment by the district attorney's office that a four-month jail sentence would be recommended if he pleaded guilty.

Vandals Puncture Tire In Novato

Vandals punctured a tire on the auto of Beverly V. Collella of 875 Atherton Avenue, Novato, on Thursday, police said yesterday.

Slashing of the $50 tire occurred in the municipal parking lot at Fifth Avenue and C Street between 8 a.m. and noon, police said.

Memorial To 144 Killed In Dance Hall

ST. LAURENT-DU-PONT, France (UPI)—Several thousand persons crowded into a makeshift funeral chapel in a school gymnasium today for a 20-minute ceremony memorializing 144 youths who died in a flaming dance hall early Sunday.

Weeping parents and relatives crowded around the blonde wood coffins as Labor Minister Joseph Fontanet read a message of condolence from President Georges Pompidou. Hundreds more could not find room in the school of this French Alpine community and followed the service through loudspeakers on the sports field.

Several youths yelled at Fontanet as he left the school that the fire in the "5-7" dance hall was "the fault of the governors and it's the fault of the ministers." The crowd was hushed but Fontanet did not reply.

Parents prepared to take the bodies of teir children home for burial after the ceremony.

Only 110 of the youths had been identified by today and officials said 14 others had been identified tentatively but 18 more remained anonymous. Two other youths who escaped the holocaust died in a hospital Monday.

Controversy over the fire continued to mount as Maoist youths smashed luxury hotel and bank windows in nearby Grenoble and Parliament members in Paris demanded action against officials responsible for the deaths.

Paris newspapers without exception condemned authorities for permitting the dance hall to open without assurance of security measures.

Judge Denies Case's Transfer

Judge Alvin H. Goldstein Jr. of Marin Municipal Court yesterday denied a request by the attorney for an Oakland Teamster that his vandalism case be tried in another county .

The judge ruled that there had not been enough publicity in the Independent-Journal about the arrest of Martin Lewis Frates, 28, to prejudice his case.

Frates is accused of puncturing the tire of a bakery truck which was parked outside Langendorf United Bakeries on Oct. 12.

Teamsters have been coming into Marin County in efforts to halt delivery of goods to I-J advertisers.

A jury trial for Frates was set for March 18 yesterday.

Space On Sonoma Mountain Approved

I-J Special Report

SANTA ROSA — The Sonoma County Board of Supervisors yesterday approved an agreement to rent space to Marin County for a communications system on Sonoma Mountain.

County Administrator David L. Nichols said Marin County will pay $20 per month to rent space at the Sonoma County radio repeater station.

SKI CAPS are more fun than ever this year. Above is "the Huntress," in leather with snuggly lamb-lined side flaps that either tie under the chin or fasten on top. Below is a touch of the wild West for Sierra schussing. It's a waterproof nylon ski hat recalling the days of Annie Oakley. The brim can be worn down or snapped up on the sides.

ACCESSORIES AND COLOR FOR SKI TIME

A Golden Wedding Dinner

The 50th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Neil F. Beggs of Kentfield was celebrated Sunday evening when 75 friends and relatives attended a cocktail party and dinner at Sabella's of Marin hosted by their daughter, Mrs. Robert Silberberg of Greenbrae.

The Beggs were married at St. Raphael's Church in San Rafael following Mr. Beggs' discharge from the Navy. They lived in San Francisco until 1959 when they moved to Marin. After 43 years of service Mr. Beggs retired from the San Francisco Fire Department in 1968.

Rita Abrams Given Award

Author of the recent hit song and recording "Mill Valley," Strawberry Point School teacher Rita Abrams was among women given awards Sunday by the Association for Women's Active Return to Education.

Miss Abrams was given the Minerva Award of the AWARE group Sunday at a ceremony at the University of Southern California. Members of the third grade class at Malibu's Webster School sang Miss Abrams' song about Mill Valley for the program. The Reprise records recording was done by Miss Abrams and the third grade class at Strawberry Point School and has been a hit on the national pop charts.

CLAUDIA JEAN Kendall became the bride of Lt. (j.g.) Michael R. Salewske at Redwood Presbyterian Church in Larkspur. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Philip F. Kendall of San Anselmo and he is the son of Mrs. Alfred W. Salewske of Waukesha, Wis., and the late Mr. Salewske. They will live in Honolulu where the bridegroom is stationed in the Navy.

State P-TA Scholarship Fund

The California Parent-Teacher Association distributing $97,000 to colleges and universities throughout the state in this year's allocation of funds for scholarships for the 1971-72 academic year.

The funds are earmarked for scholarships in the fields of elementary teacher education, secondary teacher education, patient nursing, special education, school librarian, youth corrections, and counseling and guidance.

The allocation is: 96 elementary teacher education scholarships at $500 for a total of $49,000; 50 secondary teacher education at $500 for $25,000; 38 patient nursing at $100 for $3,800; 13 special education at $500 for $6,500; 9 school librarian at $500 for $4,500; 2 youth corrections at $500 for $1,000; and 36 counseling and guidance at $200 for $7,200.

Elementary teacher education scholarships will be awarded by 41 colleges and universities, and the secondary scholarships by 33.. In distributing its funds for scholarships, the California P-TA recognizes only schools that are accredited by the California State Board of Education and the Western Association of Schools and Colleges. The institutions select the scholarship recipients and disburse the funds, with the exception of recipients of the counseling and guidance summer session scholarships and the youth corrections scholarships.

Application forms for counseling and guidance scholarships may be obtained from the California P-TA state office, 930 Georgia Street, Los Angeles 900115, after Dec. 1 and must be returned by April 1, 1971.

Forms for the youth corrections scholarships may be obtained from the California P-TA State Office or the general manager of the California Probation, Parole and Correctional Association, 1220 H Street, Sacramento 95814. The deadline for return is March 31, 1971.

To be eligible for a scholarship, a student must be an upper division or graduate student, except in the case of nursing and of counseling and guidance. For a nursing scholarship the student must have completed the first year of the Association Degree Nursing Program, and for counseling and guidance the student must already be employed half-time or more in school counseling.

Recipients are selected on the basis of financial need and instructor recommendations. In all cases except two this is done by authorized administrators of the colleges and universities. Candidates for the youth corrections and the counseling and guidance scholarships are selected by the California P-TA scholarship

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

Dieter Savors Every Bite Then Doesn't Need To Eat So Much

DEAR HELEN:

In addition to all the rules and exercises for reducing, I have a suggestion that has helped me a lot. When I gulp food down, I find I can eat almost twice as much. Somehow my stomach doesn't get the message to my brain until I'm overstuffed. But if I eat very slowly, I fill up faster, and also I eat less because it's embarrassing to be at the table after everyone else is through. Then too, if you savor every bite, you don't need quite so many. It's wise to choose food that takes extra work or chewing, like cracked crab, artichokes (without butter- sorta tough steak, raw carrots.

DEAR SLIM:

DEAR HELEN:

I feel like a traitor to my generation, but I have to go along with the girl who didn't like rock festivals because they get kids on to drugs. My brother went that route. He's a real mess now.

They call it "acid rock" and we all know a lot of singers and musicians (if you can call them that) are on dope — three even died of overdoses recently. Their songs are full of drug-words, and come-ons, like "A little help from my friends", etc.

Maybe if our taste in music changed they cleaned up the words, and the places where kids get together to hear them, we wouldn't have so many drug problems. — D. W.

DEAR D.:

Feeling like a traitor to my generation, I'm here to say that songs have always played up the forbidden ("Show Me the Way to Go Home" — the Prohibition booze ballad; "Little Brown Jug"; a million laments about illicit love). I doubt their words have much influence on most listeners' actions.

As for drug use by performers: If we banned every artist with a bad habit, we'd lose out ona lot of good stuff. And that goes for actors and writers too. Of six American authors who have won the Nobel Prize for Literature, four were alcoholics and a fifth drank heavily.

Not that I condone drugs or lushing. I'm just saying that most kids are smart enough to appreciate talent but not take on the life-style of the talented. Your brother, D. W., followed his crowd to rock festivals — and he did what the crowd did, not what the music said. He could have got hooked just as easily in a back-lot apartment. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

I read magazines that say "Try this and that and it will add three inches to your bustline." Well, I don't have the money to buy these things. Would they really help?

I'm Miss Pipestem of 1970 — a bustless, hipless flop (only that's not the right word). I eat like a horse, but I still weigh 105 and I'm five feet four.

Are there any exercises that will make me grow in special places, so I'll look like a girl? — FLAT BUSTED.

DEAR FLAT:

Exercise won't add what Nature didn't intend — nor will those advertised bust-builders. But a creamy double malted a day, plus three squares might round you out a bit. If not, what's wrong with padded bras and a changed attitude? Fashion models starve themselves to achieve what you've got naturally. — H.

committee aided by professional people in these fields. Each recipient assumes an obligation following graduation to teach for one year in the public schools of California or to serve for one year in California in his specalized field.

The P-TA scholarship program is financed by the organization's honorary life membership program fund, which since 1927 has also supported its larger student loan program.

The P-TA has allocated $210,000 for student loans during the current year. Student loans are available to high school graduates who are attending an institution of higher learning or are planning to continue into vocational training, community college, college or university. Application forms are available from the state P-TA office.

Students can secure $400 per year for a 2-year period for lower division or junior college work; $600 per year for a 2-year period for upper division; and $800 per year not exceeding four years for graduate work.

Student loans are granted by the student loan committee at its bi-monthly meetings. The loans are interest free and require no co-signer. Over the years only slightly more than one percent of the loans have not been repaid, report the P-TA financial officers.

Sandra Blunt To Be Bride Of B. E. Fairbanks

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Blunt of Petaluma have announced the engagement of their daughter, Sandra Blunt, to Byron Emerson Fairbanks.

Sandra is a graduate of Petaluma High School and attended Bethany Bible College and is employed by the Bank of Marin.

The future bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert M. Fairbanks of San Francisco. He is a graduate of Queen Anne High School in Seattle and Santa Rosa Junior College and Sonoma State College. He is employed with Wells Fargo Bank.

Couple Are Wed Sunday

Iola Zemlicka became the bride of Harold R. Bass Sunday in a ceremony at Usibelli Lodge in Pope Valley.

Judy Dennis of San Rafael was maid of honor, and Christopher Coury of El Paso, Tex., was best man. Guests were ushered to their seats by Jack Otley of Orange.

The couple will live in San Anselmo following a wedding trip to Nevada and Colorado.

Iola is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clive Jay Zemlicka of St. Elena. She was graduated from St. Helena High School and attended College of Marin. She is a student at Marinello School of Beauty. The bride is the sister of Merle Dowling, Denise Corvino and Clive Zemlicka.

Mr. and Mrs. John H. Bass of Thoreau, N.M., are the bridegroom's parents. He was graduated from high school in Gallup, N.M., and attended New Mexico State University. Harold is with the Army Intelligence Corps., stationed in the Presidio. Gaye Bass is his sister.

MISSION San Rafael Arcangel was the setting for the wedding of Diane Van Loo and Albert Naudin. She is the daughter of Maj. and Mrs. W. E. Van Loo of San Rafael. His parents are Mr. and Mrs. Albert Naudin of Daly City. The couple are living in Petaluma.

Audubon Canyon Center Endorsed

The Marin Coupnty Board of Education last night endorsed the concept of constructing an environmental education center at the Audubon Canyon Ranch and committed itself to preliminary planning.

The tentative proposal calls for setting up a nonprofit corporation in cooperation with the Audubon Society, which will operate the center on its land.

Board member Marilyn Crowell explained the center would serve children from throughout the Bay Area and the role of the county schools office would be to provide teachers, educational program and staff services.

The proposed nonprofit corporation would seek grants and private donations for the center.

The board approved spending up to $1,200 to hire Kramer, Miller and Associates of San Francisco as consultants in developing the proposal, stating the corporation and designing fund-raising activity.

Board members James A. Carroll and Arnold Dolcini Jr. dissented, with Carroll objecting to the spending of up to $1,200 for a consultant for "fund raising." Consultant fees, he argued, are to be used "to further education."

Board president Lee C. Richardson appointed Mrs. Crowell and Carroll to an ad hoc steering committee on the proposed project which will include members of the Audubon Canyon Ranch board and representatives of other agencies that become involved.

Progress toward construction of an occupational training shop for handicaped minors at Magnolia School in Lucas Valley was slowed down when the board tabled action on bids for the job until its Nov. 16 meeting.

There was a telegram from Jerry Hawes, vice president of the Lucas Valley Home Owners Association, reminding the board that the association and individual home owners were opposed to the proposed location of the machine shop.

David Sokoloff, of Sokoloff, Hamilton and Blewett, architects for the project, said the location of the building will minimize noise with the area of noise about 145 feet from the nearest homes. "We don't feel it's a detriment to the residential area at all," Sokoloff said.

Richardson said his concern was whether the plans had the "go ahead" from the Marin County Planning Department, not the protests from the residents.

Plans have been made since 1967, and "they've had plenty of time," he said.

The board also heard reports from two county schools staff members serving as interim superintendent at two school districts.

Robert E. Spain, interim superintendent of the Sausalito School District, said the district is now in the profess of "settling down" and "trying to define educational objectives."

One of the immediate concerns is "developing the expertise of teachers in reading skills," he said. There are two teachers in each class on basic subjects, Spain explained.

He also reported the board has changed its policy on dismissals, with the superintendent now dismissing and the board hearing appeals.

Previously, he pointed out, the board approved dismissals and then acted as hearing board afterward, and this was criticized as putting the board in the position of approving action it had previously taken, Spain said.

Stanley H. Friese, acting superintendent of the Reed School District, said during his five months in the district he learned there was "little direct information" to the school districts "about what is available from the county office" in the way of service.

He suggested that the county schools office have a customer survey to determine what kind of service districts want from the county office.

The Marin County Board Of Education Also:

INTERDISTRICT REQUESTS — Denied an application by Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Folson of 351 Olema Road, Apt. 14, Fairfax, to permit their daughter to attend Tamalpais Valley School in the Mill Valley School District, and an application by Mr. and Mrs. Nick Baresin of 39 Bayview Terrace, Strawberry to switch a son and daughter from the Mill Valley School District to the Reed School District. The denial vote in each case was 5-2, with Patrick Pollock and James A. Swenson dissenting.

HIRED — Authorized hiring Borge Berrig, part-time teacher of food services, vocational education, at $4,421 a year; William McConnell, part-time teacher, marine environmental technology, $5,232; Meindert Boon, bus driver, $2.87 an hour; Barbara Hastings, instructional aide, $2.73 an hour, and Ruth Holman, naturalist, $75 a week.

VOCATIONAL EDUCATION — Received a report that $123,704 in federal funds have been approved for a project to educate Mexican-American inmates at San Quentin Prison in vocational skills and provide vocational counseling and job placement.

CONSULTANT — Authorized the hiring of Layne Hackett, physical education teacher and author, as consultant for a workshop on Movement Exploration at Coleman School in San Rafael at 3 p.m. today, at a fee of $50.

GIFT — Accepted as a gift $40 for the hearing handicapped program from Mrs. Bruce Ihlenfeldt of 6 Baja Court, Corte Madera.

NEXT MEETING — Adjourned until 8 p.m. Nov. 16 at Oak View School, 70 Skyview Terrace, San Rafael, for a special session on the program for trainable mentally retarded pupils.

Questionaires With Vet Checks

Annual income questionnaries were mailed out this week with the monthly pension checks that went to Marin County veterans and dependents, the Marin County Veterans Service officer announced today.

James V. Burdick said the questionnaires must be returned to the Veterans Administration by Jan. 15 to insure continuance of checks. This also applies to parents of deceased veterans who receive dependency and indemnity compensation.

Pensions for 1971 will be based on the amount of income received in 1970 and the income anticipated in 1971.

Antismoking Rounds Will Be Continued

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The National Association of Broadcasters reports that a survey by the American Cancer Society has revealed most radio and TV stations will continue to air antismoking messages after Jan. 2 — the date after which cigarette commercials will be banned.

The broadcast group made the statement Monday in asking the Federal Communications Commission to refrain from making stations carry antismoking messages after the ban on commercials begins.

New Salary Schedule For Leaders

The Marin County Board of Education last night adopted a new salary schedule for county schools office administrators, carrying a 6.6 per cent hike in administrative salary costs.

Board member Patrick Pollock explained that some administrators would get as little as a 1.5 per cent pay hike and others as much as 7.4 per cent under the new format.

The salary schedule was approved by a 5-2 vote with board president Lee C. Richardson Jr. and board member James A. Carroll dissenting.

The raises are retroactive to July 1. Pollack said the intent was to have the raises comparable to those given teaching employees in July.

Board member James A. Swenson commented that "very few taxpayers get percentage increases for cost-of-living along the way," and reminded the board of its financial responsibility to taxpayers.

Swenson also pointed out that a percentage increase gives more money to those in the higher salary brackets than to those in the lower brackets.

The salary schedule approved, excluding the superintendent of schools whose salary is set by law, included the following salaries:

Deputy superintendent, $22,523; assistant superintendent, $21,368, department directors, $20,213; program directors, project directors and program coordinators, $17,903 and $18,480.

Program associates, project associates, psychologists and consultants, $15,593, $16,710 and $16,748; outdoor education leader, $14,438 and $15,593, and pre-school coordinator, $13,283.

With the pay hikes, the cost of administrative salaries for 1970-71 will increase from $351,812 to $375,094.

LONDON (UPI) — Princess Anne ran up against some 200 demonstrating "skinheads" — working class youths with shaven heads—when she attended a film premier Monday night.

The princess in a white gown and elbow length gloves had come to see Sir Laurence Olivier's firm of Chekhov's novel, "Three Sisters," and was surprised to see the youths in front of the theater shouting slogans and waving signs.

The demonstration protested the closing of "Bronco Bullfrog," a film about the skinheads which was removed after 18 days to make room for Olivier's movie.

The demonstrators were just as surprised to see the princess when she stepped from her limousine and quickly put down their signs and cheered her.

Three Teen-Agers Caught In Chase

Three teen-age Santa Venetia boys have been booked into Marin Juvenile Hall on suspicion of vehicle theft, sheriff's deputies said yesterday.

Booked were Chris Grupe, 14, of 7 Adrian Way; Edward B. Nelson, 13, of 615 Rosal Way, and Mark G. Williams, 16, of 620 Rosal Way.

After a report Friday that a pickup truck had been stolen from contractor Roland Johnson on San Pedro Road near China Camp, a deputy who saw what appeared to be the vehicle chased it at high speed north on San Pedro Road.

The truck ran off the bay one-half mile south of Bucks Landing, the deputy said, and the youths ran up a hill but stopped after a warning shot was fired.

Mauzy Is Elevated In County Schools Office

The Marin County Board of Education last night appointed Byron W. Mauzy, director of business services, as assistant superintendent in the Marin County Schools Office at a salary of $21,368 a year.

Mauzy who joined the schools office in June 1967, has been an acting deputy superintendent for the past several months while Deputy Supt. Stanley H. Friese has been interim superintendent of the Reed School District.

Mauzy was assistant superintendent in the Del Norte County Schools Office from 1957 to 1965 and served as assistant superintendent of Del Norte County Unified District from 1965-67.

The post had been vacant since Jan. 1, 1969, when Friese, then assistant superintendent, was promoted to deputy superintendent.

Assistant superintendent is third in the chain of command in the schools office.

Mauzy's salary for the 1969-70 school year was $18,900 a year and he was scheduled to get a raise to $20,213, but shortly after that raise was approved, he got the promotion and new salary.

The decision to promote Mauzy came after a closed session of the board.

Earlier, on the recommendation of board member James A. Carroll, who wanted more information, the board had voted 6-1, in open sesison with board member Glen E. Robinson dissenting, to table the matter until its next meeting. They later rescinded that action.

Seven Belvedere Residents Fight Fire District Tax

Paying taxes is enough to make many scream, but when Frederick W. Winn and six of his Belvedere neighbors learned they are to pay 87 cents per $100 assessed valuation more than the rest of the city they leveled their sights at the city council last night.

Winn who lives at 6 San Rafael Avenue told the council the 87-cent tax rate is for the Tiburon Fire Protection District which has not served him since September 1969.

He blamed the city for failure to transfer his property and that of his neighbors from the district when the land was annexed to Belvedere 14 months ago.

He said the oversight will cost him $65 and all seven together will pitch in $400 to $500 to a district that doesn't protect them.

"Why should we be penalized by a mistake made in the office of the City of Belvedere?" he asked in demanding that the city recoup the money.

Accepting the blame, City Mgr. William L. Cavalli said he thought the transfer was automatic, but promised to try to recitfy the error by trying to reclaim the money from the fire district.

The homes are covered by the Belvedere Fire Department, he said. "The firemen know, but the tax collector doesn't," Councilman Thomas S. Price pointed out.

The council resolved to remove the homes from the Tiburon district so they will not be subject to the tax in the 1971-72 fiscal year.

Greenbrae Owners Board Chosen

The Greenbrae Property Owners Association has named five residents to its newly formed architectural design and review board.

Members of the new board are: Samuel Serrano of 133 Bretano Way, Virginia Rogers of 16 Los Cerros Drive, John A. Russel of 8 Manor Road, Richard R. Dresel of 235 North Almenar Drive and Ronald O. Plambeck of 480 Los Cerros Drive.

The new board assumed architectural supervision for Greenbrae yesterday, following a transfer of area maintenance responsibility to the association from the Schultz Building Co.

Acquittal On Draft Evasion

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — Leland Howard Jones of Corte Madera, who argued he was drafted out of order, has been acquitted of draft evasion.

James Bruen of the U.S. Attorney's office here said the judgment was handed down Thursday by Judge Robert F. Jeckham of the U.S. District Court after a defense motion for acquittal went unopposed by the government.

The defense for Jones, who refused induction March 17 in Oakland, was that he was drafted prior to others higher on the eligibility list and would not have been drafted then if called in the proper order according to Bruen.

Michel F. Willey, a San Francisco attorney experienced in such cases, said Jones is probably still eligible for draft into the Army although the previous call was invalidated.

FIRE CALLS

Driver Sets Fire To Save Himself

PALMDALE, Calif. (UPI)— Edward J. Robinson, 18, apparently fell asleep at the wheel of his car Monday and the vehicle plunged off a 100-foot embankment.

Robinson spent the next eight hours trying to crawl up the slope. He couldn't make it.

In desperation, started a brush fire which attracted Los Angeles County Fire Department personnel.

"I just knew I was going to die unless I did something," the injured youth told his rescuers. "After all that time down there, it was nice to know someone cared."

Belvedere Council Denies Variances For Third House

The Belvedere City Council last night turned down a series of variances sought by Henry Mettier to put a third house on his 330 Beach Road lot.

Mettier's was seeking rear yard, side yard and height variances for a new main house and would have needed a variance to change the existing main structure into a guest house, City Atty. Robert F. MacKay said.

The council upheld an Oct. 19 rejection by the planning commission by a 3-1 vote with Councilman Thomas S.Price in favor of delaying action on the matter so the applicant could offer an altered proposal to the planning commission.

Councilman Alan Steinau — who wanted to deny the application, but allow Mettier to reapply within the legal limit of a year — won council approval of a staff study of possible zoning law revisions.

The Belvedere City Council Also:

WOODINGTON — Accepted the resignation effective Dec. 31 of Police Chief William S. Woodington who had been with the police force 14 years. His reason was nagging leg injuries.

CLOSED SESSION — Met in closed session to discuss hiring an interim police chief.

AERIAL ADS — Decided to endorse a Sausalito campaign to convince the board of supervisors to enact anti-aerial advertising legislation, and decided to ask the Marin County Council of Mayors and Councilmen to agendize it for endorsement.

LANDSCAPE STUDY — Approved preparation of plans for the San Rafael Avenue parkway project at a cost not to exceed $1,980 by Berridge, Becker and Julin Inc.

FLOOD CONTROL — Approved of an agreement signed Thursday by Price as mayor pro-tem whereby Belvedere will pay $7,841 towards a $23,522 flood control propect in Tiburon.

LANE — Set Dec. 7 for a hearing on abandoning an unnamed lane at 280, 286, 288 and 290 Beach Road.

FIRE LINE STUDY — Approved $1,500 for a study by Gage-Babcock and Associates for a study of the city's firelines to be completed in 60 days.

STREET ANCHORS — Awarded a contract of $20,860 to Kulchin-Wagner Inc. of South San Francisco to install 39 anchors to keep retaining walls on Beach Road at Bay View and Bella Vista avenues from caving out.

TRAFFIC PATTERN — Approved use of traffic lines and reflectors rather than concrete islands for an experimental traffic arrangement at Cove and Beach roads and on Beach from Cove Road to Main Street until the permanent pattern is determined.

CITY COUNTY GROUP — Approved an amendment of the City-County Planning Council that would define a quorum as the presence of a representative from six cities and the county rather than 13 of the 24 members.

FIRE PLANES — Put over to Dec. 7 action on a request by Long Beach to pass a resolution favoring use of surplus military aircraft for firefighting activities.

ANIMAL CONTROL — Deferred action to Dec. 7 on a Mill Valley proposal to require that all dogs be leashed in commercial areas.

VEHICLE LIVING — Passed an ordinance prohibiting living in vehicles.

ZONING — Introduced an ordinance requiring that lots in R-1 area have a 65-foot frontage and 65-foot average width. Second reading and adoption are set for Dec. 7.

ADJOURNED — Adjourned to a special meeting Nov. 16 at 8 p.m. at city hall to discuss the possibility of joining Tiburon Sanitary District Five.

Missionary Among 19 Killed In Bus

MANILA (UPI)—An American missionary was reported today to be one of 19 persons killed when a bus plunged over a 150-foot cliff in the southwest of Mindanao Island, about 500 miles south of Manila.

The Philippine News Service identified the missionary as Clarence Barnes, 36, of Cagayan de Oro, on the central north coast of Mindanao. It gave no U.S. address for Barnes.

DRAMA REVIEW

Actor James Whitmore's Timing Remarkable As Will Rogers

By JAMES E. WILLIAMS

SAN FRANCISCO — Will Rogers immediately captured his audience last night with his opening statement . . . "you all teach your kids two things up here, love God and hate Los Angeles."

With that, a love feast was created at the Marines' Memorial Theater as gifted actor James Whitmore stepped back into the days of the Ziegfeld Follies, the high-living 1920s and the Great Depression.

GOOD MEDICINE

For it was Will Rogers, the Oklahoma humorist, who helped keep the nation on an even keel with remarks that may have offended a few, but really were good medicine for the entire country.

Whitmore is superb in his characterization of the gum-chewing actor-author. While he does not attempt to recreate the Oklahoma drawl nor a carbon copy of Rogers' slump, the timing is remarkable:

The two-hour production, which has been assembled by Paul Shyre and Eldon Elder, goes by so swiftly, you wish for more as Whitmore entones Rogers' most famous line . . . "I never met a person I didn't like . . ."

The monologue which makes up "Will Rogers' U.S.A." is as timely today as when Rogers was making the remarks — on stage and off.

WASHINGTON JOKES

Of course Rogers was most masterful when he was taking Washington apart with such sage comments as "We've got the best politicians in the country that money can buy." "I'm not a member of any organized party — I'm a Democrat," "I came to the capital to the national joke factory to see what our hired help is doing."

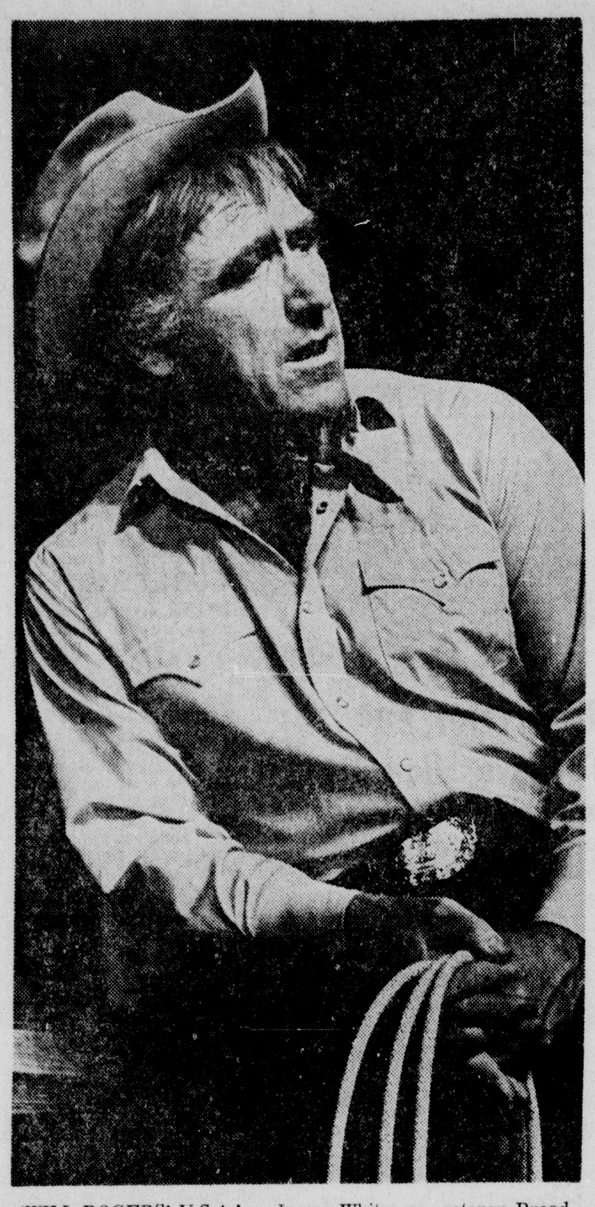
And his scheme for solving his nation's traffic problem is still as good as ever. "No car should be allowed on the road until it is paid for."

The monologue on Calvin Coolidge is some of the most humorous of the evening such as "When Calvin Coolidge was vice president, he done the right thing —he kept his mouth shut." Or, "down in Oklahoma, we'd call him a close chewer and a tight spitter."

Unfortunately Rogers' untimely death in 1935 at Point Barrow, Alaska, on a flight with Wiley Post, cut short his look at life as the nation was coming out of the Great Depression and even into a greater era where he could have found plenty to remark about. But what we have are priceless gems poignant now as then.

DON'T MISS IT

It is a show which should not be missed. Whitmore, or rather Mr. Rogers, will be around through Nov. 28 with performances Monday through Friday at 8:30 p.m.; Wednesdays, 2:30 p.m., and Saturdays, 7 and 10 p.m.



'WILL ROGERS' U.S.A.' — James Whitmore, veteran Broadway and film star, opened last night in a one-man show, "Will Rogers' U.S.A." at the Marines' Memorial Theater in San Francisco. The show will continue through Nov. 28.

Audience Can't See All Of It

LONDON (UPI)—The appearance of five nude dancers in the Dutch Ballet Company's production of "Mutations" at Sadler's Wells brought shouts from the audience Monday night.

But the shouts were not because the audience saw too much of the four men and one woman —they saw too little.

The first 10 minutes of the production were performed on a platform extending into the orchestra and people in the upper balconies shouted, "We can't see you" and started chanting and clapping.

The dancers kept on dancing.

Moderate Housing To Be Discussed

State and federal regulations under which provisions for low and moderate income housing are to be included in community master plans will be discussed at 8 p.m. Nov. 16 at the Marinwood Community Center, Lucas Valley and Miller Creek roads.

The meeting, another in a series on the so-called Housing Element, was called by the Marin County Planning Department.

Teachers Sanction Warning To Novato

The Novato Unified School District trustees last night received warning of sancitions by the Novato Teachers Association and at the same meeting granted classified employees a raise.

The board, with trustees Dan H. Barber and Irving D. Chapman Jr. absent, voted unaminously to give the classified employees a 5 per cent raise retroactive to July 1. It also authorized a $3,500 classified salary study to be made by the state cooperative services.

The increase will cost the district $50,330 for the fiscal year.

The Novato Teachers Association, voting 257 to 48 last week, authorized a sanctions alert against the district, Gregg W. De Gear, association president reported. He said that the association would place sanctions against the district next Monday if the negotiating council has not made some progress in salary negotiations.

Trustee President William G. Schneeflock said that the board has not had anything in writing to indicate such action by the teachers.

The teachers representative council, in a letter signed by John Enders of the council during the meeting, offered to lower its demands from 9 per cent to 8.3 per cent. The district has offered a 6 per cent increase retroactive to July 1.

Enders said that the vote of the teachers represented 70 per cent of the NTA membership of approximately 450.

At the board meeting last week, the teachers made several other demands of the district.

In a prepared statement, Schneeflock said that these demands would cost the district $952,000. He listed: salary increase, $502,000; reading clinics, $77,500; master degree bonus, $13,500; department chairmen, $16,000; reduce English class sizes, $132,000; tuition payments, $13,000 and reduction of student-teacher ratio, $198,000.

The staff did not estimate cost of sabbatical leaves, leaves of absence nor reduction of the teaching day for grades 4, 5, and 6 from 300 to 250 minutes a day, Schneeflock said.

To meet all these demands and keep some reserve, the district has $702,000, Schneeflock said.

De Gear, who left before the meeting, listed the sanctions as teachers refusal to take part in all noncontracted work, district committees and curriculum work, chaperoning, bus duty, noninstructional clerical tasks and other assignments beyond normal teacher assignments.

Approximately 120 teachers voted for a strike, he said.

The board held a closed meeting to discuss further negotiations with the teachers before sanctions are applied to the district.

Birch Society Speaker Slated

A speech by a Russian-born woman, entitled "America is Wonderful," has been scheduled by the John Birch Society's Truth About Civil Turmoil Committee.

The talk by Katharyn Iwanowski will be at 8 p.m. Friday at the Corte Madera Recreation Center, Tamalpais Drive, Corte Madera.

Jaycees To Conduct Bike Safety Labs

The Novato Jaycees were authorized last night by the Novato Unified School District board to conduct four bicycle safety clinics.

The clinics will be held Sunday from 9 a.m. to noon at Novato High Shool and San Marin High School and from 1 p.m. until completed at Lu Sutton and Marion schools.

Robert K. Madgett, Jaycee president, proposed the clinics to be held in cooperation with the Novato police department. Bicycles will be inspected and licensed. Parents should accompany their children and safety pamphlets will be given them, Madgett said.

The Novato Unified School District board also:

MEASLES — Agreed to cooperate with the Marin County Health Department in a Rubella (german measles) immunization program. The times and details of the program will be worked out withthe County Health Department.

TESTING — Heard a report from Jack O. Rothe, director of pupil personnel services, on the testing program planned for the district.

BUSINESS MACHINE — Agreed to purchase for $22,100 with $8,977 credit for rent on the machine in the past two years, a national cash register 400 for the district use. The district has been paying $635 monthly rent. It will buy the machine for $489 for 36 months which includes repair and maintenance to the machine for the three year period.

TEACHER HEARING — Heard that Wyman W. Kunzler, Hill Junior High School mathematics teacher, fired by the district, has asked for a hearing on the charges. The board asked the county counsel to file formal charges. Kunzler was fired in May but in September the Marin Superior Court ordered the district to reinstate him. The district has since revised its charges against him and refired him.

HAFB Squadron Places Second

The 84th Fighter Interceptor Squadron from Hamilton Air Force base placed second in the F-106 competition at the William Tell weapons meet at Tyndall Air Force Base, Fla. with a score of 10,348.

The squadron lost on the last day to the 17th squadron from Malstrom Air Force Base, Mont., which had a score of $12,183.

The 84th Squadron placed first in weapons loading and first in weapons directors.

WILLIAM WARFIELD
To sing tomorrow

Warfield To Sing At Rehearsal

Bass-baritone William Warfield will sing tomorrow in an "open rehearsal" as the third program in San Domenico School's free public artist series.

The performance will be at 2:30 p.m. in Alumnae Hall on the Sleepy Hollow campus. Warfield will be accompanied at the piano by William Duncan Allen, a member of the San Domenico music faculty and musical director of the Junior Bach Festival.

The program will include songs by Haydn, Schumann, Verdi, Rossini, Saint-Saens, Virgil Thompson and spirituals arranged by Hall Johnson.

Warfield has appeared in Marin Music Chest concerts and recitals and with orchestras throughout this country and Europe. He also appeared in films and on Broadway in the role of the cripple in Gershwin's "Porgy and Bess."

Freshman Class To Sell Candy

The freshman class at Sir Francis Drake High School Nov. 12 will begin its door-to-door sale of chocolates to raise funds for the class treasury.

The annual candy sale is a primary source of revenue for the freshman class and in past years has totaled about $1,000. The funds are used for class activities.

Crowd Jams Hearing On Restaurant

Public interest in a proposed restaurant and bar was strong enough in Mill Valley to draw an overflow crowd to city hall last night and force postponement of a scheduled hearing until a large enough hearing hall can be obtained.

About 130 persons jammed the city council chamber to hear the council consider appeals to a use permit granted by the city's planning commission Oct. 13.

Fifty others waited outside, unable to find seats. They had come to speak on the application of Michael Lerner and Philip Needleman to build a 400-seat restaurant with live music at the old Brown's Furniture Store, 38 Miller Avenue.

In the end, the council decided to continue the hearing to Nov. 12 in larger quarters, yet to be selected.

Councilman Jerome C. Hauke moved for continuance after a policeman delivered a note to Mayor George E. Wickham saying that 50 persons outside had asked for a delay.

"Fifty people is a lot," Hauke said. "If it were two or three it would be different."

City Atty. Leland H. Jordan reminded the council that the hearing and decision must be made within 30 days of the filing of the first appeal of the use permit issuance, unless the applicants agreed to a delay.

Applicant Lerner then stood up and said he and his partner would be glad to waive the 30-day limit. "We think the people should be heard," he said.

It was clear that several members of the audience did not approve of the continuance.

"Is it any reason to postpone this hearing because 50 people came late?" asked Dolph F. Jaeger, of 1 Manor Terrace. "In the discussion of the Cambodia action several months ago, no provision was made for those outside." His remarks were applauded.

But the council, on a motion by Hauke, voted 4-0 for the delay.

Councilman Robert H. Andresen did not participate in the discussion or the voting because his law partner, Lawrence A. Mayer, at one time represented Needleman and Lerner.

Mill Valley Earmarks Funds For Slide Study

The Mill Valley City Council last night appropriated up to $3,500 for soils tests of the massive Miller Avenue Slide to provide legal ammunition in its fight for the slide's removal.

With the results of the tests, the city hopes to recover the cost of removing the slide from the owner of the property, Thomas Collison.

The tests by the San Francisco soils engineer firm of Dames and Moore will show, the city hopes, that the slide was caused by failure of Collison's land.

Councilman Jerome C. Hauke said he opposed the appropriation "because I don't think it'll get the slide fixed this winter, if at all."

He said he was "not convinced that we're going to get blood out of a turnip, especially since the turnip's in Spain." Collison now lives in Granada, Spain.

Councilman Jean S. Barnard sought assurances the study would show what the city thought it would.

"What would we do if it proved the city was at fault?" she asked. "Wouldn't it be better to leave it in doubt if that's the case?"

Councilman Robert H. Andresen, however, said it was important to find the truth before proceeding with litigation against Collison.

"If we're going to send the City Atty. (Leland H. Jordan) into battle, we shouldn't give him a toy gun. He needs live ammunition."

Andresen then moved to appropriate the funds. The motion passed, 3-2, with Hauke and Mayor George E. Wickham dissenting. A second motion, to transfer $2,700 from contingencies as partial funding also passed 3-2.

The Mill Valley City Council Also:

CUT — Was told by City Engineer Stanley M. Bala that a cut through Cascade Park for a new sewer line is temporary and ground cover will be restored when the job is complete.

WALL — Awarded a $4,270 contract to Carcano-Velcich Associates of San Rafael for a retaining wall at 400 Ethel Avenue. Bala had estimated the work would cost $4,020.

DRAINAGE — Awarded a $5,890 contract to Ghilotti Brothers of San Rafael for drainage improvements at Monte Vista and Hazel Avenues. Engineer's estimated: $6,700.

BID — Awarded a $6,682 contract to Ghilotti Brothers of San Rafael for drainage improvements on Elm Avenue. Engineer's estimate: $6,891.

SEWER LINE — Approved plans and specifications and called for bids for a sewer main from 12 Ethel Avenue to Throckmorton Avenue.

BICYCLES — Heard a report from City Mgr. William H. Cunningham that Tamalpais High School plans to construct a temporary bicycle storage area in the school's rear parking lot.

DELAY — Continued to its Nov. 16 meeting three public hearings —rezoning of four acres at Miller Avenue and La Goma Street for 68 townhouses; rezoning and master plan approval for 337 apartments on 42 acres at Camino Alto and East Blithedale Avenue; and approval of a plan for a Holiday Inn Motel on Redwood Highway.

EXTENSION — Denied a 10-year extension to a requirement that Jack Martin of 4 Lone Tree Avenue, tie into the city sewer system.

YOUTH — Heard Wickham appoint David Olson, 206 West Blithedale Avenue, to the city's youth commission.

METERS — Agreed to the Chamber of Commerce's request to allow up to two hours free parking at parking meters in the city from Nov. 27 to Dec. 31.

NEXT MEETING — Adjourned to next Tuesday at 8 p.m. at city hall to meet with the planning commission and the county planning staff on the requirement for a housing element to the city's master plan.

Children's Classes In Judo Slated

The classes will meet on Thursdays at 5 and 6 p.m. No class will be held Thanksgiving Day and the sessions will end Dec. 10.

Instruction will be given by the Marin School of Self Defense. Registration may be made at the park and recreation department office at Walnut Park.

SERVING ALL OF MARIN COUNTY

THIRD SECTION — SAN RAFAEL, CALIFORNIA, TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 3, 1970 — 17

THE BALLOT IS SECRET

Nurse Hellen Chandler makes sure that Mrs. Keith Grady of San Rafael has all the privacy of any polling place. Mrs. Grady, new mother of seven-pound, 11-ounce Jennifer Rose, voted today from her bed in Marin General Hospital's Maternity ward. She was one of about 25 patients voting at the hospital. Ballots were picked up from the county elections office by hospital volunteers who were deputized to oversee patient balloting.

A Sympathy March Held At Quentin

A small group of demonstrators marched outside the gates of San Quentin Prison today in sympathy with demands purportedly made by prisoners at Folsom Prison in Sacramento County.

Albert R. Jacobs, San Quentin associate warden, said the first demonstrators appeared shortly after 9 a.m., and there were 21 at 11 a.m.

Many carried signs proclaiming some of the Folsom demands, including union pay and job training for prisoners. Signs also called for prison walls to be torn down, the "Soledad Brothers" freed and "forced racism" ended.

The group, which Jacobs said was apparently from San Francisco State College, was orderly and there was no trouble, he said.

An unsigned flyer distributed on the San Francisco State campus called for a demonstration outside Folsom prison as well as to support prisoner demands.

The flyer said that prisoners in all of the 13 state prisons would begin a strike today, but activity was normal on a holiday schedule at San Quentin, Jacobs said.

Folsom prisoners also carried on normal activities, while a small group of demonstrators marched outside that prison.

Carlton Testifies He Feared Invasion Of I-J Building

I-J Special Report

FAIRFIELD — Lt. James W. Carlton of the San Rafael police testified yesterday that he thought a group of pickets was planning to force its way into the Independent-Journal just prior to an outbreak of violence behind the newspaper plant on Valentine's Day.

Carlton's testimony came in the 10th day of the Solano Superior Court trial of seven men arrested during the riotous Feb. 14 demonstration in support of San Francisco Typographical Union 21. The union struck the I-J Jan. 7.

Carlton told the jury in Judge William E. Jensen's courtroom that he saw a group of pickets engaged in what appeared to be an effort to enter the embattled building.

The lieutenant, jointly in charge of a large police force at the demonstration, said the police guard was promptly strengthened outside the B Street entrance and that the crowd resumed its march around the building when he asked picket captains to get the demonstrators moving.

This incident, he said, came moments before a major disturbance on Julia Street as a car attempted to reach the I-J's circulation truck dock. This and his belief that the pickets had become "agitated" were given by Carlton as his reasons for ordering the demonstrators to disperse when the car was besieged on Julia Street.

He testified earlier in the trial that picketing was peaceful for up to four hours after a window-smashing foray by demonstrators shortly after 8 a.m.

(Although the prosecution concedes picketing was relatively peaceful from about 8:30 a.m. to 12:50 p.m., when the car was encircled on Julia, it seeks to show that there was little for the demonstrators to do after attacking the plant in early morning and that the purpose of the demonstration, called in support of striking printers, was to prevent the I-J from publishing or doing any business that day.)

Carlton, in his final day on the stand yesterday as the prosecution's opening witness, buoyed defense hopes when he told of being informed by two policemen at the scene of the Julia Street melee that there was considerable doubt whether his commands to disperse, given via a powerful loudspeaker atop a building across from the I-J, could be heard.

A tape-recorded diary of Carlton's made during the demonstration was to have been played yesterday, but Judge Jensen agreed with defense contentions that the recording would not add to testimony already given and this should not be heard by the jury.

Arguments between Marin Deputy Dist. Atty. Joshua W. Thomas and defense attorneys continued yesterday over the defense's right to view photographs Thomas intends to offer as evidence, and Judge Jensen said he was considering holding the prosecutor in contempt for not letting the defense see the pictures.

Judge Jensen said he would make a decision tomorrow after reviewing the substance of an earlier order to Thomas surrounding release of the pictures.

The trial, after a day off for Election Day, will resume tomorrow at 9 a.m. Charles Brobeck, a San Rafael police officer who observed the Julia Street disturbance from a rear balcony of the Rafael Theater, is expected to be Thomas's next witness.

Judge Jensen yesterday clarified his earlier ruling in connection with Brobeck's testimony. The defense said yesterday it thought Brobeck should not be permitted to testify in view of the fact it did not receive a copy of Brobeck's police report in advance of the trial, but the judge said his ruling merely restricted the officer's testimony.

Rohnert Park Council Backs Annexation

The Rohnert Park City Council last night approved annexation to the city of 265 acres north of Sonoma State College.

The annexation request, to be forwarded to the Sonoma County Local Agency Formation Commission, was made by Van Logan of Land Investors' Research, Marin County.

City Mgr. Peter M. Callinan said early development of the property is expected, with housing units designed for Sonoma State College students. He said he also is working with land owners for commitments for sites for neighborhood parks, schools, and a large regional park.

Another annexation proposal, including 204 acres south of the college, met with opposition from the council and was withdrawn. The council said it found no need for annexation since no immediate development plans have been made.

The Rohnert Park City Council also:

MOBILE HOMES — Gave preliminary approval to plans of Codding Enterprises to develop a mobile home park on 30 acres on the west side of Highway 101.

SPEED LIMIT — Approved a speed limit of 35 miles per hour for the new section of Southwest Boulevard.

CABLE TV — Noted that Storer Cable Television is offering a special installation price of 99 cents for new customers and asked the firm to make the price permanent. The council also asked the firm to begin cablecasting city council meetings by next March 1, with mutual use of television equipment at Rancho Cotati High School.

HEARING — Adjourned to next Monday at 7 p.m. for a public hearing on an assessment district to widen Snyder Lane.

Plan For Townhouses Back To Committee

A plan for 24 townhouses on Tiburon's Red Hill was sent back to committee last night by the Tiburon Planning Commission because members objected to the massiveness and monotony of the buildings.

Planning Director Wayne E. Moody said the commission felt the two-story structures, which would be built in a row with no side yards, would make a "very bulky project out of scale and character with other developments on Red Hill."

The commission asked its design review board to "try to break up the linearity" of the project, Moody said.

The commission approved a tentative subdivision map for 27 single-family houses on Mount Tiburon. Of 23 acres in the project, the applicant, Irving V. Moulin, would leave 6.8 acres of steep canyon in open space and build a trail system through the subdivision, Moody said.

The commission recommended that the city council amend its zoning ordinance to set permit fees by resolution instead of by the more cumbersome ordinance procedure.

Commissioners also endorsed a resolution setting four new fees: master plan in a planned development zone, $100 plus $5 per acre; precise plan in a planned development zone, $40 plus $5 per $100,000 value; precise plan requiring design review, $40 plus $2 per dwelling unit over two, and permits for dual use of parking spaces, $10.

The Tiburon Planning Commission also:

DESIGN REVIEW — Appointed Commissioners Allan M. Littman and Peter MacGowan to study amendments to the zoning ordinance to require design review of dwellings more than 30 feet in height and to revise height definitions. The committee is to report at the commission's Dec. 7 meeting.

HORSES — Appointed Commissioners Bennett Wren and Charles E. Bassett to study ordinances designating which zones would allow horses and establishing criteria for issuing licenses for horses.

NEXT MEETING — Adjourned to Dec. 7 at 8 p.m. at city hall.

Change In Plea Entered By Inmate

San Quentin inmate John L. Nelson, charged with two felony offenses stemming from his holdinf his wife hostage at knifepoint for three hours on March 15, changed his plea to guilty on one count yesterday and received a concurrent sentence.

The plea change came as Nelson was due to go to trial in Marin Superior Court. When he pleaded guilty to having a home made knife, the second charge of taking his wife hostage was dismissed.

His sentence will run concurrently with the time he is serving for two rape convictions from San Diego County.

In another San Quentin case yesterday, a jury in the Marin Superior Court of Judge Thomas F. Keating found Clarence Jacobs guilty of committing battery on a guard on May 5 at the prison.

Jacobs, who is serving time for an Imperial County burglary, will be sentenced next Tuesday.

Pleads Innocent To Charges

Judy Smith Osborne, 33, of San Francisco, entered innocent pleas in Marin Municipal Court yesterday to felony charges of possessing marijuana, having two driver's licenses and being drunk in public.

A preliminary hearing was set for Dec. 15.

Mrs. Osborne was arrested early in the morning of Oct. 26 in a car found by sheriff's deputies on the wrong side of the road on the Sausalito Lateral.

The driver of the car, Raymond Howell of San Francisco, was arrested on suspicion of drunken driving. Mrs. Osborne reportedly had a pot cigarette in her purse as well as two driver's licenses, two social security cards and two authorizations for food stamps.

Six Facing Dec. 3 Trial Over Fracas

Six persons charged with misdemeanors stemming from a fracas which erupted during a Halloween parade by the San Francisco Mime Troup in Sausalito face trial Dec. 3 in Marin Municipal Court.

Edward Burton Braverman, 22, of Mill Valley, was charged yesterday with defiling an American flag, refusing to leave an unlawful assembly and resisting arrest. Mark Quadlind Kerson, 19, also of Mill Valley, was accused of two counts of battery upon police officers as well as resisting arrest and refusing to leave an unlawful assembly.

Four others were charged only with resisting arrest and refusing to leave an unlawful assembly. They are Samuel French Kerson, 24, of San Francisco, Clifton Harvey Keyes, 25, of Mill Valley, and Marc Estrin, 21, of Mill Valley.

Charles Edward Cox, 23, of no known address, was charged with disturbing the peace and blocking a public thoroughfare.

The fracas started about 2:30 p.m. Saturday when a Sausalito police officer was called to the area in front of the Village Fair Shopping Center where a crowd had gathered to watch the Mime Troupe dancing. The officer said that when he asked the crowd to disperse, the group became hostile.

Jury Trial Set

A jury trial was set yesterday in Marin Superior Court for Robert W. Gilliam, 20, of San Francisco, for the week of Feb. 21. Gilliam is charged with burglarizing a San Rafael model home on July 14, 1968.

Marin Bridge Board Member Will Resign

Joseph E. Sheeks, Marin representative to the Golden Gate Bridge District Board of Directors, announced today he will retire from the board when his term expires on Nov. 20.

"Although I have enjoyed the opportunity for service in this capacity, I feel I cannot afford the time required to do a proper job," he told the Marin County Board of Supervisors.

"It's all a matter of time," said Sheeks, "I just can't make a living and devote adequate time to the bridge board. Sheeks is an attorney with the firm of Bagley, Bianchi and Sheeks of San Rafael.

Supervisors voted a resolution of thanks for Sheeks' two-year stint on the bridge board. He was appointed on Oct. 22, 1968, to fill out the term of Thomas D. Hardcastle. The term ends Nov. 20 this year.

John F. McInnis, chairman of the Marin County Board of Supervisors, asked each supervisor to be thinking of a successor to fill the post left by Sheeks.

Marin County has two other representatives on the bridge board. One is supervisor Michael Wornum and the other is C. Paul Bettini, appointed by the Council of Mayors and Councilmen.

Tiburon Must Finance Bus Service Without Subsidy

If Tiburon wants mid-day bus service continued between Strawberry and downtown Tiburon, the city will have to finance it without further subsidy, the majority of the Marin County Transit District directors declared today.

Marin Transit Systems Inc. of Marin City operates the service with a $4,000 per month subsidy from the transit district.

The mid-day service gets so little patronage that it will have to be abandoned, said Theophus Barron, president of the bus firm.

Transit Director Denis T. Rice, urged that the service be retained, with the City of Tiburon paying $600 per month on condition that mid-day service will be provided free to Tiburon residents, including school children.

"We have other areas, like San Geronimo, West Marin, Bolinas and Stinson which have no service," said Director Louis H. Baar. "If we contribute to every splinter area, we'll defeat our purpose. If Tiburon wants the service, it should pay for it."

Peter R. Arrigoni Jr. noted that other school districts must pay for bus service for children, and said he would oppose subsidizing bus service that would give free rides to children in one locality only.

Kenneth L. Anderson also opposed the subsidy.

Michael Wornum backed Rice, saying he would like to see a free ride system tried in Tiburon, if only to see if patronage can be stimulated.

At Baar's motion, the directors tabled the matter.

Another request for subsidy, by Cecil J. Allen of the San Rafael Richmond Bus Line, also was tabled by the directors.

Felony Charge On Club Possession

James Harold Dineen, 23, of Anaconda, Mont., was arraigned yesterday in Marin Municipal Court on a felony charge of possessing a billy club Saturday in Sausalito.

His case was continued today for entry of plea.

Dineen was stopped to check his auto which was parked off Rodeo Avenue off-ramp. The officer said that the billy club was on the flor of the back seat.

Youth Sentenced To 30 Days Jail Term

Judge E. Warren McGuire of Marin Superior Court yesterday placed Mark Adam Laufer, 19, of Santa Venetia, on probation for two years and sent him to jail for 30 days for his part in the May 29 burglary of Foster's Freeze Drive-In in San Rafael.

Laufer, who earlier pleaded guilty to the burglary, was arrested inside the drive-in along with a 16-year-old juvenile hall escapee. Officers said a third youth escaped.

Suspect Booked On Marijuana

An 18-year-old San Jose man, hitchhiking through Novato, was arrested at 4:49 a.m. today on suspicion of possession of marijuana and dangerous drugs.

Alex Ray Contreras was booked into Marin County Jail with bail not set. He was scheduled to appear this afternoon in Marin Municipal Court.

Novato police reported they questioned Contreras on Highway 101 at Grant Avenue, searched him and found a plastic bag containing four white tablets and vegetable matter thought to be marijuana.

Vandal Stomps On Man's Corvette

A San Rafael man told police that someone stomped on his Chevrolet Corvette in the municipal parking lot at Third and Cijos Streets bewteen 8 and 9:15 p.m. yesterday.

San Rafael police said whoever walked over the car of Jeffrey Snyder of 255 Channing Way, Apt. 8, crushed the fiberglass hood, twisted the radio antenna and scratched paint. Damage was estimated at $100.

Union Labor Publication Raises Voice For Decency

"America has become a strange place. Americans no longer help one another. Instead they demand, 'Give me what I want or else!' Organized labor has been a major contributor to this new attitude of predation, and recently dozens of special interest groups claiming to be 'oppressed minorities' have followed labor's example. The standard approach to solving social problems has become (1) to find someone to blame for the problem and (2) to threaten violence unless the 'guilty party' pays up."

The foregoing quotation is not from the John Birch Society Newsletter. Neither is it from a publication of the U.S. Chamber of Commerce, nor the National Right To Work Committee, nor the Republican Party. It is from a labor union publication, the Musical Voice, published by the Committee To Reform the San Francisco Musicians Union.

The committee, formed last January, is headed by Joe E. Lindenmeier, a Daly City musician who also operates a glass tinting and janitorial service and who is a candidate for president of American Federation of Musicians Local 6 in its election upcoming next month.

THE MUSICAL VOICE makes some very severe charges against the local which Lindenmeier and his committee seek to reform. It lists nine violations of federal law which were found by the U.S. Department of Labor in the local's last election. It charges that the musicians' union's policies keep musicians unemployed while entertainment places turn to "canned" music, and that they bar from membership the rock musicians who have created a recording business that rapidly is becoming a major Bay Area industry.

The committee, in this union publication, claims that if its candidates are elected next month they "will transform Local 6 into . . . an example for the whole community to follow."

They will do this, says the Musical Voice, "by cooperating with musical employers and promoters to an unprecented degree. Local 6 will not bully, badger, threaten, intimidate, or harrass anyone; instead it will bend over backward to assist club owners and musical promoters in presenting live entertainment.

"Local 6 may not be able to single-handedly reverse musical unemployment in the Bay Area, " it goes on, "but it can set an example that the best way to solve America's pressing social problems is through cooperation, not selfish-minded strife. If such an example is not set, and soon, in only a few years America will suffer massive civil strife at the hands of special interest groups,each fighting for a better deal for itself. The result will be anarchy or the imposition of a dictatorship."

WE ARE NOT acquainted with Joe E. Lindenmeier. We do not know what chance he and his fellow candidates have to win a union election. But we agree completely with the analysis presented in the Musical Voice, and with this position, as voiced in its editorial:

"The Committee To Reform the San Francisco Musicians' Union believes that it is better for Americans to cooperate with one another for the common good than to be constantly bullying one another, whether it be via strikes, boycotts, violence, civil disobedience, intimidation, or guerrilla warfare."

"My theories aren't banned by my government — just ignored!"

WASHINGTON WINDOW

Election Post-Mortem To Measure Coattails

By RAYMOND LAHR

First to be checked will be the more than 20 states where President Nixon has openly campaigned and the more than 30 where Vice President Spiro T. Agnew has appeared.

Democratic efforts have been more often limited to single states. But in advance of the elections, Republicans were showing a healthy respect for former Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey's coattail to help fellow Democrats in Minnesota where he is the nominee to return to the Senate.

THERE IS AN old cliche in politics that the president "stakes his prestige" by campaigning for candidates of his party in years in which the presidency is not at stake. There is not much evidence to support the theory that a president is gambling with his political resources by such campaigning.

Dwight D. Eisenhower, a popular president, did some limited campaigning in the 1954 mid-term election year with indifferent results. His party lost control of Congress in 1954 and failed to regain it when Eisenhower won re-election by a landslide in 1956. His popularity just failed to rub off on Republican candidates.

A seasoned student and practitioner of politics, Nixon knows that a President's coattail is notoriously short in these mid-term elections. His was also very short in 1968 when he won the presidency but the Democrats retained control of Congress.

EXCLUDING "non-political" appearances, the President visited 21 states in October. Of these, only North Carolina has a contest for neither a Senate seat nor a governorship. In the others, 20 have Senate contests this year and 14 have elections for both senators and governors.

Along with payment of some political obligations, Nixon was concentrating on the administration's chief political goal of 1970—to gain the seven seats needed to control the Senate next year.

Humphrey has spent the campaign period in Minnesota, running for the seat of retiring Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy. He is expected to win by a margin which may help a Democrat win the governorship now held by a Republican, and Democratic candidates to unseat one or two Republicans in the House.

FORMER PRESIDENT Lyndon B. Johnson has limited his political appearances to Texas, where the GOP is trying to win a Senate seat and the governorship now held by a Democrat. Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, now the strongest prospect for the 1972 Democratic presidential nomination, has stayed in Maine since Oct. 1 to campaign for re-election. Previously he had appeared in 20 states this year and prepared radio or television tapes for candidates in about 10 other states.

Muskie's following is expected to help re-elect one Maine Democratic House member, who might otherwise be vulnerable. But there are doubts that it will save Democratic Gov. Kenneth M. Curtis.

SENATE DEMOCRATIC Whip Edward M. Kennedy, who has said he will not be a candidate for the 1972 presidential nomination, is staying in his home state of Massachusetts as a candidate for re-election. While he is shooting to win by a substantial margin, his strength is not expected to provide much ruboff for the rest of the state Democratic ticket.

Three other Democratic senators, whose terms do not expire this year and who are potential contenders for the presidential nomination, have traveled many miles for political and campaign events this year. Sen. George S. McGovern, S.D., has visited 23 states, Sen. Birch Bayh, Ind., 39, and Sen. Harold E. Hughes, Iowa, 28.

Suit Alleges Discrimination In Financial Firms' Taxation

By HENRY C. MacARTHUR

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — Laws which allegedly foster discrimination against taxpayers are the target in a suit filed in Los Angeles County Superior Court by attorney Jack B. Silver, Beverly Hills, on behalf of Ronald Brooks Cameron, candidate for state controller.

Although the suit apparently has an election gimmick, there remains a vital point which Silver seeks to have cleared up by court action.

The point is that under the provisions of the California constitution, the state legislature is required, when raising taxes of insurance companies, banks and corporations, to secure a two-thirds vote before any taxes on these institutions can be increased.

On the other hand, when the legislature increases taxes on the public, only a majority vote is needed, according to constitutional terms.

SAID SILVER: "This discrimination violates the equal protection laws of the federal Constitution. The effect of this type of voting requirement has been great on the individual taxpayer."

On the face of the situation, it is surprising that the method of increasing the insurance, bank and corporation taxes has not been challenged in the courts before.

Silver says that the tax rates on insurance companies have not been increased since 1932, whereas individual taxpayers' income taxes have increased 143 per cent since 1966. The increase of corporate and bank income taxes during this period was only 34 per cent.

"Within the last four years," said Silver, "individual income tax has been increased five times as rapidly as have taxes on banks and corporations.

"The current ratio is approximately $1.94 individual income tax to $1 paid by banks and corporations."

THE CONTENTION cited in the case would appear to bear out some of the claims made to the effect that insurance companies, banks, and corporations are not paying their fair share for the costs of government in California.

And the proclivity of the federal courts in various actions to end discrimination of various types would appear to indicate that Silver has a point worth arguing.

It will be recalled that federal courts ordered reapportionment of the state on the basis of "one-man, one-vote" in a case that involved the elimination of discrimination. That case was also filed by an attorney named Silvers, but not the same attorney filing the tax case.

Insurance concerns, banks and corporations have enjoyed a privileged status for a good many years, in that it takes more votes to increase their taxes than it does to increase the taxes of the normal taxpayer.

The mere fact that insurance companies and banks maintain powerful lobbies in Sacramento inhances their ability to maintain this privileged status while the ordinary taxpayer whistles in the dark when it comes to influencing legislators.

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Gratitude To Fire, Police Officers

We have always admired the excellent performance by the Tiburon fire and police departments.

Recently we have had a personal experience, a serious accident, where our firemen and police officers responded to an emergency call with greatest possible speed, efficiency and understanding and, with prompt cooperation by the Bay Cities Ambulance Co., Mill Valley, decisively contributed to the happy resolution of an ugly situation.

Please publish our most sincere appreciation, respect and thanks. And remember that their long outstanding record well deserves the encouragement of the best additional commending publicity of which you are so capable.

Water District Headline Misleads

Your headline on the Marin Water District Story last night Oct. 30 is about as misleading and dishonest a one as I've ever seen.

True, the MMWD will be charging 1,000 per cent more for the golf course rental to the Meadow Club. But a thousand times an insignificant amount is still an insignificant amount. The raise in rent brings the monthly rate to less than $700 — an unheard of rental for this kind of property.

A better comparison would be the $250,000 plus that San Francisco makes on its golf course on water district lands. Viewed by this statistic, Marin is getting 3,000 per cent less than it could and should

Tunnel Rainbow 'Un-Beautification'

We have just registered the following complaint with the California Division of Highways:

"As residents of Marin County, we wish to object strongly to your recent 'rainbow' painting of the south end of the Waldo Tunnel. This is a disfiguration of the landscape and an insult to the quiet beauty of the entire county.

"We would hope that the persons responsible for this highway un-beautification would reconsider and restore a more suitable appearance to this publicly owned property. The pastels of Cartoonland should be confined to the Sunday funnies."

Any efforts on your part to improve this regrettable situation would be truly appreciated.

Wrong Identification On School Picture

We appreciate your showing Mrs. (Toshie Liei) Connick and her audience in the Oct. 28 Independent-Journal, but in showing the picture of the girl bowing to Mrs. Connick, you made the mistake of putting Sue Brennan's name down when it was Carolyn Johnson's picture. And another error you made was in spelling Sue Brennan's last name.

You didn't give the boys credit for bringing flowers, also. Both boys and girls brought flowers, because it's a Japanese custom to bring flowers to homes when visiting. The boys didn't like not getting credit for bringing flowers.

Thank you again for the pictures and article. Mrs. Connick is to be commended for her part, also.

Bring Scout Dogs Back From War

G.I.s in Vietnam have made repeated appeals to the Animal Protection Institute, of Sacramento, for help in bringing home their scout dogs, now condemned by an arbitrary "no return" decision of the Defense Department, to be handed over to the Vietnamese army.

The first reason given for not returning the dogs was that they might transmit what is called "bleeders disease." This reason has now been discounted by the surgeon general's office, the disease being transmitted by a tick, already known in Florida.

The second, the problem of rehabilitation, does not bear examination. Thousands of dogs were successfully rehabilitated after World War 2, and the Australian army, in Vietnam, are meeting with no trouble in regard. The API has offered both its services and to find homes for the dogs.

Against the frightful cost of all kinds of weapons of destruction the price of this return, for devoted service, is ludicrously small. Congressman John Moss's bill, HR 19421, which provides for return, or humane disposition, of war dogs, is now referred to the House Armed Services Committee. Letters to the chairman, the Hon. L. Mendel Rivers, to the secretary of defense and to Congressman Moss, would be enormously helpful.

WINDOW ON THE WORLD

Hijacking Minor Worry To Troubled Russ Rulers

By PHIL NEWSOM, UPI Foreign News Analyst

When two laughing young men emerged from a hijacked Russian aircraft and announced they could "no longer live in the stranglehold regime" of the Soviet Union, to the Kremlin it could be no more than a momentary embarrassment.

To be sure, it was the second hijacking to be suffered by the Russians in less than two weeks, and it also was true that until the first pirated aircraft put down its wheels in Turkey, they had taken a detached view of the problem in the belief it could not happen to them.

But so far as the young dissidents were concerned, it was no more than what was happening to the rest of the world, and it need not be published at home.

OF FAR GREATER importance were events inside the Soviet Union. There was a spreading revolt among Russian scientists who long have been above the rules that applied to ordinary men.

When in early 1956 Nikita Khruschev denounced Josef Stalin at the Soviet Communist party's 20th congress, he opened a Pandora's box which the Soviet leadership never since has been able to close.

He cast doubt upon the infallibility of the Communist party, a doubt compounded by his own overthrow in 1964.

Further influencing subsequent events was the character of the collective leadership which followed him, composed of party leader Leonid Brezhnev, Premier Alexei Kosygin and President Nikolai Podgorny, a leadership pledged against a return of one-man rule, its action limited to compromise.

THE DOOR had been opened, and among intellectuals, first the students and writers and more lately the scientists, there arose increasingly outspoken demands for reform. Within the party leadership there was obvious indecision as to how best to deal with it.

Last May, a prominent Russian geneticist, Dr. Zhores Medvedev, was locked up in a mental institution apparently because he protested Russian censorship of international mail and the suspicion with which authorities regarded requests to travel abroad.

The collective leadership had made confinement to mental institutions an effective substitute for Stalin's firing squads.

Among the many who came to Medvedev's defense were two of special note. One was Alexander Solzhenitsyn, to the outside world one of the Soviet Union's greatest writers. Another was Dr. Andrei D. Sakharov, known as the father of the Russian hydrogen bomb and three-time winner of the Soviet Union's highest civilian award, "Hero of Socialist Labor."

UNDER THESE pressures, the regime released Medvedev in June.

Subsequently, Solzhenitsyn has come to new prominence as winner of the 1970 Nobel Prize for Literature. He says he will go to Stockholm to receive it.

As for Sakharov, he and his fellow physicists have received no more punishment than a warning to mind their ideological manners.

But in no case has the last word been spoken.

College Students Look For Help From County Housing Authority

When Sonoma County establishes a housing authority, it's a sure bet that the student body of Sonoma State College will be one of its biggest customers.

The demand for housing has driven rentals sky high around Rohnert Park and Cotati, while it is expected the level of student income will drop this year because of a tight job market.

The majority of Sonoma State students are older than the average college student. At the advanced age of 25 or 26, most students no longer wish to rely on "money from home."

Most students start the fall semester with money left over from summer jobs or military service. When forced to pay up to $240 per month for a two-bedroom apartment, these resources don't last very long.

A RECENT STUDY by two professors at the college showed that 65 per cent of the 3,200-student body rents housing, with about 1,800 living within 15 miles of the campus.

The study documented the tight budgets students must live on. In fact, 73 per cent reported monthly incomes of less than $250.

These economic factors force single students to crowd into the apartments to reduce costs, but leave the many married students desiring privacy to seek out the few low-cost housing units available.

Some of these low-cost units are not much more than renovated chicken coops and yet can eat up half of the student's meager income.

STUDENTS HAVE LONG felt they are at a distinct disadvantage and will, no doubt, welcome a housing authority if it can make decent housing available to them within their means.

The Santa Cruz County Housing Authority found itself in the student housing business because of the increasing enrollment at the University of California there.

While the housing authority will also concern itself with providing low-cost living units for low-income residents, agricultural workers, and elderly persons on fixed incomes, it is hoped the board of supervisors will give representation to the college community.

ART BUCHWALD

Take Week Off, Everybody; You Earned It During Campaign

WASHINGTON — Political campaigns are a very exhausting business, not only for the candidates who run for office, but also for the voters who have to listen to them speak.

Most political candidates, winners as well as losers, take off a week or two to rest up from their physically grueling experience. And they're probably entitled to it.

But what about the person who has been bombarded day and night for the past two months with political commercials, newspaper advertisements, speeches, charges, countercharges, fund appeals, rallies, rhetoric, hyperbole, slogans and dirty pool? No one thinks of him after the election. He is just supposed to pick up where he left off as if nothing happened.

WELL, I'M HAPPY to announce that for the first time in an election year the voter's welfare is being taken into consideration by somebody.

By the powers vested in me as an American citizen, I am giving all those exposed to the 1970 political campaign a week's vacation.

During that week, no one has to read any political story, watch any elected official or loser on television, or discuss with anyone the great political issues that are tearing at the very fabric of our society.

This means that you do not have to watch President Nixon, Vice President Agnew, Democratic Chairman Lawrence O'Brien, Sen William Fulbright or Hubert Humphrey on television for seven days. You can still watch Martha Mitchell if you want to, because most doctors believe that five minutes of seeing Mrs. Mitchell on television is worth a week of sun in the Virgin Islands.

YOU DO NOT have to read any of the political pundits who will explain what happened on election day, nor will you have to study the in-depth analyses by the pollsters as to why the Jewish people voted the way they did in New York, the Italians in Chicago, the Mexicans in Los Angeles, the blacks in Birmingham, Ala., and the WASPS in Grosse Pointe, Mich.

You can forget about the cover stories in Time, Newsweek, and U.S. News and World Report, and you can tune out any radio program that starts, "A recount was demanded in . . ."

For one week you can fish, swim, ski, play golf, read a good fiction book, listen to music and go see an X-rated movie and forget anything that was said during the past two months in the political campaigns. You might as well because the politicians elected to public office are certainly going to forget it as soon as they come back from their vacations.

During the next seven days, take your children to a ball game, your wife to a restaurant, your girl friend away for a weekend. If you're a woman, bake a cake, go to a museum, buy a pair of boots and go away with your boyfriend for a weekend.

You, as a voter, a consumer, a TV watcher, a newspaper reader, have earned this vacation as much as anyone who ran for office. Enjoy your seven-day furlough from politics. Believe me, if I had the power I'd give you more.

National Award For Jim Kean

What Bird Is That? And That?

A bird identification workshop for members and the public will be presented by the Marin Audubon Society at its November meeting in the Ross Elementary School at 8 p.m. Friday.

John Smail, acting director of Point Reyes Bird Observatory, will present an identification lesson on shorebirds of Marin County. Robin Dager will assist.

The workshop will be followed by a field trip to Bolinas Lagoon Nov. 21.

Other events planned for the month by the Audubon Society include:

Monday — A canoe trip on the upper Petaluma River; call Elizabeth Terwilliger in Mill Valley for reservations.

Nov. 11— Family holiday and hike at Steep Ravine Ranch, north of Stinson Beach; from gate of ranch at 10 a.m.

Nov. 16 — Tubbs Island bicycle trip, meeting at 10 a.m. in parking area on Highway 37 east of Tolay Creek bridge.

Nov. 22 — First of the season's Audubon Wildlife Film series, "Hawaii — Paradise of the Pacific" at 7:30 p.m. in Olney Hall, College of Marin. Single admissons or season tickets are still available.

Nov. 23 — Auto caravan to search for Monarch butterflies, leaving the Mill Valley Safeway market parking lot at 10 a.m.

Man, 4 Children Found On Mount Tamalpais

An East Bay man and four children, objects of an all-night search on Mount Tamalpais, were found unharmed about 8 a.m. yesterday.

Sheriff's officers said that Christopher Reuss, 28, his 3-year-old daughter Carla, and Lisa Pair, 12; Bill Pair, 8, and De De White, 9, were reported missing about 9 o'clock Sunday night.

A relative phoned the sheriff's department to report that the five had left Point Richmond about 1 p.m. saying they were going to hike on the mountain.

Their car was found at Rock Springs at about 9:30 p.m. and two deputies, two rangers and two Marin Municipal Water District employees searched the mountain area all night.

The man and the children were found yesterday about one-half mile east of Bart's Retreat on the southwest side of the west peak of the mountain.

It was ont known what town they live in.

Two Cars Burgled In San Rafael

Two auto burglaries were reported by San Rafael police yesterday.

Phillip K. Moessmer of 2 Skyline Road, San Anselmo, told police a man broke into his car Sunday at 9:35 p.m. in the United Market parking lot, 513 Third Street, and removed some parts from the back seat and the bolts holding on the back wheels. Moessmer chased the suspect away, police said, and stoden property was recovered from a nearby auto.

A stereo tape player and tapes valued at $180 were taken between 8 a.m. and 7:45 p.m. Sunday from the car of Brian S. Telford of 31 Gregg Place, Novato, while it was parked at 442 Las Gallinas Avenue, police said.

HERE'S A COMPROMISE!

Looking for a home in a top area, with 3 or 4 bedrooms, 2 baths, a fun family room, utility room, level front and rear patios AND a Bay view? Finding that for this type and quality of home the prices are astronomical? Here's the reason this home can be bought so reasonably — highway noise. Most of the problem has been solved, however, by a wrap-around, glass-enclosed deck. Consider it — a minor annoyance in return for so much quality living. $41,900.

SUMMONS (MARRIAGE)
Case Number 58344

Superior Court of California, County of Marin.

In re the marriage of
and
Respondent: HENRY C. KOCH

To the Respondent:

The petitioner has filed a petition concerning your marriage. You may file a written response within thirty days of the date that this summons is served on you. If you fail to file a written response within such time, your default may be entered and the court may enter a judgment containing injunctive or other orders concerning division of property, spousal support, child custody, child support, attorneys' fees, costs, and such other relief as may be granted by the court.

If you wish to seek the advice of an attorney in this matter, you should do so promptly so that your written response, if any, may be filed on time.

$200,000 Is Offered In Quebec Cases

OTTAWA (UPI)—Rewards of up to $200,000 were announced Monday by the Canadian government for the capture and conviction of Quebec Liberation Front terrorists responsible for the kidnap-murder of Pierre Laporte and the abduction of James Cross.

At the same time, new antiterrorist legislation replacing sweeping powers incorporated in the War Measures Act, put into effect Oct. 16, was introduced in parliament while in London, Scotland Yard issued an alert for six Canadian suspects who may attempt to slip into the country.

Ottawa officials, announcing the rewards, said the maximum amount for a single offer would be $75,000, but the total could go as high as $200,000. A $75,000 reward in the case of Cross, the British diplomat, was offering. Laporte was a Quebec provincial minister.

The government of Prime Minister Pierre Elliott Trudeau reiterated its offer of safe conduct to Cuba for kidnapers of Cross if they released him unharmed.

The major difference in the new legislation introduced and the War Measures Act would be the detention of a person for seven days instead of 21 without charges being laid. The War Measures Act permits the government, if it wishes, to suspend the nation's civil rights. Trudeau invoked provisions of the act when Laport was killed.

A Scotland Yard spokesman in London identified the six suspects believed ready to make an entry attempt as Paul Rose, his brother, Jacques Rose, Bernard Lortie, Francois Simard, Marc Charborneau and Jacques Lanctot.

Canadian Solicitor General George McIlrath told parliament in Ottawa Monday Paul Rose had been under surviellance at the time of the kidnapings, but had evaded arrest before the War Measures act was invoked.

Peale Sees Nixon As 'Our Greatest Positive Thinker'

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Norman Vincent Peale, who wrote a best-seller on the subject, feels Richard M. Nixon is "the greatest positive thinker of our times."

The 72-year-old clergyman was in town Monday to talk to a convention of motel owners.

Dr. Peale, who presided at the wedding of Julie Nixon and David Eisenhower two years ago, said Nixon personified the positive thinker because of his comeback from political oblivion.

He also had kind words for Spiro T. Agnew, Ronald Reagan, George Murphy and James L. Buckley, Conservative Party Senate candidate from New York.

Dr. Peale described himself as a "conservative," but not a "hawk," but he begged off a lengthy discussion of politics.

A Fight Over Too Much Work

NEW CASTLE, Australia (UPI) — Leborer Vincent Renshaw pleaded guilty today to assaulting a fellow worker for working as hard as three or four men.

The court was told Renshaw saw John Ozdovy loading two bags of wheat at a time on a truck instead of one and after exchanging words "Renshaw punched Ozdovy a number of times about the head and body," police said.

Renshaw's attorney told the court his client lost his temper because Ozdovy was doing work normally done by three or four men.

Kentfield Composer To Release Album

A young Kentfield composer, whose group the Tamalpais Exchange is now playing at New York's Bitter End night club, will soon realease his second album.

Michael Knight, son of Mr. and Mrs. James G. Knight of 67 Francis Avenue, is in Florida recording the new album following distribution last month of his first titled "Tamalpais Exchange," his father reported yesterday.

The first album features music from the off-Broadway rock musical of the same name which was composed by Knight and had a five-week run last winter, Knight said.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Saturday Night Palsy Brings Paralysis To Extremities

Van Dellen

Pressure on a nerve or artery is the main cause of numbness and tingling of an extremity. In most instances, the discomfort awakens the individual, and the sensation disappears with a change in position. When pressure on a nerve lasts 30 or more minutes, sleep palsy occurs. The involved extremity is not only numb, but cannot be lifted because of weakness or paralysis.

A person must be dead tired to develop sleep palsy, and some victims admit drinking too much before retiring. Saturday night palsy is a more serious form of the disease. The drunk falls asleep with his arm hanging over the back of the chair and the head resting on his arm. This causes considerable pressure on the nerves and blood vessels in the armpit.

MANY MIDDLE-AGED persons are awakened at night by a "pins and needles" sensation in both arms (acroparesthesia). This condition is due to pressure on the nerves of the neck. The tingling is noted in both arms and comes on regardless of what position the extremity is in.

Numbness, tingling, burning, aching or pain may develop when the neck muscles press upon that artery that delivers blood to the arm. This is more apt to occur when the arm is held over the head, especially when sleeping. In this position, certain muscles and tendons cross over the blood vessels and cut off the circulation.

THERE HAVE been reports of gangrene developing in the tips of the fingers from sleeping with the hands above the head. The pulse at the wrist is strong when the arms are held at the sides of the body but disappears when the hands are held above the head. The remedy: the spouse should tie the victim's hands to the sides of the body on going to bed.

(Questions on medical topics will be answered by mail if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request to the Independent-Journal.)

ALBUMIN

REPLY

Other kidney tests will be needed to determine whether the albumin in the urine is caused by disease or represents an innocent finding. Now and then the albumin appears only after reclining but disappears on being up and about. Send stamped, self-addressed envelope for our leaflet on albuminuria.

SHINGLES NOT FATAL

A.G. writes: Is there any truth in the old saying that if shingles goes clear around the waistline, it's the end?

REPLY

No, but there is a grain of truth in the misconception. Shingles usually attacks a nerve on one side of the body. However, exceptions occur in people who are extremely ill, debilitated or dying of cancer. These individuals have very little resistance and may develop shingles on both sides of the body. Should they succumb, the original disease and not the shingles should be blamed.

WARTS AND BARE FEET

S. writes: Several girls in our high school class dance in bare feet on wooden floors. Warts developed on the bottom of one girl's feet and her physician blames barefoot dancing. Is this possible?

REPLY

Yes, because some warts are caused by viruses, which are contagious. They develop in minor injuries or scratches when walking or dancing barefooted.

Today's Health Hint — Colds may be lessened by maintaining resistance.

Trial Set For Prison Guard On Gun Threat Count

San Quentin guard William B. Endres, 41, of San Rafael, has been arraigned in Marin Municipal Court on a charge of exhibiting a firearm in a rude and threatening manner in a Sausalito restaurant.

Endres pleaded innocent to the misdeamor and a jury trial has been set for March 25.

The officer was arrested Wednesday evening after an employee of the Valhalla Restaurant called police saying Endres had been waving and pointing the gun at her.

Police said they saw Endres hiding behind a archway near a door to the restaurant. The officers said he ran into the restaurant when he saw them and was arrested sitting at the bar with the gun lying on the bar.

The gun was loaded, police said.

Four Marinites Join Air Force

Four Marin youths, including a girl, enlisted in the Air Force lost month, T/Sgt. Bennie Montoya, Air Force recruiter for Marin County, has reported.

Trial Set For 3 In Burglary

A jury trial was set yesterday for Jan. 1 in Marin Superior Court for four Marin City youths charged with burglarizing an Almonte residence on Dec. 1, 1969.

Due to stand trial are Terry Lee Grinner, Robert Ward, Ralph Wayne Howard and Harold Cook, all 18 at the time of the arrest.

The youth's were arrested after sheriff's deputies staked out the house which had been burglarized earlier in the day. The four were nabbed when they came back to the house, apparently to pick up hidden loot.

Hearing Is Slated In Marijuana Case

The case of Paul Edward LeClair, 19, of San Anselmo, charged with possessing marijuana Sept. 26 in San Anselmo, was not accepted by juvenile court because he is already on adult probation.

A preliminary hearing has been set for Dec. 8 in Marin Municipal Court.

Self-Defense In Thoresen Death Case

FRESNO, Calif. (UPI)—Attorneys for Louise Thoresen will attempt to convince the jury that she killed her millionaire gun collector husband in self-defense — even though she might have been able to flee instead.

That was the line of defense which emerged Monday during jury selection in the trial of the widow of William E. Thoresen III, whose bullet-riddled body was found in a bed at their Fresno home amid crates containing machineguns, grenades, other weapons and munitions.

The prosecution waived the death penalty Monday after defense attorney Kenneth Devaney indicated that Mrs. Thoresen will claim she shot her husband in self-defense.

Mrs. Thoresen, 34, slender and long-haired, sat quietly in a two-piece blue suit with mini-skirt as attorneys questioned prospective jurors.

Defense attorneys James Shepard and Devaney asked all prospective jurors whether they agreed that person has a right to defend himself without first trying to escape.

"If the court instructed you that a person is not required to try to escape before defending himself, and the evidence showed Mrs. Thoresen had a reasonable opportunity to retreat, will you be able to follow that instruction?" Shepard asked.

Out of a panel of 60 possible jurors, the defense and prosecution interviewed 20 Monday and nine of these were excused.

More prospective jurors were to be questioned today.

Thoresen, the heir to a Chicago steel fortune, was shot five times in the back with a .38-caliber pistol June 10.

The weapon was one of hundreds found in the house by officers who said the place "looked like a warehouse" with crates full of machineguns, mortars, land mines, grenades, handguns and explosives. Fifty pounds of marijuana were also found.

In 1969 Thoresen and his wife were both convicted of hoarding 77 tons of weapons and munitions in the San Francisco area in 1967. A review of that ruling had been ordered the day before Thoresen was shot.

50 Children Die From Drug

NEW DELHI (UPI)—Police reported today at least 50 children have died since Sunday morning in three Punjab towns after being given a poisonous drug by the son of an unlicensed doctor.

Police said the drug responsible for the deaths was given to 35 children of Moga and to 48 children in surrounding areas.

Physicians said the children apparently died of strychanine poisoning.

The 22-year-old son of a homeopathic medical practitioner, who was practising without a license, was arrested and charged with causing death due to negligence.

Judge Critical From Burns

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—A Stockton judge is in critical condition at a San Francisco hospital today because of burns suffered in an eastern San Joaquin County hunting lodge.

Judge Robert Sullivan of San Joaquin County Superior Court suffered third-degree burns over 40 per cent of his body Sunday when a lodge stove exploded.

The accident apparently happened when Sullivan poured lighter fluid into a stove he believed was cold. Embers set off the blast and fire.

THE PUBLIC PAYROLL

Outlay In Novato Schools

The Independent-Journal today continues publication of public payrolls in Marin, listing wages and salaries now paid in the Novato Unified School District.

The following payments are subject to upward revision, however. The district board has offered teachers a 6 per cent raise, but the teachers have rejected that, insisting upon a 9 per cent raise.

Nonteaching personnel have requested an unspecified cost-of-living increase.

Any raises granted would be retroactive to July 1.

Marin's Best-seller on current events

You can learn a lot that's not in the books from your daily I-J. Unlike a text, it presents the texture of living events . . . the here and now of history drawn from the most exciting library — the world itself.

Each day, hundreds of news stories and articles bring you the mental stimulation of WHAT HAPPENED, where, how and why. Combined, they bring you perspective; they help you form judgements, enable you to act in an informed manner on public affairs.

With the I-J you're not merely "taking the paper," you're subscribing to a liberal education provided you read and think. All yours at a price which even includes personal delivery to your door.

TELEVISION REVIEW

Series Touches Raw Nerve In Canada

By RICK DU BROW

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—"Relevance" is the aim of many American video shows this season. But it's unlikely NBC-TV expected its current two-part episode of the "Ironside" series, which uses a plot device that involves Canadian terrorists, to be as edgily topical as it is.

The program, which concludes with this Thursday's episode, has been postponed in Canada because of the recent tense events in that nation surrounding terrorists and the separatist movement.

Spokesmen for NBC-TV and Universal Studios, which produces the series, said they understood originally the postponement would be for several weeks, but concede it is a matter of judgment for Canadian television, which must gauge the taste from its own vantage point.

Of the postponement in Canada, Cy Chermak, executive producer of "Ironside," says: "I think they are absolutely right."

Actually, many Canadian viewers, including those in Montreal, saw the first episode on American channels received there. According to a newsman colleague north of the border, the show "has caused a fair stir in Canada," and is "uncomfortably — for Montrealers—realistic."

The two-parter is not so much relevant — that is, significant socially—as it is just topical. It is, in fact, a throwback to the ancient and much-practiced movie device of combining mystery and romance against a background of social upheaval. The accident in this case was that the real upheaval suddenly made nasty headlines.

In the two-parter, a theft is part of the focus. And Capt. Ironside (Raymond Burr), a law enforcement expert, is in Montreal to attend a meeting of criminologists. A delegate to the meeting was killed outside the hotel in the explosion of a mailbox. And an 18-year-old boy, member of a terrorist group, was arrested in connection with the crime. The boy's mother appealed to Ironside for help, and it turned out she was Ironside's old flame. Thus the touch of romance.

Ironside and others at the meeting decided the death was more likely related to the theft than a politically-motivated slaying. Thus the touch of mystery. In the second part, says NBC-TV, the death is widely attributed to political motives. There is dissent within the terrorist group about the planned bombing of a parade; the boy's girlfriend tries to prevent him from getting involved. The Montreal police must guard against a parade incident and also solve the delegate's murder.

The script, said Chermak, was written more than a yeor ago, and the principal photography was finished in July. He said the writer, Sandy Stern, "wanted to tell a love story and a mystery against the background of the separatist movement." Almost all the show was shot at Universal. Only some airport exteriors and the St. Jean Baptiste parade were filmed in Canada. And none of the series stars went north for this.

Said an NBC-TV spokesman: "We feel the separatist part of the show is only peripheral. The program was reviewed several times by our standards people as developments occurred in Canada, and each time we felt the show was not in bad taste."

Hearings Set On Tax Help For Ecology

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — Hearings on taxation as a means to control the environment will be held Thursday and Friday in San Francisco by the Assembly Revenue and Taxation Committee.

Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael, chairman of the committee, said the hearings will compare the effectiveness of various tax incentives with added taxes "for those who are destroying our environment."

The hearings will be from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. in Room 30, 170 Fell Street.

The hearings, from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. on both days, will be held Thursday in the Golden Gate Bridge District's toll plaza offices and Friday in the Board of Education Hearing Room, Room 30, 170 Fell Street.

Testifying on Thursday will be former Marin County Supervisor Ernest N. Kettenhofen of San Anselmo and representatives of the State Water Resources Board, State Air Resources Board, Sierra Club and Anti-Litter League.

Three Teen-Agers Injured In Two Auto Accidents

Three San Rafael teen-agers were injured Sunday in two traffic accidents in San Rafael, police reported yesterday.

Donna Lynn Nelson, 16, of 620 B Street was treated at Marin General Hospital for cuts on the chin and left leg and a fractured nose. Her car hit a brickwall during a U-turn on Oakdale Avenue near Mountain View at 1:58 a.m., police said.

A companion, Leslie Lynne Mitchell, 14, of 1476 Lincoln Avenue was admitted to the hospital for back strain and multiple bruises. She was released today, according to a hospital spokesman.

Scott Pfeiffer, 15, of 27 Archangel Way, was treated at Marin General at 2 p.m. for a cut left knee and bruises on the left elbow and hand. The hospital said he was involved in a motorcycle accident in San Rafael, but police had no record of the accident today.

Tonight, the outcome of some of the most hard-fought Senate races in years could dramatically change America's political course.

And possibly her destiny.

For a new way to look at these—and many other crucial races throughout the nation, watch ABC News.

It's an informal and exciting way to find out about the candidates, the parties and their political fates. Like sitting in your living room and having a spirited go-around with your most intelligent friends.

With 75 years combined experience in reporting politics, ABC Anchormen Frank Reynolds and Howard K. Smith and National Affairs Editor Bill Lawrence will untangle the complex issues, analyze shifting political power and waning charisma from ABC News election headquarters in New York.

Backing them will be a superb team of ABC newsmen with up-to-the-minute developments from major campaign headquarters around the country.

A vast army of 98,000 News Election Service specialists will relay the latest tallies from the country at large. And more than 5000 vote reporters will monitor the voting in trend-setting key precincts.

Twice every hour, you'll get a full report on local elections.

There are sure to be surprises, too, as the tension mounts and ABC newsmen and cameras catch candidates in their less formal, more human moments.

So watch the elections tonight on ABC News.

It's the most exciting drama on television. And the most important.

San Rafael Favored In Prep Game Of Year

By DAVID EINSTEIN

The San Rafael High School Bulldogs, an awesome aggregation with lightning speed, will be four-point favorites to dethrone the defending champion Terra Linda Trojans Friday night when the teams meet for the Marin County Athletic League football championship at San Rafael High School.

A standing-room-only crowd of near 4,000 will watch the league's only undefeated teams square off in what should be a tremendously dramatic game, coming as it does on the second to last week of the 1970 season.

Both teams have mementum. The Trojans, winners of four straight MCAL crowns under coach Don Lucas, have not lost in league play since the final game of 1968. This year they have won five straight league games, and can finish another perfect season by defeating the Bulldogs.

San Rafael's momentum is not as extensive, but lately it has been spectacular. With coach Bob Muster at the helm, the Bulldogs have stormed to four straight league wins, the last three of them by shutouts. In addition, they lead the league in offense, averaging 20 points a game.

Physically, the teams are quite different although their styles of play are similar. San Rafael is a tremendously fast club, but not overly big. Terra Linda has good size, but lacks depth.

Offensively, the Bulldogs are definitely superior. They have Scott Duncan, the league's best running back, to give them an explosive outside attack, and halfback Dave Urquhart and fullback Mark Farrar to supply the inside running game.

The Trojans can almost match Duncan with tailback Matt Bowman, a quick step artist who like Duncan has racked up two straight 100-yard performances. Bowman has been the key for the Trojans this year; if he does well, the team does well.

But if the Bulldogs put the clamps to him, Lucas better take a quick course in magic, because Terra Linda's passing attack is barely adequate. Quarterback Larry Kerr has been effective, but most of his passes have been swings and screens, and a fast team like San Rafael can usually stop those.

The Trojans have two above average receivers in Bill Sherbert and Bill LaHaye, but neither is blessed with speed, so their patterns are always short.

San Rafael's passing game has seldom been tested this year, since the Bulldogs have moved so efficiently on the ground. But Dirk Gansloser has one of the best arms in the MCAL, and one of the fastest ends to throw to in Duke Besser.

Defensively, the Bulldogs have been fantastic, and speed here again is the reason. Doug Diego, Doug Puskar and Bill Lechner are as agile as any linemen in the league, and the backfield, which includes Duncan, Urquhart, Craig Hecht and Dan Meredith, is so fast it can stop most running plays before they reach the secondary.

Terra Linda's defensive unit is big and fierce, typified by Kerr, a middle linebacker who doesn't care much for opposing runners. The Trojan line, with standout tackles Bruce Little and Ed Alvesk has successfully shelved almont every running attack it has encountered this year.

But the Trojans have not been invulnerable. Their secondary, since the loss of star safety John Buckley early in the season, has been shakey, and can be thrown against. And while they have been brutal against the inside run, they have been beaten on the outside.

Here are the odds. Give San Rafael six points for a superior running game, two for quarterback Gansloser and three for their defensive secondary. Give Terra Linda a touchlown because they are the defending champions, and honor always counts.

Net result — San Rafael by four.

BLUE'S TASK

Dick Butkus Is His Foe

By RALPH CHATOIAN

Forrest Blue is a handsome young man who has the unenviable job of going out and bumping heads with Dick Butkus next Sunday afternoon.

And he looks about as worried as a lawyer preparing a case. Blue, when he's not attending law school at University of Florida in the off-season, plays center for the high-flying San Francisco 49ers.

LUNCHEON

He told the Marin County chapter of the 49er Goal Rushers Club about his thoughts on the subject of Butkus and the Chicago Bears yesterday at the group's weekly luncheon at the Holiday Inn, Terra Linda.

In the violent world of pro football, the middle linebacker is the blocking target of the center. Butkus, that charming young man who smashes out of your television for that anti-freeze commercial, will be the target for Blue next Sunday when the 49ers take on the Bears in Chicago.

CRY A LITTLE

"I'll probably cry a little at night," he deadpanned. Then on a more serious note, said, "Against a guy like Butkus, you just have to go out and outphysical him." Translation: Hit harder.

He said it's always tough to play the Bears in their own den of Wrigley Field, saying there's a world of difference playing before your own fans and on the road. "Especially Chicago. Those fans are something else."

It was a jovial mood at the meeting, since the 49ers are atop the standings in the Western Division of the National Conference at the halfway point in the campaign. Blue said key games remaining for the 49ers are against the Los Angeles Rams and Detroit Lions, and added, "We know we have to beat the Rams to win the division, but we're really out to win all seven of the games we have left."

GAME BALL

Blue said 49er linebacker Frank Nunley was awarded the game ball by his teammates following Sunday's 26-10 victory over the Green Bay Packers.

"We felt anybody who could intercept two passes with a cast on his hand deserved it," he said about Nunley who had suffered a broken hand the week before against Denver.

About 49er rookie Bruce Taylor's 70-yard return of an intercepted pass Sunday, Blue called it "unbelievable." Said Blue: "He must have been hit by seven people but he just kept going. That's the kind of a player he is, a true No. 1 draft choice."

Blue, a No. 1 draft pick for the 49ers himself (1968), admitted San Francisco hasn't generated much offense the past couple of games and lauded the defense for holding them up.

GOSSETT

One of the main parts of the 49er offense the last two weeks has been Bruce Gossett, the talented kicker who has kicked four field goals in each of the last two victories.

"He's a great fellow, very conscientious and full of confidence. I don't think we got hurt by that trade do you?" he said as understatement about the off-season trade that sent defensive back Kermit Alexander to the Rams for Gossett. Applause by the Goal Rushers.

Also honored by the Goal Rushers yesterday were high school all-star football players Scott Duncan of San Rafael and Clifford Hall of Tamalpais.

Knicks Give S.F. Basketball Lesson

Warriors Soundly Whipped

The San Francisco Warriors, playing miserable defense and handling the ball like the hot end of a branding iron, succumbed to the hard working New York Knicks Monday night 111-99 at the Oakland Coliseum Arena.

OUTCLASSED

New York thoroughly outclassed the Warriors. Detensive wizard Walt Frazier and teammates Bill Bradley and Dick Barnett led a persistent full court press which helped force a remarkable total of 34 San Francisco turnovers.

The Warriors committed 19 of their ball control errors in the first half to help the National Basketball Association champion Knicks mount a 61-51 lead at intermission.

Frazier and Cazzie Russell each bagged six points during a 16-4 spree in the first 5:47 of the third quarter to give New York a 77-55 lead and put the game out of reach. San Francisco was able to stay relatively close only because of a good shooting display in the first, second and fourth quarters.

27 POINTS

Frazier fiinshed with 27 points, nine rebounds, eight assists and numerous steals. He made 10 of 17 field goal attempts and converted all seven free throw tries. Russell wound up with 22 points and Dave Stallworth with 17.

Consistent forward Jerry Lucas was the lone bright spot for the Warriors, who fell to 3-6 and two games behind in the Pacific Division. Lucas led San Francisco in points with 20 and in rebounds with 18.

San Francisco shot just 25 percent from the floor to pile up only 18 points in the third quarter and seal the victory for New York. The Knicks maintained a 2 1-2 game bulge in the Atlantic Division with a 10-2 record.

BELOW PAR

Willis Reed of New York and rival pivot Nate Thurmond of the Warriors both played far below their capabilities. Reed hit only two of 14 field goal attempts and Thurmond connected on just one of 11. Each played around 35 minutes, with Reed grabbing 13 rebounds and Thurmond 15.

The Warriors next swing into action Wednesday night at the San Francisco Cow Palace against the Baltimore Bullets.

Refs Were Right In Kansas City

NEW YORK (UPI) — A National Football League spokesman said Monday that the official in Sunday's controversial Kansas City-Oakland game made the proper call "under the framework of the rule as it now stands."

The referee, Bob Finley, ruled that the penalties on Ben Davidson of Oakland and Otis Taylor of Kansas City occurred on a "continuous action" play so they were offsetting penalties that resulted in nullification of Len Dawson's scramble from the Oakland 48 to the 29 with a minute remaining.

The result was that Kansas City was moved back to a third-and-11 situation on the 48 and was forced to punt after failing to make the first down. Oakland then took over on its own 20 with 46 seconds remaining and drove to the Kansas City 41 with eight seconds left. George Blanda then booted a 48-yard field goal to tie the game 17-17.

REF MOVED BALL

Much of the confusion resulted because the referee moved the ball to the Oakland 14 after calling the penalty on Davidson, who piled on Dawson after the quarterback completed his scramble.

But Taylor took his own retaliation against Davidson. Taylor slugged the Oakland defensive end to start a brawl that emptied both benches and resulted in the ejection of Taylor. The Chiefs also were assessed a penalty for a personal foul.

Kansas City argued that the play had ended once Dawson gained the first down on the 29, and that the Chiefs should still have a first down after the penalties on Davidson and Dawson were assessed.

NFL'S OPINION

However, the NFL spokesman said that, "the play had not been blown dead" when Davidson piled into Dawson and Taylor retaliated.

He said, "the films seem to indicate that Dawson was not tackled but fell over his own man. But it doesn't make any difference because the whistle hadn't blown."

The spokesman said that Finley moved the ball to the 14 because he wasn't aware of the penalty on Taylor at that point.

He said there was a long delay because the refs explained the action to the coaches and then they had to check with the press box to find out where the ball was on the 48 because the first down sticks had already been moved.

"It's the officials' job to see that the game is played under the rules and that's what they did," the spokesman said.

Quarry's Offer To Pay Denied By Commission

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Heavyweight Jerry Quarry's attempt to lift his suspension in California by payment of a $1,000 fine was rebuffed today by the California Athletic Commission pending a hearing.

Still recuperating from an eye cut that brought about his third-round defeat by Cassius Clay in Atlanta, Quarry told a news conference Monday he hoped to get into good standing in California by payment of the fine.

The fine was levied against Quarry for his failure to go through with a bout in Los Angeles against Mac Foster last May, meeting him in New York instead.

Athletic commission chairman Robert Voigt said payment of the fine would not automatically take Quarry off suspension because when he was fined the fighter was given until Sept. 30 to make payment.

"Quarry also was suspended for failure to abide by a valid order of the commission and he still remains on suspension until a hearing is held and the commission learns why he failed to pay the fine in time," Voight said.

The boxer said he was anxious to get back into good standing in California in order to act as a second for his brother, Mike, a rising young fighter.

Quarry said he was anxious to meet Clay again and felt he could beat him in a second meeting. The Bellflower, Calif., boxer said his attorney, Paul Caruso, had been in touch with Clay about the possibility of a return match and the undefeated heavyweight indicated he might consider the proposal but only after Clay had met champion Joe Frazier.

"Many of you thought I called this conference to announce my retirement," Quarry said. "I'm not going to retire. I feel I can beat Clay. I felt in the fight I could beat him.

"Aside from the cut over my left eye, he didn't hurt me and I'm going to work for a rematch.

"The three rounds at Atlanta didn't prove anything. I hurt him in that fight. He knows it and I know it. I honestly feel if it had gone four or five more rounds I would have won."

Quarry said the cut over his eye, which required 15 stitches to close, was opened by a right hand blow and Clay caught it again with another right and then bumped the cut with his head.

STEELERS WHIP BENGALS

Hanratty Gets Job Done, Bradshaw Admits Defeat

PITTSBURGH (UPI)—Terry Hanratty has his job back today as quarterback of the Pittsburgh Steelers—with an unusual concession of defeat from rookie Terry Bradshaw.

"I know one thing, I don't deserve to start any more," Bradshaw said. "I think Terry earned that right. I should be sitting on the bench."

Bradshaw, the Steelers' glamour boy, the No. 1 draft choice who took Pittsburgh by storm during the exhibition games, admitted he was dejected with himself after Hanratty came off the bench in the second half Monday night to lead the Steelers to a 21-10 victory over the Cincinnati Bengals.

UNHAPPY

"I feel like the Steelers just aren't getting their money's worth from me," Bradshaw said. "I'm very unhappy and I don't mind telling you. I don't like playing bad football."

Pittsburgh's victory in the nationally-televised game moved it within a game of the lead in the Central Division of the American Football Conference, But Hanratty refused to concede that he would start next Sunday against the New York Jets.

"I hope so, but I'm just playing it by ear," he said. "I'm not going to commit myself." Steelers' Coach Chuck Noll, also non-commital as usual, said "We haven't made the decision yet on who will be the starting quarterback and we won't until later in the week."

OBVIOUS

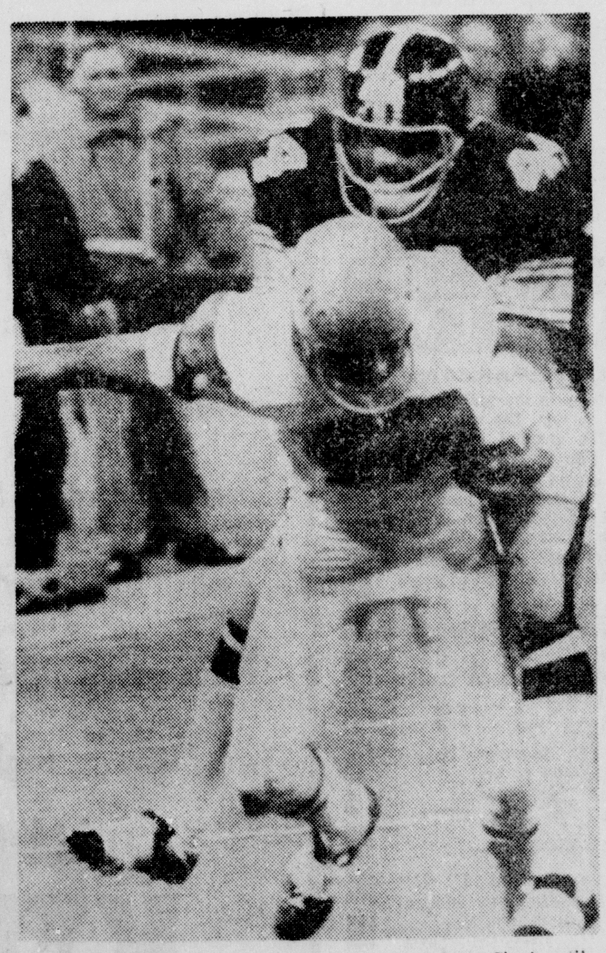
Still, it is obvious that Hanratty must be No. 1.

With the Steelers' attack going nowhere in a hurry, he came in midway through the third period. Early in the fourth quarter he threw a 72-yard touchdown pass to Dennis Hughes and then drove the team 52 yards for a clinching 2-yard touchdown run by Warren Bankston.

"We just put a few things together in the second half," Hanratty said.

The former Notre Dame All-American said "it's something you can't put your finger on,"

See STEELERS, page 30



NO YOU DON'T — After taking a long pass from Cincinnati's Virgil Carter, Eric Crabtree was hauled down on the one yard line by Lee Calland of the Steelers in the first quarter last night in Pittsburgh. The Bengals scored shortly afterwards, but lost the game, 21 - 10. (UPI Telephoto)

Pac-8 Offense Award To Washington Soph

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Sophomore Greg Collins, a reserve quarterback who kept Washington's faint Rose Bowl hopes stirring, has been chosen Pacific-8 offensive player of the week by conference officials.

Collins guided an 18-point final quarter last Saturday for a 25-23 comeback win over Oregon.

FISH AND GAME

Mail Piles Up During Vacation

By AL GIDDINGS

Being out of the country for a month has caused a pileup of my mail. Lots of fish and game events and happenings. Let's try to catch up with things in the outdoor world.

Chuker and quail season opened last Saturday. Chuker, introduced from the Himalayan foothills in the 1930s, has become well established in most arid regions of the state, but remains somewhat under hunted in California. The top chuker counties in 1969 were Kern, San Bernardino, Inyo and Lassen.

MARY AND I took a ride to Lassen County for chukers, quail and cottontails over the weekend. Upon arrival in the lava rock areas, we ran into car trouble — no transmission fluid in the transmission. The car just stopped. We gave the hunting a go, getting five quail, and one cottontail and missing six chukers.

The car had us worried, so we started back, barely making the highway, and stopping completely six miles from Litchfield in Lassen County. But then came a Highway Patrol man. Yep, an old friend, Charlie Heart, who left Marin about a year ago. He got us to Litchfield, then took us home for lunch, and invited us for a quail hunt. We planned to meet Charlie the next morning for a chuker hunt, but after leaving his place Saturday evening, we headed back to the chuker area. There we hit a rock and the muffler came off. We wired it up, but put off the chuker hunt. On the way back to Litchfield, a jack rabbit — one of the million in the area, ran under the car and knocked the muffler off completely. That was it!

IT'S A NEW high four-wheel drive station wagon from now on. We're in the market! The chukers? They live on the highest, rockiest, driest mountain that you can see East of Highway 395. You can hike up, but it's generally about six miles to the top, and that's where the chukers are! They really hold, hide under rocks, and can run fasster than a road runner. The four-wheel drivers did the best, naturally; they went to the mountain tops. The limit on chuker is six, and they are considered a delicacy.

Shooting for ducks on the public shooting areas has been excellent, with opening day averages being four birds per hunter. Six more state and federal areas opened this past weekend. The waterfowl population survey taken Oct. 14, showed approximately 4 million birds now in California. Two million of these were sprig. Sprig have been the dominating bird in most hunters' bag to date. A storm will really put the birds in the local areas, as two million ducks and one-half million geese were tallied at Tule Lake and Lower Klamath.

JACKSNIPE season opens Nov. 14 this year state wide through Jan. 17. The limit was set at eight per day, sixteen in posssession.

Black Sea Brant opens Nov. 21 through Feb. 21, with a limit of four set per day, eight in possession.

Six lakes in the California central coastal region received trout plants last week. Lakes planted were Upper Blue Lake, Lake County; Lake Merced in San Francisco; Phoenix and Lagunitas in Marin County; Del Valle Lake in Alameda County, and LaFayette Reservior in Contra Costa County.

DR. EPHRAIM KAHN, a public health physician heading the checks on mercury in striped bass has said that mercury has been found in striped bass weighing more than four pounds. Pregnant women, according to Dr. Kahn, should avoid eating the fish at this time. Mercury has been deposited in the rivers which empty into San Francisco Bay. California has more mercury mines than any other state. Until five years ago, the mercury was used in industrial plants of the area, and it was used in Sierra Gold mining operations. This has stopped, but the residue is still here, Dr. Kahn explains. It won't get worse, but nothing can be done at the moment.

STEELERS

but Bradshaw put his finger on it.

"Terry just played a fabulous game," he said. "We needed it —we needed that spark. It was there all the time, we just needed someone to come in and do it, and I'm glad he did.

DESERVES IT

"It's obvious he deserves to start, he really and truly does. Every time he's come in this year, he's done a great job. The coach might get mad at me for saying that, but he does deserve to start."

Hughes, a rookie tight end from Georgia who signed with the Steelers as a free agent, also scored their first touchdown on a 27-yard pass from halfback Dick Hoak in the second period.

The Bengals led 10-7 before Hanratty got hot, scoring on Virgil Carter's 2-yard pass to Eric Crabtree and a 43-yard field goal by Horst Muhlmann.

Hughes, Pittsburgh's leading receiver, was not the primary target on either of his touchdowns, particularly Hanratty's bomb which put the Steelers ahead to stay.

It was a desperation, third down and 14 pass by Hanratty who was chased out of the pocket almost to the sideline when he unloaded.

"I always dreamed of throwing something like that," Hanratty said. "I saw Hughes just at the last second when someone was chasing me toward the sideline and I didn't know how accurate my throw would be.

TOUGH PASS

"It was a tough pass to throw, but I knew I didn't have anything else—it was either throw it or take the loss, and then it would be fourth down."

Hanratty completed 7 of 11 passes for 128 yards while Bradshaw hit on only 4 of 12 for 40 yards. The Steelers also were aided by the punting of Bobby Walden, who averaged 54 yards in six kicks and repeatedly put the Bengals in a hole.

Car Crash Kills Veteran Newsman

MOUNT PLEASANT, N.Y. (UPI)—Steve Smilanich, veteran United Press International newsman and assistant sports editor, was killed early today in a two-car collision on the Taconic State Parkway near here, police said.

Smilanich, 42, of Yorktown Heights, N.Y., was killed when his car collided with one driven by Richard E. Kwasnik, 30, of Peekskill, N.Y. Kwasnik was not injured in the accident which occurred about 12:40 a.m.

Kwasnik was charged with driving while intoxicated, police said, and was released on $100 bail. Police said Kwasnik's car apparently crossed the dividing line on the parkway and sideswiped Smilanich's car. Both men were alone at the time of the accident.

Esposito At Record NHL Pace

NEW YORK (UPI)—Phil Esposito of the Boston Bruins is running well ahead of the pace he set when he established a National Hockey League single season scoring record in 1968-69.

The talented center picked up three assists in Boston's 6-0 shutout of the New York Rangers last Saturday night and now has 19 points in just nine games for an early lead in the NHL scoring race. Two years ago when he set the record with 126 points he had only eight points in his first nine games.

LEADERS

The Bruins, who are 7-1-1 and in first place in the East Division, boast the league's top three scorers. John McKenzie of the Bruins is second with 16 points and teammate Ken Hodge is third with 14 points. Esposito is tops in assists with 12 and Montreal's Yvan Cournoyer, currently on the injured list with a broken foot, leads in goals with 10.

49er Johnson To Be Ready For Bears

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Jim Johnson took some punishment while helping set up San Francisco's initial touchdown in a 26-10 victory over Green Bay.

Johnson made a key block to spring cornerback Bruce Taylor on a 70-yard interception return which led to the 49ers' first TD. Johnson made the mistake of slicing down big Green Bay guard Gale Gillingham and now Jimmy has a sore shoulder from the effort.

"Frankly, I'm not feeling so hot. My shoulder hurts," Johnson told a boosters club meeting Monday. "The block was okay, but the big man fell on my shoulder. That moose must have weighed 250."

Johnson figures he'll be back in the starting lineup Sunday when the Niners face the Bears in Chicago. Middle linebacker Frank Nunley suffered a slight muscle pull against the Packers but did not leave the field. He, too, should be ready for the Bears.

The Niners have a half game lead in the National Conference West, an unusual position for a club known for years as a "loser." Running back Ken Willard said following the Green Bay game that there's no trace of defeatism among the 1970 49ers.

"We used to lose so much around here, we began to think we were snakebitten," Willard said. "But no one's beating us. We go out and win each week. When we get behind in a game, nobody worries. While we're in the process of convincing others, we're convincing ourselves, too."

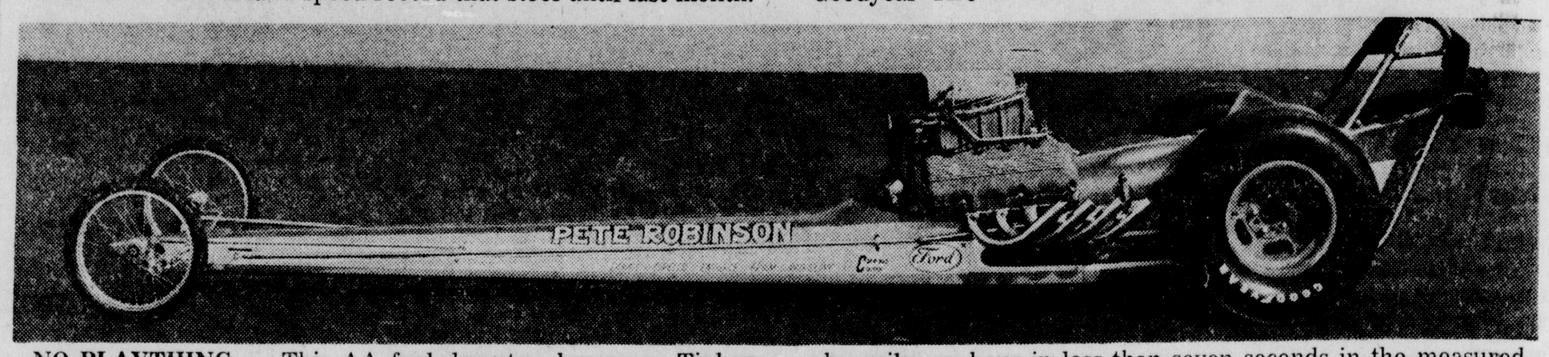
HOTTEST OF HOT ONES — The Spirit of America — Sonic I blasted over the Bonneville Salt Flats at 600.601 miles per hour to set a new world land speed record that stool until last month. The jet-powered vehicle is one of five of the fastest machines on wheels that will be in San Rafael Nov. 9, 10 and 11 on the Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co.'s "Meet the Hot Ones" tour.



NO PLAYTHING — This AA fuel dragster, known as Tinker Toy, is anything but a toy. It has been driven to speeds of 225-plus miles an hour in less than seven seconds in the measured quarter mile. Tinker Toy is part of Goodyear's "Hot Ones" exhibit.

Hot Machines To Be On Display

Five of the fastest machines on wheels, including the car that held the world land speed record from 1965 until early last month, came to San Rafael next Monday on the Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co.'s nationwide "Meet the Hot Ones" road tour.

The free exhibit, housed in two huge vans, will be held for three days at Marin Tire and Brake, 666 Irwin Street.

The hottest of the hot ones will be the 34-foot Spirit of America-Sonic I, a needle-nosed, turbojet powered vehicle that Craig Breedlove drove to a world land speed record of 600.61 miles per hour on the Bonneville Salt Flats. That record ntood until Oct. 23, when the Blue Flame covered the measured mile in 622.4 mph.

The other cars in the exhibit include a Dodge Charger-Daytona, a McCluskey Lola, an AA fuel dragster called "Tinker Toy" and an All American Eagle rear engine Indianapolis-type vehicle.

The Charger-Daytona, a new edition to the "Hot Ones" tour, is similar to one driven to victory by Bobby Issac in the 500-mile Grand National stock car race at Texas International Speedway in 1969. That same year, a Charger-Daytona set a world close-course speed record of 199.987 mph at Talladega, Ala.

Sports car fans will enjoy inspecting Roger McCluskey's Lola-chassis T-70 Mark III, a group seven car of the type sanctioned by the SCCA for the Canadian-American Challenge Cup series. The group seven cars are among the fastest racing cars in the world due to their lightweight construction and unlimited engine displacement.

The Tinker Toy is anything but a toy. This car, known popularly as a "rail," has ripped through the quarter mile at 225-plus mph in less than seven seconds. It runs on a combination of fuels including nitromethane and alcohol.

The All-American Eagle is similar to one driven by Bobby Unser when he won the 1968 Indianapolis 500.

Last year, the "Hot Ones" exhibit drew an estimated 150,000 people in 52 U.S. cities.

Stanford Needs Win Over Huskies To Insure Roses

OAKLAND (UPI)—Stanford's unblemished record in the Pacific-8 Conference doesn't faze coach John Ralston. He still worries.

Ralston's Indians, led by NCAA career total offense record holder Jim Plunkett, are on top of the Pac-8 with a 5-0 record. But losses to Washington and California could drop Stanford into a season ending tie for first place with any of four darkhorse aspirants to the title.

However, a win over Washington next Saturday would give the Indians their first Rose Bowl trip in 18 years.

HUSKIES TOUGHEST

"They have a lot of momentum. Their offensive line is the biggest in the conference and they have an excellent defensive secondary."

Stanford's Plunkett will be firing into a secondary which is statistically the best in the league. The Huskies have allowed five touchdowns all season and an average of 166 passing yards per game. Plunkett has fired 12 scoring passes and has averaged 248 yards through the air each game.

Now 2-2, the Huskies came from behind last weekend to upset Oregon 25-23. As improbable as it may seem, the victory has coach Jim Owens smelling a chance at the Rose Bowl. He spoke to the football writers by phone from Seattle.

STANFORD BIGGEST

"Stanford is the biggest game for us right now," Owens said. "We're still mathematically in it. We felt the same way before we played Oregon. Our club is playing well."

California coach Ray Willsey will be rooting for the Huskies. If Washington can surprise Stanford and Cal can get past Oregon State, then the traditional Cal-Stanford "Big Game" at the end of the season will be bigger than ever.

"It's a very interesting conference race," Willsey said. "If we are to survive, we have to beat Oregon State."

While pondering the possibilities of next weekend's games, the writers took time Monday to recognize outstanding Northern California performers from last Saturday's contests.

TWO FOR CAL

California placekicker Randy Wersching was named offensive player of the week and teammate O. Z. White, a lineman, was chosen the top defender. Wersching booted a 46-yard field goal in Cal's 13-10 upset of Southern Cal.

In the college division, Tony Martin of San Francisco State was given the offensive award after lofting a pair of field goals in a 20-20 tie with Sonoma State. Linebacker Rich Churchward of Hayward State was acclaimed for his 15 tackles in a 14-12 defeat of Sacramento State.

Bengtson Not One To Give Any Alibis

In the legendary nine years Vince Lombardi coached the Green Bay Packers the ywon five National Football League championships and the first two Super Bowl games ever played.

Only once during Lombardi's reign did the Packers finish as low as third in their divison. That was n 1959, Lombardi's first year at Green Bay, after the Packers finished in the cellar with a 1-10 record in 1958.

WHEN LOMBARDI dictated the choice of Phil Bengtson as his successor in 1968, Bengtson was the first to put himself on the spot by saying that anything less than another championship would constitute an unsuccessful season as far as he was concerned.

In 1968 the Packers finished third. They were third again in 1969. And when they left Kezar Stadium Sunday after their 26-10 loss to the 49ers, they once again were third in their division.

Of the 22 first string Packers who won successive NFL championships in 1965-66-67 and the first two Super Bowl games in January of 1967-68, many are now gone. When Bengtson took over, 11 of the Packer veterans were 30 or older.

BENGTSON IS the kind of man who never would point out such an obvious fact. If he ever alibied in his life there is no record of it.

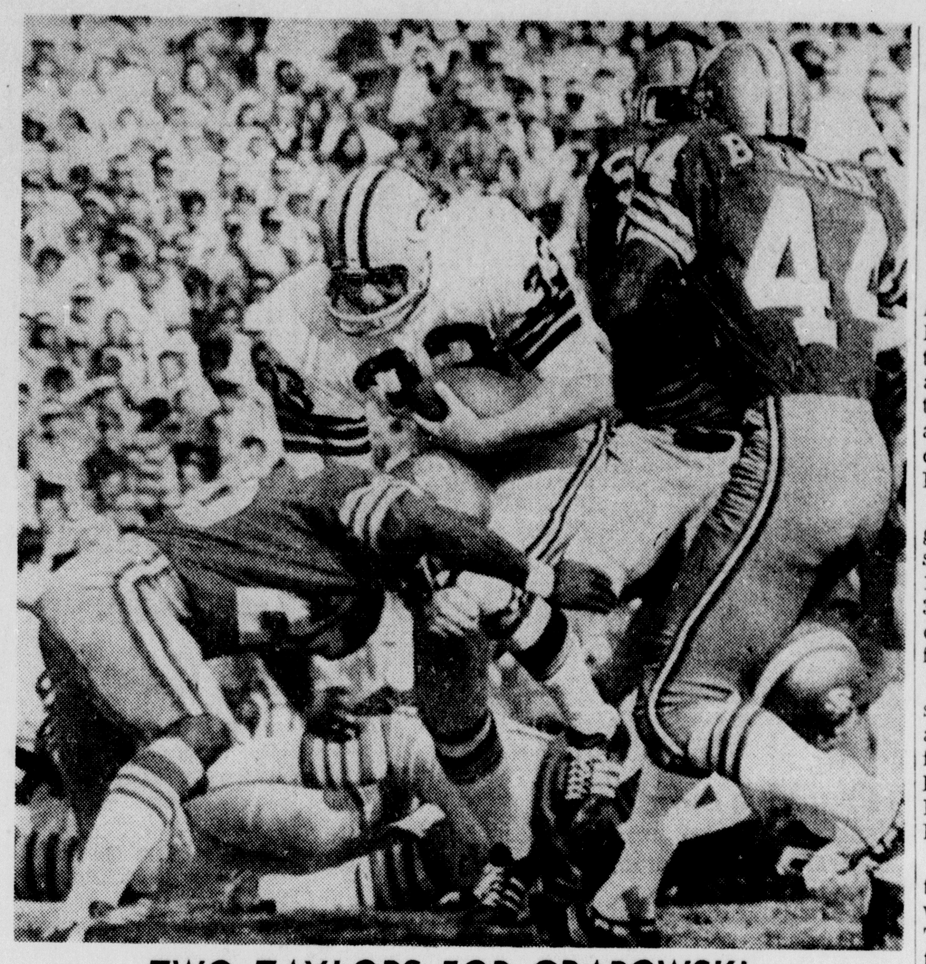
Because he is a quiet man who has never been known to raise his voice to a player, some think he isn't a strict team disciplinarian. Packers subjected to Bengtson's defensive drills during the years he was Lombardi's defensive coach scoff at that.

Bengtson, a 6-4 tackle at University of Minnesota in the '30s when the Gophers went undefeated for three straight seasons, personally knows just how much a body can take. Thus, when Henry Jordan one day asked Bengtson what it would cost him to knock off from an unusually long drill, Bengtson said softly: "Only your reputation, Henry." The 6-3, 250, Packer tackle tore back into action after that quiet reprimand.

SO THE disciplinary standard at Green Bay hasn't changed since the legendary Lombardi era, just the method of maintaining it. Bengtson never could use Lombardi's shouting technique no more than Lombardi could conduct a drill without raising his voice at least once.

Trying to follow a legend of nine years is a most difficult job, perhaps an impossible one. Nobody in pro football envied Bengtson when he was put on the spot in 1968. As he said then, anything less than another championship would be an unsuccessful season for the Packers. Now it would appear the Packers are headed for another unsuccessful season — no championship — but the final chapters of the 1970 season still are to be written.

Bengtson's friends hope they will make happy reading for him.



TWO TAYLORS FOR GRABOWSKI

San Francisco 49er safety Roosevelt Taylor put the stopper on Green Bay's Jim Grabowski during Sunday's game in Kezar Stadium, and Bruce Taylor (44) came up to help out. The 49e defense led the charge in the 26-10 victory. (UPI Telephoto)

Alcindor Leads NBA In Scoring

NEW YORK (UPI) — Lew Alcindor, star center of the Milwaukee Bucks, remains both the most accurate marksman and the most prolific scorer in the National Basketball Association today in latest statistics compiled by the Elias Sports Bureau.

The figures, which include games played through Nov. 1, show that Alcindor has scored 194 points in six games for a 32.3 average and has connected on 77 of 123 field goal attempts for a .626 percentage.

Lou Hudson of Atlanta ranks second in scoring with a 29.4 average in seven games, followed by John Havlicek of Boston with 28.1, Jerry West of Los Angeles with 27.4 and Elvin Hayes of San Diego with 26.8.

Big Ten Football Draws The Crowds

NEW YORK (UPI) — Last Saturday's top 10 college football games attracted crowds totalling 650,543 with the Ohio State-Northwestern clash at Columbus, Ohio leading the way with an attendance of 86,673.

Two other Big Ten games, Michigan at Wisconsin (72,389) and Illinois at Purdue (67,747) were second and third respectively, in terms of crowd attraction while the Southwest Conference clash between Texas and Southern Methodist (66,413) was fourth.

SPORTS SHORTS

Sabres Pick Up Seals' Reject

OAKLAND (UPI) — Winger Paul Andrea has been waived by the California Goleen Seals of the National Hockey League and picked up by the expansion Buffalo Sabres.

The Seals drafted Andrea from Vancouver last June. Andrea had scored 44 goals for the Canucks. He tallied just one for the Seals in 10 games.

The Bay Area team next plays the New York Rangers Wednesday night in the Oakland Coliseum Arena. The Seals avoided a loss to the Rangers for the first time in four years by gaining a tie earlier this season.

Bowling

ST. LOUIS (upi)—Dave Soutar, a righthander from Gilroy, Calif., scored a two-pin victory over Nelson Burton Jr., of St. Louis Monday night for a $5,000 win in the $50,000 Bellows-Valvier Open Bowling Tournament.

The triumph was Soutar's third this year and eighth in his career.

Third place went to Dale Glenn of Los Angeles, who rolled a 223-214 last-game triumph over Bobby Knipple of Long Beach, Calif. Both Glenn and Knipple rolled perfect games during the tourney.

Horse Racing

NEW YORK (UPI) — Nijinsky, chosen as England's No. 1 thoroughbred race horse and valued at more than $5 million, is scheduled to arrive at Lexington, Ky., Tuesday afternoon to begin a new career as a syndicated stud.

In a two-year career, Nijinsky won 11 straight races before losing his last two.

Tennis

NEW YORK (UPI)—The $50,000 Pepsi Masters tennis tournament will be held at Municipal Stadium in Tokyo, Japan, Dec. 7-10 and 14-15.

The Pepsi Masters will be the largest tennis tournament ever held in Japan and will feature the top six players from the $200,000 Pepsi Grand Prix.

Football

NEW YORK (UPI)—The American Broadcasting Company has announced it will televise games involving nationally-ranked Ohio State, Auburn and Arizona State on Saturday, Nov. 14.

The ABC regional telecasts will include Georgia at Auburn, Ohio State at Purdue and Utah at Arizona State.

Golf

NEW YORK (UPI)—Billy Casper, winning $1,731 in the recent Sahara Open Invitational, boosted his earnings this year to $146,372 to maintain his spot as golf's leading money winner.

Lee Trevino kept his lead in the points division, with 1,336.1.

BASKETBALL ROUNDUP

Beaty, New Scenery Have Stars Streaking

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

There are streaks and then there are streaks.

The Utah Stars of the American Basketball Association have a nice, little streak going, a streak that has seen them win their first seven games, including Monday night's 119-100 decision over the Memphis Pros.

The Cleveland Cavaliers of the National Basketball Association are also in the midst of a streak, a not so nice one that has seen them lose all 11 of their games thus far, including Monday night's 141-87 drubbing at the hands of the Philadelphia 76ers.

The Stars are the same team which bowed to Indiana in six games in the ABA's championship round last season. They played out of Los Angeles during the 1969-70 campaign and the change of scenery seems to have worked wonders. Also not detracting from the team's stellar performances has been the addition of Zelmo Beaty, who sat out last season after jumping to the Stars from Atlanta of the NBA.

Beaty tallied 28 points Monday night, as did teammate Donnie Freeman, in leading Utah past Memphis in the only ABA game. Craig Raymond, who was traded by the Stars to Memphis before the start of the season, topped the Pros with 21 points.

The 76ers placed seven men in double figures as all 12 Philadelphia players saw action in the rout of Cleveland. Archie Clark with 21 points and Jim Washington with 19 led the way while rookie John Johnson paced the expansionist Cavaliers with 20. The 54 point difference was the biggest winning margin in the history of the 76ers but a crowd of only 3,022 witnessed the one-sided contest. It was the smallest crowd ever to watch the 76ers in their four years at the Philadelphia Spectrum.

Connie Hawkins collected 29 points and Dick Van Arsdale had 22 in leading Phoenix past Buffalo and sending the Braves down to their seventh setback in eight games. Phoenix held a 105-77 lead midway through the final period but the Suns failed to score a field goal in the last 6:18 of play, enabling the Braves to close within eight points. Mike Davis topped Buffalo with 21 points.

MERCURY IN FISH

Sacramento River's Pollution Danger

By LANCE D. MacARTHUR

SACRAMENTO — (CNS) — River fishing is one of those fine, relaxing sports where it feels like half a day passes every hour, and the water sloshes on the muddy banks in rhythmic patterns calming tense nerves.

The guy at the bait shop knows you, and everybody seems to know where "your" spot is, whether it's on the bank or anchored somewhere in the swiftly moving water.

There's a friendly atmosphere about the whole thing, and it means a lot to a whole lot of people to get the kind of relaxation this type of fishing offers.

SUCCESS

Each year during the striper and salmon runs, hundreds if not thousands of fishermen, in kayaks, boats, cabin cruisers and yachts as well as in waders, galoshes and bare feet, line up along the Sacramento from Rio Vista to Redding, waiting for the big ones.

COMPETITION

And there's a lot of competition among the "experts" as to who will catch the most, or the biggest, during the season.

For the uninitiated, this build-up as to the benefits of river fishing is necessary to get the impact of the enjoyment thousands of Californians would lose if such fishing were eliminated.

Although there are no schemes under foot to eliminate fishing in California rivers, and incidentally, such fishing is constitutionally guaranteed, the possibility of closing the rivers because of pollution is not that far-fetched.

Just last week, a federal-state environmental task force warned pregnant women not to eat fish from waters of the San Francisco Bay-Delta region because dangerously high concentrations of mercury could cause their babies to be mentally retarded.

POPULAR

The dangerous species, bottomfish such as channel cats and striped bass, are quite popular with sports fishermen, and represent a healthy percentage of the fish taken from the Sacramento River.

The mercury, which comes from various industrial wastes dumped into the river as well as being washed from mining operations of a hundred years ago, is not on the increase now, but development along the river is.

It is only a matter of time before other pollution problems crop up, and pollution controls must be rigorously enforced to prevent any buildups of dangerous chemicals in the river system.

The state legislature passed the most stringent laws in the nation with regard to water pollution during the last session, but laws are only words unless the general public, business and industry support them.

Intent and direction of the law is clearly written, but it is up to a well-conceived, harsh enforcement program to insure a growing, rather than a declining, quality of water in California's rivers.

Fishing means too much to many people to be even mildly threatened, and it would be painful indeed to see the banks of the Sacramento void of locals enjoying themselves in semi-retirement, vacations or after work.

'62 Series Films Will Be Shown

Films of the 1962 World Series between the winning New York Yankees and San Francisco Giants will be shown tomorrow night at the meeting of the S.F. Giants Booster Club of Northern California.

The dinner meeting at Rubini's Restaurant in Fairfax starts at 7 p.m., followed by the films, with Lon Simmons the master of ceremonies.

Persons should call Rubini's for reservations, said Boosters president Alan Murray.

Investor Influenced By Bargain Prices

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. I am 61 and retiring to care for my invalid brother. Could you tell me what my $1,000 E bonds bought in 1952-1955 are now worth? Also should I continue holding Fidelity Capital, Fidelity Fund and Puritan? I have a few shares of Fidelity Capital and 2,000 of the other two. — R. W.

A. Your E Bonds are currently redeemable at $1,288-$1,408 each. The recently added one-half par cent interest bonus will be credited at the end of each bond's semiannual interest period beginning on or after June 1, 1970. Since your bonds have been held through at least one maturity, the bonus will be paid when you redeem your bonds.

Your three funds are all members of the Fidelity Group. In the last decade their performance records have ranged from outstanding to average, depending on the fund's investment goal. The most speculative, Fidelity Capital, now concentrates on longer-term, high-quality growth issues. Thus, this fund, as well as the other two, is suitable for you.

Q. I bought Unicare at 5. It is now down a little and I am thinking of buying more. I am also interested in Gateway Transportation. Which do you think is best? — C.S.

A. Unicare Health Services, traded over-the-counter, is slow to release operating results, making it impossible to assess current operations accurately. At the close of its nine month period ended last February, revenues were up sharply to $17.8 million and net income, after special credit, was equal to 16 cents a share. Dilution from warrants, debentures and acquisitions will probably impede earnings growth, which has to date failed to keep pace with revenue expansion. I would not add to this issue. Gateway, another low-priced OTC stock, reported strike-related deficits in the first two quarters of 1970. As of December 31, 1969, current liabilities exceeded current assets. You appear to be influenced more by low selling price than by intrinsic worth in your investment selections.

Tobacco Firms' Nod To Tar Disclosure

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Major tobacco companies have announced they are ready to begin disclosing tar and nicotine contents of cigarettes in virtually all printed advertisements.

The Tobacco Institute, representing the industry, notified the Federal Trade Commission that the voluntary program had been drawn up in response to an FTC request of Oct. 1 to state how the firms would conduct one.

Eight companies signed a letter to the commission saying that in newspaper, magazine, billboard and other types of printed ads, they would "disclose clearly and prominently" the tar and nicotine contents as determined by FTC tests on each brand of cigarettes.
